Pa. CREP Doubles In Size

Northern County Sign-Up Began Sept. 2

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — During Ag Progress Days, conservation leaders announced that 100,000 more acres in 23 counties in the northern part of the state are eligible for enrollment in the conservation reserve enhancement program (CREP).

Sign-up began Sept. 2 for the 23 counties, which make up Pennsylvania's upper Susquehanna River basin from the central part of the state north to the New York border.

The first CREP was announced three years ago for 20 Pennsylvania counties in the southcentral part of the state. The expanded CREP includes all 43 Pennsylvania counties in the Chesapeake Bay watershed.

Pennsylvania's westernmost counties are also set to join the program, possibly within months. Those counties, west of the Allegheny mountains, are in the Ohio River watershed. Eastern Pennsylvania counties, located in the Delaware River watershed, may come on board at some point, according to CREP leaders.

Although the original program got off to "a slow start," officials say the newly expanded and im-

PENNSYLVANIA FURNACE (Centre Co.) — Nine-hundred beef producers in Pennsylvania are certified under the state's Beef Quality Assurance program — but only about 10 of them are dairy farmers.

That number needs to change, according to Paul Slayton, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

About 50 percent of the beef supply in Pennsylvania comes from dairy cull cows, Slayton has estimated. And about half of that beef goes for whole cuts, not just hamburger — a strong case for dairy producers making sure their cull cows are providing high-quality carcasses at the packing house.

A first-of-its-kind program in Pennsylvania can help them do it, according to organizers.

Slayton, along with other officials and beef industry experts, launched the Pennsylvania Dairy Beef Quality Assurance (DBQA)

Farm Science Review To Show One-Of-A-Kind Yield Monitor Simulator

LONDON, Ohio — All farmers, from large and small operations, can find their niche here at Ohio State University's 2003 Farm Science Review. This year's three-day trade show, Sept. 16-18, features a mix of exhibits that appeal to visitors of all backgrounds.

Farm Science Review visitors will have the opportunity to see a mobile combine yield monitor simulator demonstrating how field conditions can affect grain flow and combine yield monitor sensors.

The Ohio State University Department of Food, Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department will demonstrate the simulator daily at Alumni Park. This will be the first public appearance for the simulator, which started out as a student design project.

According to Matt Sullivan, Ohio State University Extension program specialist, there was a need within the industry and the department for a yield monitor simulator. "It started out as an idea of professors Reza Ehsani and Joe Walker to have students in an engineering class design a simulator for their senior project," Sullivan said. "Students did a design model and when the quarter ended, we started to build a full-scale simulator."

The simulator was developed to be used as a research, education and teaching tool to help people better understand the different components of a combine such as the mass flow sensor, grain moisture sensor, speed sensor and header height sensor.

"You have to understand the complete system from the ground speed to the grain hitting the mass flow sensor to get anything out of it," Sullivan said. "It's very important to understand all aspects of how a yield monitor works and how to calibrate it."

The simulator will be used in

THIS WEEK	799	952	2	0
LAST WEEK	744	1034	0	0
LAST YEAR	912	808	0	2

Compared to Thursday's very active market, slaughter steers sold mostly steady on Monday, with a very light (around 85 head) Tuesday run trading fully steady to firm; prices are a full 3.00 higher when compared to last Tuesday's run. Bidding was fairly active both days as prices for finished steers continue to impress even the seasoned farmer/feeders and buyers as high Choice and Prime steers are bringing from 86.00-89.00; with a few fancier singles flirting with 90.00. What is even more impressive is that prices are as high as they are the first week of September. This time one year ago high Choice and Prime steers were bringing from mostly 65.00-67.00 at the Vintage Sales Stables, with Choice steers from 63.00-65.50. Who would have ever guessed there would have been a 20.00 difference in prices a year later? The corn crop was also in bad shape this time last year as the hot summer temperatures combined with a lack of rain, and wrecked havoc on the majority of the fields. This year most farmers are worried about having too much rain, as corn fields have had more than an ample amount of moisture, and could use some sunshine. Unfortunately, the second day of September feels more like the first day of fall as temperatures have dropped, and more heavy rains swept through the area Monday night through Tuesday. A light test of Holstein steers sold with a higher undertone. Slaughter heifers were not well tested due to the mixed supply. Nationally, the spot CME September live cattle contract closed at 84.80 on Tuesday, with December at 81.37. The spot September feeder cattle contract closed at 96.42 on Tuesday, with January at 88.87; if the contracts are any indication, the next several months could be very bullish to say the least. Lean slaughter cows sold steady to 1.00 lower. Fleshier (65-80 percent lean) slaughter cows sold 2.00-3.00 lower. There were not enough slaughter bulls for a market test. The two-day run was comprised of 277 head of slaughter steers, 38 head of slaughter heifers, 378 slaughter cows, 10 slaughter bulls, and 8 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1145-1430 lbs 86.00-89.00, couple fancy individuals 89.25-89.75, few Yield Grade 4-5 83.25-85.00. Choice 2-3 1095-1475 lbs 83.00-86.50, majority 84.00-86.75 on Tuesday, Charolais- crosses 84.25-89.00. Few higher yielding Choice 1-2 1255-1450 lbs 87.00-89.00. Choice 4, some full 1230-1440 lbs 80.00-83.00. Select and low Choice 2-3 1050- 1405 lbs 80.00-82.75, up to 83.75, Charolais-crosses 80.00-82.50. Select 1-2 1020-1320 lbs 76.00-80.00, few heavy muscled as high as 85.00.

Holstein Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-3 1175-1455 lbs 74.25-77.50. Choice 2-3 1175-1510 lbs 68.75-71.25, better test on Tuesday 73.00-75.75. Select and low Choice 1-3 1105-1450 lbs 66.25-69.00, Tuesday 68.00-70.00. Select 1-2 1195-1485 lbs 64.00-68.00. Standard 1-2 1090-1375 lbs 54.25-60.75, few 62.75-64.25 on Tuesday.

Slaughter Heifers: Primarily Choice, few Prime 3-4 1085-1355 lbs 79.00- 82.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1015-1195 lbs 77.00-78.25.

Slaughter Cows: Percent Lean Weight Bulk Low Dressing Premium White 65-70 over 1600 lbs 52.75-55.00, 50.00-51.25 High Dressing 55.75-56.75 Breakers 70-75 over 1400 lbs 44.25-48.00, 39.75-42.50 High Dressing few 51.25 Boners 75-80 over 1200 lbs 39.50-43.25, 34.00-39.75 High Dressing 44.00-46.00 Lean (Hi-Yield) 85-90 over 1200 lbs 38.50-42.50 Lean 85-90 over 1000 lbs 34.25-39.75 30.50-34.00 Lean (Light-wgt) 85-90 over 750 lbs 33.00-37.75 26.25-30.00

Slaughter Bulls: Light test of Yield Grade 1 1110-2110 lbs 49.25-54.75, low dressing 42.00-45.75.

Calves: Compared to last Thursday's sale, slaughter calves sold sharply higher, with 90 lbs calves trading for as much as 70.00. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold mixed. Graded Number One bull calves sold steady on weights under 90 lbs, and up to 50.00 lower on heavier weight claves. Graded Number Two bull calves sold more uniform with the majority trading steady with late last week. Graded Number Three bull calves sold firm to 30.00 higher. Graded heifers sold steady with last week. Demand was mixed with lighter demand for the heavier weight, higher quality calves, and a battle over calves moving directly to slaughter, as many out sold the Graded Number Threes. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture graded 772 head of heifers and bulls for the sale, with an estimated 80 percent of the graded run going back to feed.

Slaughter Calves: Standard and Utility 80-135 lbs 60.00-70.00; 55-80 lbs 20.00-57.00, weaker 12.00-17.00. Returning to Feed: Graded Number One Holstein Bulls 122 lbs 127.00; 95-115 lbs 127.00-137.00; 85-90 lbs 116.00-117.00; package 80 lbs 107.00. Graded Number Two Holstein Bulls 95-115 lbs 120.00-127.00, package 103 lbs 140.00; 90-95 lbs 92.00-110.00; 80-85 lbs 62.00-85.00; package 73 lbs 40.00. Graded Number Three Holstein Bulls 80-110 lbs 52.00-72.00. Graded Number One Heifers package 114 lbs 385.00; 95-105 lbs 450.00-500.00; package 81 lbs 350.00. Graded Number Two Holstein Heifers 90-105 lbs 430.00-435.00; package 82 lbs 225.00; package 73 lbs 160.00; package 64 lbs 125.00.

Compared to last Thursday, slaughter steers sold fully 2.00-3.00 higher. The Tuesday run was very light, although prices were 2.00-3.00 higher when compared to the early week run as well. This marks the third consecutive week that finished steers have gained 2.00-3.00 at the Thursday New Holland sale. When high Choice and Prime slaughter steers bring as much as 93.00, there is not much need for a commentary to explain trade activity, buyer participation, farmer/feeder attitude, etc. It is worth noting however, that kosher demand was very good, with the packer demand not to far behind. The farmer/feeders who have had the nerve to put that extra 30 days of feed on them were all but speechless after they sold their steers at Thursday's sale. Everyone knows that the market has been spiking sharply higher over the last month, so these producers should be commended for not only having ice water in their veins, but also for continuing to finish steers that are second to none. And the packer and kosher buyers who are willing to pay up to 93.00 for the fancy steers should also be commended as they must have an awful lot of confidence in how good the Lancaster County cattle kill. No matter what side of the fence you were on at Thursday's sale, whether you are a buyer or seller, you can bet it will be a long time before anyone will forget what fats brought the first week of September 2003 at the New Holland Sales Stables as records were truly shattered. Holstein steers sold mostly 1.00-2.00 higher when compared to last Thursday, with the slaughter heifer run to light over the past several weeks to test the late week supply. Fleshier slaughter cows sold 3.00-5.00 higher due to a very good supply as well as good late week demand. Lean slaughter cows sold steady to 1.00 higher. When compared to last Thursday, slaughter bulls sold steady to firm. The supply included 575 head of slaughter steers, 564 slaughter cows, 88 slaughter heifers, 57 slaughter bulls, with 118 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1170-1490 lbs 88.00-93.00, mostly 88.00-92.10, few full 86.50-87.75, few Yield Grade 4-5 85.00-85.75. Higher yielding Choice 1-2 1110-1455 lbs 88.00-91.50. Choice 4, few full 1135-1340 lbs 81.00-84.50. Select and low Choice 2-3

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer

ATLANTA, GA.
September 3, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to good and sufficient in keeping seller offerings generally well cleared to short of immediate needs. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mostly desirable. Processor schedules were moderate to moderately heavy. Less than truck-lot asking prices were unchanged at 57 to 67 cents. Trade sentiment was fully steady to firm. In the parts complex, boneless/skinless breasts were fully adequate at some points, well cleared at others. Bone-in breasts were adequate. Tenders, boneless skinless thighs, and wings were barely adequate to short. Leg cuts were in generally good balance.

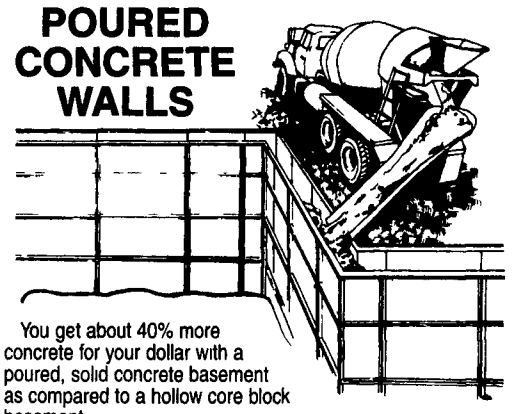
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
September 3, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.5914-1.8756. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.6141-1.8983 mostly 1.7278-1.8415.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8500-.9300. Class III, spot prices: 1.0300-1.1500.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 235, Out 0; Last Week: In 236, Out 0; Last Year: In 123, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This Week: In 40, Out 0; Last Week: In 10, Out 0; Last Year: In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

Milk production continues to decrease in most of the region. Contacts state that the heat and humidity in the Southeast continue to take their toll on milk output. In the Carolinas, route truck weights are dropping daily and this is at a time when the milk flow in this area normally starts increasing. In the Middle Atlantic area, milk production is about steady. Recent rains and cooler weather have helped milk output rebound slightly in scattered areas. Farther north, milk production is mostly steady at low levels. Milk supplies remain tight throughout the region. Florida handlers continue to import heavy volumes and handlers in other Southeastern states are also buying some outside milk. Florida's imports are nearly the same as last week, but contacts report that bottlers' plants are nearly full and expect needs for next week to be lighter. Last week suppliers in the other Southeastern states were really strapped to find enough milk to meet needs and had to reach greater distances to find loads. Typically, after a week of over-ordering by bottlers, cancellations are rather common this week. These cancellations are not offsetting the current tight supply, but they are helping ease the need for "distant milk." However, some milk was purchased to supplement normal supply shortages. Schools in the Northeast are reopening this week and bottlers are busy filling these orders. Many bottlers have eased back on their schedules after operating as heavy as they could last week. Surplus milk volumes are light and most manufacturing operations are adjusting schedules accordingly. A few reports note that cheese plants stepped up output, but most are not operating on full schedules. Butter/powder plant receipts are very light and the good call for skim milk and Class II condensed skim is keeping dryers inactive.

The condensed skim market is slow to fair. There is little interest for Class III wet solids, but Class II condensed is moving quite well. Prices are little changed from the past few weeks.

The fluid cream market remains strong and availability remains tight. Some extra cream is available from standardizing facilities (bottlers), but less is available from manufacturing plants. Some Western cream continues to be shipped across the country to supplement local shortages. Spot prices are mixed, but generally higher. The one-cent drop in last week's CME butter average was often offset by higher multiples. Demand from ice cream producers is easing along seasonal patterns, but the decline is slow. Ice cream producers who add shifts during the summer when demand and help warrant, are getting back to fall/winter patterns. Cream cheese output is about steady. Bottled cream production and sales are slowing seasonally. Churning activity is light.

Most lots of 40-60 weight pigs have a sliding value from the negotiated weight basis which is calculated on the actual average weight of the load plus or minus .30-.40 per pound. Some early weaned lots have a slide of .50-1.00 per pound. Early weaned pigs are under 19 days old. Estimated lean value is projected to use slaughter weights with normal confinement feeding conditions. Vaccination and health program values are not included but health status should be disclosed.

NFU Commends USDA On Implementation Of TAA Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union applauds the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announcement to implement the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) for Farmers program. They also commended Sens. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., and Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, for pressing this issue through Congress.

"National Farmers Union has long supported and championed efforts to protect producers hurt by unfair agricultural imports," said NFU President Dave Frederickson. "It provides some recourse for producers undermined by unfair trade practices."

The TAA program will compensate farmers and ranchers when commodities have contributed to a 20 percent or more decline compared to the average for the past five years due to import surges. The program already assists U.S. workers impacted by trade-related income losses.

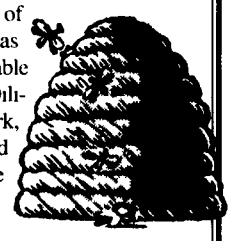
National Honey Month

Winnie the Pooh ate his peas with honey. Challah dipped in honey on Rosh Hashanah eve brings a new year of sweetness. Folklore lists honey under remedies for arthritis, asthma, bedwetting, coughs, sore throats, and weight control. The nutritional powers of honey are well documented (although children under the age of one should avoid it). Dreaming about bees has been interpreted as signifying riches or success in business, probably as a result of being "as busy as a bee" in profitable undertakings. Diligence, hard work, eloquence, and wisdom are the bee's domain.



Honey-Glazed Acorn Squash

2 medium acorn squashes
4 tbsp. butter, melted
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground allspice
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/4 cup honey

Preheat oven to 350°F. Wash squash, cut in half, and cut a thin slice from the bottom, if necessary, to make a steady base. Discard seeds and stringy fibers. Place squash in a baking pan with ¼ inch of water. Mix other ingredients and brush it on the inside of the squash, reserving some for basting. Bake for about 45 minutes, or until tender, basting at least once during cooking. MAKES 4 SERVINGS.

State Animal Labs Need Funding — Now

Last week's story we reported from Rockspring during Ag Progress should open a lot of eyes.

We noted that if Pennsylvania continues to try to operate its animal diagnostic labs at its current low level of funding, lack of adequate staffing, outdated equipment, and improper testing certification, Pennsylvania doesn't "have a chance of fighting disease."

Those were the words of Dr. John Enck Jr., state veterinarian, executive director of the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission and director of the Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Enck and Dr. James T. Rankin, state epidemiologist, state department of health, spoke in Rockspring at Ag Progress Days last month. They addressed the joint committee informational meeting, House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and the House Veterans Affairs and Emergency Preparedness Committee.

The threat of ag bioterrorism, or agroterrorism, is "greater than any time in our history," said Rankin.

Is Pennsylvania willing to risk what Canada just went through? One cow with BSE literally shut all Canadian ag exports down, costing the country $3 billion in lost income.

Then is the $52 million the lab system needs to get its status to ensure quick response time against disease threats such a bad investment? We think not. But how to pay for it? Increase the vice taxes? That's easy enough to say, for us who are nonsmokers, nondrinkers, and nongamblers, and those of us who don't use recreational game lands or drive down the highways.

To create a multibillion-dollar disruption, Enck noted it was "so easy, it's pathetic," he said to the members of the House and Senate who attended the meeting at Ag Progress. "I hate to say how easy it is."

Clearly, there is a clear and present danger from possible threats. Rankin noted its not a question of if bioterrorism will happen, but when. We need to stay informed and prepared.

To Scout For Downy Mildew In Pumpkins And Other Cucurbits

According to Penn State Plant Pathologist Dr. Alan MacNab, Downy mildew has been reported in Mid-Atlantic States on cucurbit crops (pumpkins, summer squash, zucchini, and cantaloupes). Most likely it is already present in the warmest parts of Pennsylvania and will spread northward. MacNab expects that this disease will be much more prevalent than in recent years.

Symptoms for Downy Mildew include yellow blotches on the top surface of leaves and sometime a faint grayish-purple mold on the underside of the yellowish areas. The yellowish areas die quickly, resulting in dead spots on leaves and a ragged appearance of the foliage. If appropriate fungicides are not used within a week of symptom appearance, a cucurbit planting could be affected so severely that it may appear to be damaged by frost! Timely fungicide applications are critical.

Downy mildew is not difficult to control with fungicides. Most cucurbit programs utilizing protectants (for example, Dithane, Manzate, Bravo, Echo, Equus, and copper) likely are providing some control now. With the increased likelihood of downy mildew, growers should now consider some of the materials that have some systemic activity. These include Acrobat tank mixed with a protectant, one of the Ridomil Gold mixture products (Ridomil Gold Bravo, Ridomil Gold MZ, or Ridomil Gold/Copper), and a new one named Pristine.

To Control Powdery Mildew In Pumpkins

Dr. MacNab reports powdery mildew appears every year and it is present throughout Pennsylvania at this time. It has appeared later than usual this year because of weather conditions that are wetter and cooler than normal. The white powdery growth on top and bottom surfaces of leaves is characteristic. Most growers can identify this disease.

There are many fungicides which can be used to control this disease, including Bravo, Echo, Equus, Nova, Procure, Cabrio, Flint, and Quadris. Consult the Pennsylvania Commercial Vegetable Guide available from your extension office for details.

Recently, powdery mildew resistance to the strobilurin fungicides (for example, Cabrio, Flint, and Quadris) has appeared in several areas of the U.S. This will be of concern to all cucurbit producers, because spores of the powdery mildew fungus are wind-borne long distances, thus facilitating rapid spread of strobilurin-resistant populations of the fungus. Where resistance is present, fungicides other than the strobilurin fungicides are needed for control.

At this time there are no reports of any resistance for other powdery mildew fungicides. Therefore, Nova and Procure continue to be good fungicide choices. It is expected that the broad-spectrum protectant, Bravo, will continue to be effective. However, since Bravo has no systemic properties, spray coverage is critical.

Another new development is that micronized sulfur appears to be quite effective against powdery mildew. One point to be aware of regarding sulfur is that it can be phytotoxic. MacNab suggests that pumpkin growers try some micronized sulfur on pumpkins this fall. (Note: Do not use this on other cucurbits at this time). MacNab proposes a 4 pound-per-acre rate when using an 80 percent wettable product (the label indicates a higher rate, but the 4-pound rate worked well in a Long Island, N.Y., test). In addition, MacNab reminds growers to carefully read and heed label precautions.

There could be some varietal differences in sensitivity to sulfur, and sulfur should not be applied when the temperatures are high. The label says it should not be applied above 95 degrees F. It is recommended to apply the spray at the lowest temperature possible. One micronized sulfur product that is labeled on pumpkins at this time is Microthiol Disperse, 80 percent wettable from Cerexagri. Benefits from use of sulfur include the potential for relatively good control, including some control on lower surfaces of leaves (possibly from some volatilization), the potential to strengthen our fungicide resistance management program, and a relatively low cost for a micronized sulfur application.

Starting Sept. 1, New York's limit for the retail price of milk was increased by 47 cents. The maximum price that a retailer can now charge for a gallon of milk is $2.94, except for New York City where the maximum price will be $3.16 a gallon. The price limit is the maximum price that a retailer is allowed to charge and is determined by a national pricing scheme that is predominantly based on the use of cheese and butter. This increase in the milk price limit anticipates an increase in the price that farmers will receive for producing milk over the next several months.

For farmers, the price they receive for milk is starting to recover from record lows and reflects a steady rise over the last several months. Much of this rise in price reflects a seasonal fluctuation of an increase in demand for milk and a decrease in the supply of

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A HOUSE DIVIDED

Background Scripture:
James 1:1-18.
Devotional Reading:
2 Corinthians 4:5-11.

The Letter of James is a puzzling book. It is unlikely to have been written by James, the brother of Jesus, because it reflects a time in the life of the church that is later. Like the rest of the books of the New Testament, it had no title when it was written and the heading, "The Letter of James," was appended later.

For a long time it was excluded from the New Testament canon, partly because of the question of its authorship and also because it was addressed to Jewish Christians in a time when Gentile Christians predominated. Yet, from what we do know about James, Christ's brother, it seems to say the kinds of things we might expect James to say.

Cast in the form of a letter, it is much more like a sermon or a collection of aphorisms (terse sayings embodying a general truth). Strung through the letter's 106 verses are approximately 60 imperatives, some of which seem quite unrelated to each other. It appears that there is no theme uniting the book. But, actually there is a recurring, uniting concern: the steadfastness of Christian discipleship.

The writer — whom we will call "James" — describes this kind of inconsistent and doubting discipleship as being "like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed by the wind." This person is "a double-minded man, unstable in all his ways" (1:6-8).

Double-mindedness is the result of inconsistent faith. The problem with this person, said Dwight E. Stevenson, "is not that he possesses no Christian convictions; it is rather that his Christian convictions do not completely possess him."

Sunshine Christians

To paraphrase Tom Paine, we are "sunshine Christians" but we can and must practice our faith even in the midst of trial. This is where the double-minded person reveals his lack of steadfastness. He believes in the power of Christ, but his fear is greater than his trust. In times such as these the double-minded man or woman will ascribe temptation to God, but James is explicit in holding that temptation comes from within ourselves, not from without.

"(He) himself tempts no one; but each person is tempted when he is lured and enticed by his own desire. Then desire when it has conceived gives birth to sin...." (1:14,15). Although God does not tempt us, he can use our temptations to deepen our trust.

I confess that I find it difficult to emulate James's attitude: "Count it all joy, my brethren, when you meet various trials, for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness" (1:2,3). "Trust in God," not "joy," is my best response to date. But, when I have managed to stand steadfast in the midst of a trial, then it is an occasion for joy.

I will not seek tests of my faith, but, when it is tested, and I remain steadfast, it is a victory over my double-mindedness. So, truly, "Blessed is the man who endures trial, for when he has stood the test he will receive the crown of life which God promised to those who love him" (1:12).

A Walking Civil War

In Matthew 12:25, Jesus says, "Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand." Many of us are like a house divided between what we say and what we do. We attempt to serve both God and mammon — mammon getting the edge. We are Christians in our affiliations, but pagans when it comes to business. We follow one who went to the cross rather than deny his mission, but we try to avoid crosses at all costs — yes, even the cost of our own souls.

One of the great authors described one of his characters as a "walking civil war." The civil war, of course, was the one going on within him. He was at war with himself, pulled in different and opposing directions, believing one thing, but acting out another.

Might that not be a fair description of what goes on inside us? Our Christian ideals are at war with our secular values. Our sense of what we ought to be and do may be at odds with what satisfies our lower nature.

A house divided against itself cannot stand. Neither can a Christian who is not steadfast in his or her faith.

Corn Yield Projections Rosy Despite Growing Pains

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Flooded fields, reduced stands, seedling blights, poor root development, leaf defoliation, hail and wind damage you name it, the corn crop has suffered through it. But despite the shaky growing season, early yield projections are rosy.

According to the Ohio Agricultural Statistics Service, yield projections as of Aug. 1 are at 142 bushels per acre. If the number stays true, it would make it Ohio's third-highest harvest in history behind the 147 bushels per acre harvested in 2000 and 143 bushels per acre harvested in 1992. The yield projections are already 40 percent higher than last year's paltry 88 bushels per acre harvested.

"The projection is a bit of a surprise," said Peter Thomison, an Ohio State University Extension agronomist. "With the soggy soils we've had for much of the year, we are very guarded about what to expect in these fields."

Thomison, an associate professor with the Department of Horticulture and Crop Science, said that early-season saturated soils played havoc with corn root development, resulting in shallow roots. Any late-season stresses on the crop, such as hot, dry weather or diseases, could still impact the crop, causing a drop in yields.

According to the Ohio Agricultural Statistics Service, the corn crop is five to seven days behind in development, mainly due to the cloudy, cool temperatures Ohio has been experiencing late in the growing season.

Poultry Guard

In Stock

Poultry Guard Litter Amendment delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments. Unlike other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation. Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance. In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower.

FEDERAL ORDERS LAG MARKETS

- July PPDs small, or negative.
- August advanced prices a disappointment.
- Class III futures still strong.

With all the discussion of higher milk prices, dairy farmers are disappointed with the milk checks they have been receiving lately. In some cases, there are negative numbers on the check, suggesting money is being taken out. And the most recent advance milk prices were a big disappointment. There is a reason for all of this.

First, let's discuss those low or negative PPDs. The PPD, or Producer Price Differential, is simply the "uniform" or "blend price" computed by your Market Administrator, minus the Class III price. In most months, producers receive a positive PPD suggesting a benefit from being involved in the federal milk marketing order program. But every once in awhile, the calculation for the PPD could result in a low or negative number if the Class III price runs up very quickly.

For example, PPDs on the July milk check, which producers received about Aug. 15, had a very low or in some cases a negative PPD. In the Northeast order, the July PPD was just $0.68 per CWT. In the Mideast federal order, the PPD was -$0.10 per CWT. For the Upper Midwest order, the PPD was -$0.41 per CWT. In fact, producer milk pooled in the Upper Midwest order went from about 2 billion pounds (with a 15.6 percent Class I utilization) in June 2003 to just 660 million pounds in July (with a 49.7 percent Class I utilization). Co-ops and/or proprietary cheese plants simply "depooled" their milk on the order just to avoid the negative PPD.

Why a low or negative PPD? Simply put, the cheese price used in the calculation of the Class III price rose rapidly from $1.1464 per pound in June to $1.3497 per pound in July. The cheese price is used to compute the Class III price. Thus the Class III price rose from $9.75 per CWT in June to $11.78 per CWT in July. And don't forget the Class IV prices. It rose from $9.76 per CWT in June to just $9.95 per CWT in July — not much of a change. Given the lags in the calculation of the Class I prices, the Class III price simply got ahead of the other class prices, resulting in a negative or low PPD.

Then there was the mid-month advanced payments that producers recently received. This partial payment is equal to just 15 days of milk shipments. Some producers expect this price to be a forecast of their upcoming milk check. Producers who were ex-

Pasture Perfect®
The Brand of Choice

QUALITY PASTURE MIXES For Graziers Who Expect the Best

Rohrer's Seeds offers two custom pasture mixes that provide both quality and flexibility for grazing and hay production the Pasture Perfect® Mid-Atlantic Grazer Mix and the Pasture Perfect® Triple Purpose Mix.

Mid-Atlantic Grazer Mix is an ideal blend of high quality cool season perennial grasses and highly productive and persistent clover varieties The grazing-type orchardgrasses and Duo festulolium give excellent cool season production and continue to produce well into the Mid-Atlantic summer The Starfire red clover and Jumbo ladino clover are very productive under grazing, and give extra nutrition for high lanimal performance

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
August 29, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending Aug. 29 — Total Receipts: 316,800; last week 420,300; last year 320,000. Direct: 86,800; last week 110,800; last year 97,300. Video/Internet: 12,200; last week 83,100; last year 5,600. Auctions: 215,300, last week 226,400; last year 217,100. This weeks reported auction volume included 39 percent over 600 lbs and 42 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, feeder steers and heifers sold steady to 2.00 higher. Some places calves under 500 lbs, especially fleshy and or unweaned, were steady to 5.00 lower. Feeder demand fired up by a red hot slaughter cattle market. Drought conditions continue to spread out and cover a wider area. Prospects for fall wheat grazing not looking too good. Scattered showers a teaser and quickly gone with 100 plus temperatures. Nicer weather promised for next week. The direct feedlot trade on slaughter steers and heifers another 1.00-2.00 higher this week; 81.00-82.00 down south and 82.00-83.50 up north with few in Nebraska 84.00. Boxed beef cutouts 4.00-5.00 higher with Choice late in the week 143.50. This is with slaughter running well over 700,000 head per week. Very good consumer demand for a wholesome supply of beef. Feedlots are current and slaughter weights 46 lbs below a year ago. Year to date beef production is 0.6 percent below a year ago but head slaughtered is up 0.9. However, there are some dark clouds on the horizon. Canada began to ship beef back into the U.S. this week. No live cattle crossing the boarder yet. Authorities promise there will be no flooding the markets and imports may not really get underway until December.

Despite some dry spots USDA is predicting a record corn harvest this fall. A lot of hay was put up in early spring before the rains disappeared. Live cattle futures following the uptrends and the CME Feeder Cattle Index is at an all time record high. A recent survey showed that 40 percent of the beef cow inventory is within an area experiencing a moderate or a more intense drought. This is delaying herd expansions. Everything is looking roses.

Dont even think about the consequences should there be a mad cow or similar incident in the US.

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — The junior livestock sale at the Somerset County Fair Aug. 23 brought in the largest recorded dollar amount ever at $267,172.75.

The sale of 340 4-H and FFA animals ends a week's worth of agricultural and entertainment activities at the Somerset County Fair in Meyersdale during the week of Aug. 16-23.

According to Mary Ann Sorber, fair board member and 4-H leader who has helped to coordinate the event for several years, this sale is one of the biggest livestock sales in the state of Pennsylvania and is a nice way to end the fair on a positive note. She also added that without the continued support of the buyers over the years, the sale wouldn't be as successful.

Somerset County auctioneers Kermit Stahl, Mike Knepper, William Arnold, Scott Mostoller, and Reed Luce started the sale off at 10 a.m. and ended at about 4 p.m.

In total, 41 steers were auctioned off for a total of $112,311, averaging $1.81 a piece per pound; 54 lambs for $18,302.25, averaging $2.94 a pound; and 245 swine for $136,559.50, averaging $2.25 a pound.

The first item sold during the sale was a "Dairy Basket," full of dairy goods, gift certificates, and other goodies. The basket was bought by Van Bremans of Somerset for $1,200, money donated to the 4-H Dairy Scholarship Fund.

The grand champion steer, owned by Shawn Troutman of Hyndman, went to Save A Lot in Somerset at $5.75 a pound, totaling $7,245. Troutman's beef also won county bred champion.

Reserve champion steer, owned by Lacey Murray of Garrett, went to Wheeler Brothers Inc. of Somerset, at $4 a pound, totaling $5,000. It was donated to Bethany United Methodist Church.

Beth Miller of Meyersdale sold her reserve county bred steer to Hoss's Steak and Sea House in Somerset for $2.50 a pound, totaling $3,387.50.

The sheep were the next group of animals to be sold at the sale.

Molly Enos of Rockwood sold her grand champion sheep to Swank Steel City Amusements of Pittsburgh, for $17.50 a pound, totaling $2,345.

Nicole Shultz of Rockwood sold her reserve champion sheep to the Animal Medical Center in Somerset for $5 a pound, totaling $620.

Elle Enos of Rockwood sold her home grown champion to Sredy Enterprises of Somerset for $4.50 a pound, totaling $553.50.

JOHN DEERE

VISIBILITY. COMFORT. CONTROL. ALL WITHIN YOUR REACH.
Whether you're lifting, dumping, stacking, or loading, a John Deere Telehandler is a perfect fit for your dairy operation. For instance, both rigid and articulated models offer an extremely tight turning radius (as low as 43 degrees) for unsurpassed maneuverability in tight spots. Rigid models feature three steering modes – two-wheel, four-wheel, or crab steering – to float in and out of cramped quarters with ease. And both models feature comfortable cabs with outstanding, all-around visibility.

Legendary John Deere hydraulics provide powerful lift capacity and fast cycle times. Rigid models let you lift up to 6,600 pounds, up to 23 feet high. The 3800 Articulated Telehandler features an automatic sideshift feature that lets you nudge the end of the boom right or left with the twist of the wheel for ultra-precise placement. Ideal for stacking bales. And both models feature self-leveling booms that steady the load throughout the entire lift cycle. See your John Deere dealer soon, and take your material handling to new heights. It's all within your reach.

4-H Roundup Culminates Livestock Events At Allentown Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Did they save the best for last?

For Allentown Fair-goers, last Saturday afternoon proved "culminating," especially after the major livestock shows were complete for the week. But champion county roundup exhibitors weren't done — the sales gavels hadn't fallen yet.

Last Saturday afternoon proved fruitful for Lehigh County 4-H'ers when their annual roundup was conducted during the Allentown Fair. Fifty-three animals — 30 hogs, seven market steers, six lambs, and 10 dairy beef animals — went before 147 registered buyers.

Before the sale, however, a moment was silence was honored in memory of Dale Grim, 65, who passed away on July 22.

Grim served 18 years on the fair board, including assistant superintendent and superintendent, noted wife Naomi.

The Grim family — including Naomi, daughter Ruth, and son Joshua — help coordinate livestock events at the fair.

Reserve champion [illegible] the Lehigh County 4-H Roundup, weighing [illegible] was exhibited by George Billig, New Tripoli, left, [illegible] for $600 to Dennis Hartman, Hartman's Butcher Shop, New Tripoli.

Lorissa Lazarus, Breinigsville, exhibited the 117-pound reserve champion lamb at the Lehigh County 4-H Roundup. The lamb sold for $160 to Arthur Schisler, Northampton.

precision agriculture classes to help students understand how to calibrate a combine and all of its components to get an accurate yield measurement.

"You have to teach people from a systems approach," Sullivan said. "If one sensor is not working properly then the actual yield calculations won't be correct. If you have bad data going in, then you have bad data going out and you won't be able to make any management decisions after that point."

One unique feature of the simulator is its ability to imitate hillside work. The clean grain elevator, which contains the mass flow sensor, can be moved forward, backward or side-to-side to simulate different angles and positions. When grain hits the mass flow sensor in a different direction, it may affect the calibration and the ultimate yield, Sullivan said.

Currently, Ohio State has the only mobile yield monitor simulator. The University of Kentucky also has a simulator, but it is immobile.

Farm Science Review is sponsored by Ohio State's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences, and takes place Sept. 16-18 at the Molly Caren Agricultural Center near London, Ohio. Tickets are $8 at the gate or $5 in advance when purchased from county offices of OSU Extension or agribusinesses. Children 5 and younger are admitted free. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sept. 16-17 and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sept. 18.

Think Big When You Think Food

The food industry and farmers are greatly affected by opinions and demands of consumers. While a farmer may be meeting the food safety criteria set forth by government agencies, product demand depends on the food safety perceptions of the public, said Stan Ernst, an Ohio State University agricultural economics program manager.

Consumer attitudes about food safety and quality, changing demographics and buyer policies all effect what food is being grown. They will be discussed during Ohio State's Farm Science Review, Sept. 16-18. An hour-long panel discussion, "Eat what we sell vs. Sell what we eat," will feature lively debate from three agricultural economists on Sept. 16 starting at 10 a.m. in the Tobin Building.

Recently buyers have been demanding more from producers because of the push from their consumers. Fast food chains, for instance, are requiring that animals be raised following specific guidelines, Ernst said. That might be frustrating for producers.

"We can look to Europe to see how all kinds of farm production is influenced by consumer perceptions and beliefs, which in the end, turn into demands," Ernst said.

"At the end of the day, it's a market issue that producers must deal with," he said.

"They can view it as they want-as a cost or a benefit. That will shape discussions they have with customers about public policy or marketing arrangements. But once the deal is done, producers have an option: they can get mad about the changes or they can look for market opportunities," he said.

The panel discussion will help visitors to broaden their perspectives and look at more opportunities. The goal is to make people think outside their comfort zones and personal experiences, Ernst said.

"The comfort zone in Ohio is broad, but not nearly as broad as our markets have become," Ernst said.

The panel discussion will focus on various pressures Ohio agriculture faces in a state showing continued social and economic change. Agricultural economist Ian Sheldon will moderate conversations with colleagues David Hahn, Neal Hooker and Brian Roe. All are faculty in the Department of Agricultural, Environmental, and Development Economics.

For a complete listing of this year's presentations and events, go to http://fsr.osu.edu/sched.html.

FSR To Induct Three To Hall Fo Fame

Two agronomists and one animal scientist comprise the Farm Science Review Hall of Fame class of 2003. Sam Bone, Larry Shepherd and Don Pritchard will be honored at the Vice President's luncheon on Sept. 16 for their contributions and dedication to the Farm Science Review. Combined, the three inductees have devoted nearly 100 years of service to the Review.

Sam Bone and Larry Shepherd are retired Extension agronomists from Ohio State University who began their Farm Science Review careers in 1963, the first year the Review was held. They worked closely together and were responsible for managing a 20 acre field at the old south plot. During their time at the Review, the pair started soil excavation exhibits, set up agronomy demonstration plots, and helped to introduce no tillage and conservation tillage. They were best known for their work with corn. "We had a large number of plots and we would try to demonstrate good corn production procedures and dates for planting. We even planted corn in February," Shepherd said.

Craig Fendrick, manager of the Review, said that the two used to fight like cats and dogs but they got results. "I can remember driving with the two in a car once, and we were going past cornfields. The corn looked like it had insect bites all over it and Sam and Larry started arguing about what might have caused it. I don't remember where we were going but I know we ended up being late because they pulled the car over to go inspect the corn for themselves to see who was right."

Bone retired from Ohio State in 1980 after working for 25 years as an Extension agronomist, but still remains active in Farm Science Review. He served as a past chairman of the program and policy review committee. Shepherd retired from Ohio State in 1984 after working as an Extension agronomist for 21 years in Ohio and seven at Michigan State University. Both Bone and Shepherd reside in the Columbus area.

Both men agreed on their favorite part of Farm Science Review. "Working with people from the industry, OSU faculty, Ohio farmers and people from the agriculture industry was very rewarding," Bone said. "When all of those people get together, good things usually happen."

"They're the Bopsy Twins," said Fendrick. "It's because of them we have a saying, 'Never put more than one agronomist in a room at the same time if you want to get an answer.'"

Don Pritchard is a past assistant extension director and faculty member of the dairy sciences department. Pritchard began his career at Ohio State in 1970 and began his involvement with Farm Science Review in 1977 doing committee work. Pritchard served on every committee Farm Science Review has and chaired the program and policy committee and the publicity committee.

"Don has had more administrative jobs than anyone I can think of, and he's never been on the payroll," said Fendrick. "Don did a lot of good things with some of the youth committees and he was also a great promoter of Farm Science Review among dairy farmers."

Pritchard was also instrumental in formulating the current agreement policy between exhibitors and the Review management. "Don came up with a good agreement between the sides," said Fendrick. "I make sure I thank him now when people come up and complain to me."

Pritchard retired from Ohio State in 1993 after 23 years of extension work. Pritchard lives in Virginia. Like the other two inductees, Pritchard enjoyed his time working with others at the Review. "Working with all kinds of different people of different disciplines and the collaborative efforts between everyone was very satisfying," he said. "It was also really nice to be able to highlight and showcase what the industry was doing to the entire state. It will always be really good press for agriculture."

Farmers Brand Veggies For Profit

You keep buying the brands you love and like most consumers, you use those brands to identify products and services you trust. In September, Ohio agricultural producers will have the opportunity to learn how to develop brands to increase sales of their products.

Mary Donnell, an Ohio State University Extension agent, will discuss "Developing a Brand Name" on Sept. 16 at 2 p.m. in the Center for Small Farms Building during the Farm Science Review. With the help of Ohio hydroponic vegetable producers, Donnell has developed the new Nature's Flavors Produce brand for hydroponic growers.

"In this competitive, global marketplace, local producers can use branding to help differentiate their products and educate consumers," said Donnell, who works for the Agricultural Business Enhancement Center in Bowling Green, Ohio. "New customers use a brand to find products that meet their needs. Satisfied customers use brands to easily find products for repeat purchases."

Developing a successful brand means growers have to do their homework so they know their customer and how that customer is going to use a product, Donnell said. Brand development revolves around the customer and the blend of products and services. Donnell will discuss methods of conducting market research and how to identify the benefits customers get from different products.

Nature's Flavors Produce gives Ohio hydroponic vegetable growers access to a brand that promotes locally grown, high-quality hydroponic produce. The new brand blends a distinctive logo and name with the message that the produce is grown by people right here in Ohio, Donnell said.

The brand includes each grower's name and location as well as the Ohio Department of Agriculture's "Ohio Proud" logo. Produce labels, brochures, recipe cards, and in-store signs are a few of the marketing materials that have been developed to support the brand.

A steering committee of hydroponic growers was instrumental in developing Nature's Flavors Produce. Members of the committee critiqued brand names and logos and provided information about hydroponic-produce buyers and consumers, produce labeling and benefits of locally grown hydroponic produce.

"We grow and process wonderful products in Ohio," Donnell said. "Branding and supporting marketing materials let producers and processors tell that story. During Farm Science Review, I will give producers some of the tools they need to develop a successful brand and product identity."

Along with information about brand development, Review visitors can learn more from Donnell about hydroponic vegetable production during an earlier session on Sept. 16 at 11 a.m.

Learn The Hoopla Over Hoophouses

Growers wanting the benefits of a greenhouse without the expense should look no further. Hoophouses-mobile, easily constructed greenhouses-extend growing seasons, can be maneuvered by one person and cost less than a typical greenhouse, said Lucy Goodman, co-owner of Boulder Belt Organics in New Paris, Ohio.

Goodman will be discussing hoophouses during Ohio State University's Farm Science Review, Sept. 16-18, near London, Ohio. Her presentation will include a small hoophouse construction demonstration and will be held Sept. 17 at noon and 2 p.m. in the Center for Small Farms.

"Hoophouses enable us to get a huge jump on mid-summer crops," said Goodman, who has been using hoophouses for four years. "We can have tomatoes ripened by the end of June and by July fourth for sure. And that's compared to August, the typical month for tomato harvest."

Hoophouses, because of their easy construction and mobility, are perfect for the small farmer, especially organic produce growers, Goodman said. Organic producers have to move their crops in rotation to limit disease and insect problems and the hoophouses can follow movement of the patch.

One person can put the hoophouse together without the use of power tools. This keeps growers from struggling with long cords and having to stay close to electrical outlets.

Hoophouses consist of metal conduit bent into hoops that are placed to form a tunnel over the plants. Trenches are dug on both sides of the metal tunnel and plastic is draped over the hoop-like structures. The plastic is then put into the trenches and covered with soil to keep the plastic in place.

One of the biggest threats to these structures is wind, which can whip off the plastic, Goodman said. While it does not happen often, blown plastic can be easily re-draped over the metal hoops.

While wind can be damaging to any type of greenhouse, fixing wind damage is cheaper for the hoophouse owner. The initial investment for a hoophouse is about $300, compared to a typical greenhouse that ranges from $1,500 to $2,000, Goodman said.

The structures also withstand snow, which melts and rolls off the dome structure because of the heat built up inside. During the winter, sources of heat cannot be used in a hoophouse-a disadvantage compared to large greenhouses. However, buckets of water placed inside the structures attract heat during the day and hold heat at night.

"That's why we chose to use a hoophouse," Goodman said. "Because during the winter you can get out of the weather and be comfortable-it makes it easier to go out in the cold and harvest."

The hoophouses have to be established before winter because they cannot be dug into frozen ground. Most years, depending on the weather, growers can work in the greenhouses year-round, Goodman said. Most growers will work up until about December depending on what they are growing.

Growers cannot plant just anything and expect it to prosper. Plant selection is important based on the season that growers hope to extend, Goodman said. For instance, brussel sprouts, and other crops that survive frosts are good in cool-weather periods. Strawberries, spinach, and other plants are better at getting a jump on spring weather.

Farm Science Review Visitors Help Autistic Kids

Visitors to Ohio State University's Farm Science Review will be pulling their weight and donating time for the benefit of autistic children. People of all ages will assist in constructing weighted fabric vests and blankets, to be donated to the Madison County Fairhaven School at the end of the Review.

Volunteers will find sewing machines, construction lines and Master Clothing Educators in the McCormick Building daily during the Review, Sept. 16-18. Sessions discussing autism and the weighted vests and blankets also will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 11 a.m. and Thursday at 11:30 a.m.

"When you do something for somebody else, you get warm and fuzzy feelings," said Bridgette Sloan, Ohio State University Extension consumer and textile sciences program manager. "In this particular project, you get positive feedback and service learning for all ages and backgrounds. It's eye-opening to kids and exposes them to different perspectives and cultures to help them better understand."

Peg Johnson, director of Madison County Mental Retardation Developmental Disabilities Children Services, agrees and is anxious to educate volunteers on weighted vests and blankets and their calming effect on autistic and other hyperactive children. The weighted articles apply pressure and stimulate the child's sensory system, which helps them to relax. This situation is similar to that of infants. Because of their immature sensory system, infants are comforted by even pressure from a blanket and swaddling.

"The vests and quilts offer sensory input and help the child to calm down and interpret all that is going on in their environment," Johnson said. "It's really amazing. Even when we wean them off the vest, some children will wear the empty vest just because it puts them in their comfort zone."

The special vests and blankets have pockets where weights are added. Weights are put in plastic bags and inserted into the pockets, which are then shut with Velcro.

Weights, which range in price depending on their substance, include everything from rice to beans to clay, Johnson said. The type of weight chosen for the vests depends on cost and the age of the child. For instance, beans should not be used in vests for younger children because they could cause a safety hazard if the pockets and bags are opened, she said.

Modeling clay is more expensive, but it heats up when the child is wearing the vest and easily molds to the child's body, Sloan said.

For the blankets, old T-shirts can be used to stuff the pockets.

The vests and blankets constructed during the Review will be made with bright, fun material. The vests will be made with pastel and primary colors, like normal vests, so to not draw attention to the child, said Sloan, who also is one of the project's coordinators.

Under therapeutic supervision, the vests are often worn during certain times of the day, such as play time. Using fun material will help the child enjoy the vest that much more, Sloan said.

"The vests are expensive, ranging from $60 to $100," Sloan said. "A lot of parents can't afford to purchase the vests, so they are only worn at school. This is a wonderful opportunity to give to those parents, or rather give to the therapists to distribute to the parents."

Sloan and her colleagues hope to construct 50 vests and blankets during the Review to donate to Fairhaven, which accommodates 140 children. Vests and blankets that are not used by the school will be taken to the Ohio Autism Conference later in the fall. A group of 4-H'ers will distribute extra vests at the conference and talk about the start of the project by a Missouri county 4-H club in 2000.

"I can see our parents who know their child needs a vest and can't afford it just being overwhelmed by this," Johnson said. "A lot of time families feel like they are out there all alone and projects like this remind them that they are not," she said.

Currently in the United States, about 400,000 people are affected by autism, Johnson said. Autism affects four times more boys than girls and symptoms usually occur before age 4.

CREP Doubles In Size

proved CREP will mean big improvements in water quality as well as significant dollar returns for the state's farmers and landowners.

"We got off to a slow start, and had some rocky areas for a while," said Robin Heard, state conservationist with the Natural Resources Conservation Service. "We haven't even begun to realize all those water quality benefits yet."

CREP is a voluntary program that pays participants to plant hardwood trees or establish grass filter strips, riparian forest buffers, vegetation, streambank fencing, and other conservation practices on environmentally sensitive land. In return, participants receive annual rental payments, cost-share assistance, and other financial incentives.

Richard Pallman, director of the Pennsylvania Farm Service Agency (FSA), the agency administrating the program under the USDA, said the program is being improved, especially in the type of land it will encourage to enroll.

There will be stronger incentives for enrolling "marginal" land not well-suited for crop production, Pallman said, noting that the program aims to keep the best land in crop production. Larger payments will be made on land with a high "erodibility index," a measurement that gauges the likelihood of soil erosion.

CREP has generated some producer concerns about landowners enrolling whole farms, including fields well-suited to crop production.

Some farmers have also taken issue with noxious weeds, such as Canada thistle, spreading via poorly managed CREP plantings.

One of the drawbacks of the original CREP was that there were "very few meetings" conducted to help get information out, Pallman noted. When the meetings did begin — about a year and a half into the program — the "meetings became contentious," he said, with farmers raising management issues.

The FSA hopes to initiate CREP in the northern counties with plenty of informational meetings from the start, according to Pallman. These meetings will ideally be offered by local agencies such as county extension offices and Farm Bureau chapters, he said.

Pallman said the program should benefit tenant farmers as well as landowners. Program leaders will encourage landowners to share rental payments with producers to help them maintain the CREP lands.

Farmers in the northern part of the state, particularly dairy producers, should be able to reap significant financial benefits from enrolling CREP lands, according to Pallman. Rental payments will likely average $70-100 per acre for CREP lands in the northern tier, he said.

Enrollment for the original 100,000 acres in 20 southcentral counties is "just about at its limit right now," Pallman said.

Charles Abdalla, Penn State associate professor of ag economics, also provided a brief history of CREP at the Ag Progress forum. CREP grew out of the original Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) first mandated by the U.S. Food Security Act of 1985. CREP was first authorized in 1996, with Pennsylvania coming on board in 2000.

CREP workers presented workshops throughout Ag Progress Days to explain details of the initiative.

Jeff Finn, Pennsylvania CREP biologist, said the program is shifting to award good land managers more than in the past.

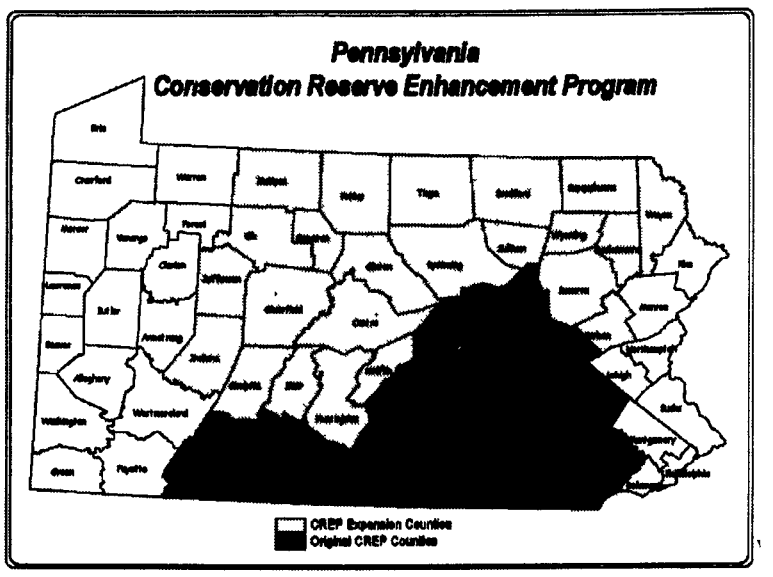
"(CREP) was pretty much like any other farm program — if you were doing a good job, there wasn't much help," he said.

One of the changes in the new CREP will be allowing the enrollment of productive hay land, he said.

CREP partners include the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Pennsylvania Game Commission, Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Ducks Unlimited, and Pheasant Forever.

"With over 71,000 acres planted to conservation practices, the Pennsylvania CREP is one of the most effective private lands conservation programs in the state's history," Pallman said. "Expanding the program to include additional counties will reap the countless rewards of reduced runoff contaminants, healthier wildlife, and cleaner water."

According to the FSA, the Pennsylvania CREP has prevented 1.1 million tons of sediment and reduced more than 1 million pounds of nitrogen and phosphorous from entering the Chesapeake Bay. In addition to filtering sediment and nutrients from runoff water, vegetation planted through the program improves water quality and provides shelter, nesting areas and food for various wildlife species, such as grassland birds and small game.



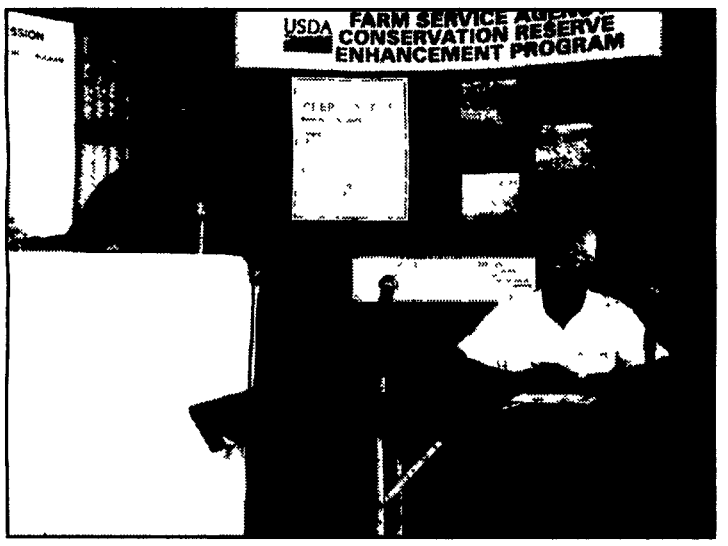
The map shows the entire CREP area in Pennsylvania, including original and newly eligible counties.
Graphic provided by Farm Service Agency

The original program, announced in April 2000, was funded at $210 million. The additional $200 million brings the total funding to $410 million. Of the $200 million, USDA is expected to pay up to $129 million of the cost of enrolling the additional 100,000 acres in the program. Pennsylvania's share is $71 million.

The states of Maryland, Virginia, and Delaware also have CREP agreements with USDA to help restore and preserve the Chesapeake Bay.

Interested farmers and ranchers should contact their local FSA offices for more information on eligibility requirements and application procedures. Additional information is also available online at http://www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/cepd/crep.htm.

Colleen DeLong, CREP biologist, outlines details of the newly expanded program.



Mike Linsenbigler, federal technical manager for CREP, touts benefits of expanding the program in Pennsylvania. Richard Pallman, Pennsylvania FSA director, joined with Linsenbigler and other officials at Ag Progress Days to announce that the program has been doubled to include all 43 Pennsylvania counties in the Chesapeake Bay watershed.

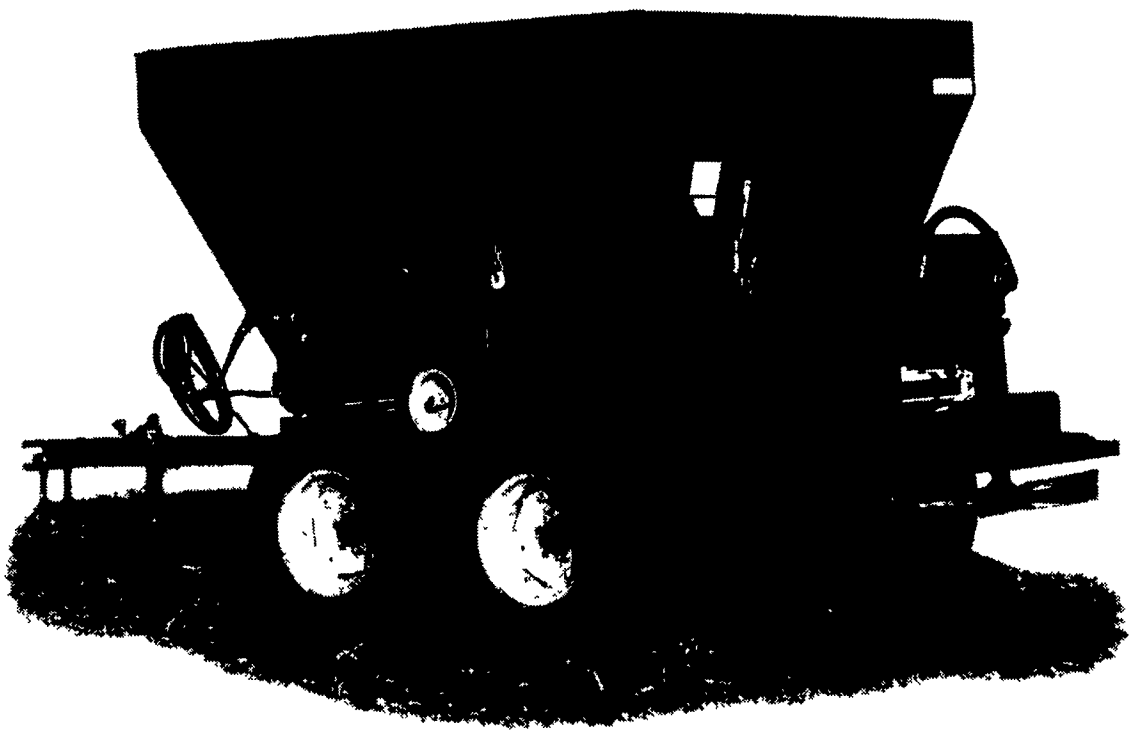
The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

milk.

An increase in demand has occurred because schools are back in session, and the need to make cheese for the holiday season. Most cheese processors have worked down their inventories and are building inventories for the holiday season.

On the supply side, there has been a reduction in cow numbers and recent hot and humid weather has decreased production per cow, especially in New York. According to the New York State Agricultural Statistics Service, the number of milk cows in New York totaled 679,000 head, down 1,000 head from July of the previous year and last month. Milk per cow averaged 1,500 pounds and was 35 pounds less than July 2002. Consequently, during the month of July, New York dairy herds produced 1.02 billion pounds of milk, down 2 percent from the July 2002 level.

Because of this increase in demand and decrease in supply, dairy farmers may see as much as a $3 increase per hundredweight for raw milk by year's end, effectively increasing the current price of milk from about $12 per CWT to as much as $15 per CWT. Milk producers in New York State received and average of $12.10 per hundred weight for milk sold during the month of July, up 30 cents from both the previous month and from a year earlier.

Consumers may see an increase from 10 cents to 25 cents per gallon increase for milk over the next several months. Retailers are indicating a reluctance to increase prices and that price changes will reflect consumer demand as well as the action of competitors. For the Rochester area, most retailers sell milk at or just above cost.

Jersey Wins Supreme At Chester County 4-H Dairy Roundup

The second-year 4-H member was excited to accept the award, which was presented in honor of long time 4-H dairy leader, Charles T. Wollaston. Wollaston has been involved in the Chester Co. 4-H program since the early 1940s and is still a leader of Melissa's 4-H Dairy Club.

Dwight and Melanie Stoltzfus, Berlin, judged the show in which 38 4-H'ers exhibited 112 animals. The fitting and Showmanship contest was judged by Phoebe Bitler of Fleetwood and Tim Robbins of Albrightsville.

Farm Link To Host Value-Added Workshop At Berks County Farm

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Link is hosting a value-added marketing workshop Sept. 13 from 9:30a.m.-11:30 a.m. at Meadow View Farm in Kutztown.

Owner James Weaver will share some of his value-added production and marketing expertise to help farmers learn how they can use these marketing and business techniques on their farms.

Participants will learn that successful marketing is more than just competitive pricing; it also takes into consideration family needs, community opportunities, and growth potential.

In addition to hearing about the Weaver farm participants will learn more about positioning their products in the marketplace, from Farm Link Director Marion Bowlan.

Meadow View Farm hosts an annual hot pepper festival that attracts 3,000-4,000 people annually. They have diversified their product mix to include jams and jellies from the farm's produce; and they offer related gifts, crafts, and canned goods.

The farm currently employs four full-time and three part-time people, including six members of the family.

Contact Pennsylvania Farm Link at (717) 664-7077 to register for this free of charge workshop, or to obtain marketing or farm start-up/transfer information.

Lancaster DHIA Announces New Field Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster DHIA has announced the addition of Dean Amick and David Bigelow to their field and support staff.

Amick started his career as a milk tester in Lancaster County in 1954. He moved to State College in 1970, upon accepting a position as manager of the Pennsylvania DHIA lab. Throughout the years, he has served in various management positions.

Amick will serve as a field coordinator for Lancaster DHIA, supporting technicians, dairy producers, and consultants, as well as doing sales work and circuit development.

Amick and his wife Shirley have two grown children and make their home in State College.

David Bigelow joins Lancaster DHIA with 19 years of DHIA experience. Bigelow will also serve as a field coordinator, supporting technicians and dairymen in Blair, Bedford, and Huntingdon counties. He will be responsible for sales work, along with computer support in PCDART, both for dairymen and consultants.

Bigelow and his wife Patty, along with their six children, reside in Williamsburg.

Dairy Beef, BQA To 'Marry'

program at the new Livestock Evaluation Center near Pennsylvania Furnace Wednesday.

The DBQA program will join with the Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) program already in place in the state, with a focus on best management practices for sending dairy culls to market free of carcass defects.

"We're going to marry our Dairy Beef Quality Assurance program with our Beef Quality Assurance program," Slayton said.

Dairy producers who complete a one-day training session will be eligible for a DBQA certificate and a BQA sign to display on their farm. Blue ear tags are also provided for market animals on certified farms. The idea is for meat packers to recognize the tags as a sign of good-quality slaughter cattle.

Slayton stressed that the certificate represents producers, not individual animals.

Eventually, DBQA should pay off in increased market cow prices for dairy farmers, according to dairy groups backing the program, including the National Milk Producers Federation, Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders, Pennsylvania Professional Dairy Managers Association, and the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

A major driving force behind the program is the increasing consumer demand for safe food, according to Slayton.

"Consumers demand safe food," he said. "They give us no tolerance. There's no element of apology there."

Food quality is also a big factor in the competitiveness of beef.

"Alarmingly, up until a few years ago . . .one out of four people ordering beef at a restaurant had an unpleasant eating experience," Slayton said. "To remain competitive, the industry must maintain or even increase high quality standards for our product.

"There can be no excuses by the industry, because there is no tolerance by the public."

A recent survey shows that the public has more confidence in farmers and ranchers than in government inspectors, restaurants, or meat packers, according to Slayton.

That's a confidence producers should build on, he noted.

DBQA elements include classroom instruction, cowside training, and a personal contract stating that the producer will adhere to best management practices. Certified producers will also receive a manual and a newsletter.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will conduct random "third party" audits of certified operations.

A major focus of the program is to teach producers good medical injection methods for cattle. Lesions caused by improper injections cause tough spots in beef.

According to Slayton, value losses from injection-site lesions increased more than twofold from 1994 to 1999.

The program also stresses good recordkeeping in all aspects of production, from feeding to medication. Drug residues are another important concern of consumers.

Abe Harpster, dairyman from Evergreen Farms, Spruce Creek, and a member of the BQA commission, spoke about the benefits to dairy farmers of becoming certified DBQA producers.

According to Harpster, a concerted effort on the part of dairy producers to become DBQA-certified will go a long way .

"What we need to do now is get a lot of people involved," he said. "It's a simple program. There are a lot of dairy producers already doing the things they need to do.

"We want Pennsylvania to produce the best market cow that's out there," Harpster said.

Dr. Larry Hutchinson of Penn State's veterinary science department outlined best management procedures.

Dairy farmers should view their slaughter cows not as cull animals, but rather as valuable market animals, Hutchinson noted.

"There are no cull cows anymore," he said. "We have production cows and we have market cows."

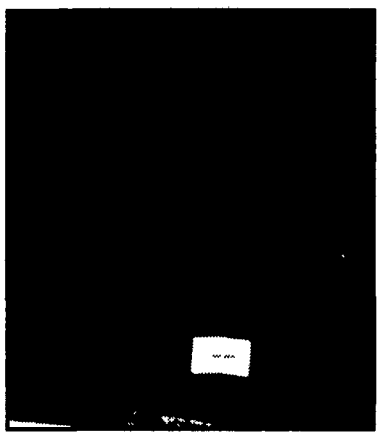
Dr. Celie Meyers of Taylor/Excel Packing Company, Wyalusing, spoke about beef quality from a packer's perspective.

"Quality assurance is all about meeting the customer's expectations," Meyers said. "DBQA can serve as a basis for continual improvement."

Also on hand for the program kick-off was Pennsylvania Ag Secretary Dennis Wolff and Dr. John Enck, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services.

Hands-on injection site and necropsy demonstrations were also part of the program.

A total of 80 ag officials and dairy farmers from across the state attended.



Abe Harpster, dairyman and member of the Beef Quality Assurance commission, urges dairy producers to pay attention to the quality of their cull cows.

Century Farm Applications Accepted

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Director Leon Ressler has announced that applications for Lancaster County Century Farm nominations are being accepted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"To qualify as a Century Farm, the farm must have been owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years," said Ressler. "A family member must currently live on the farm and the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holding or grow more than $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products."

Lancaster County has 142 registered Century Farms.

Century Farm information, applications and assistance in filling out the application may be obtained from the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601 or by calling (717) 394-6851.

Gor-Wood D Holsteins Shows Supreme Champion At Tioga Fair

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Southern Manor MDL Mandy-ET, an aged cow shown by Gor-Wood-D Holsteins, Mansfield, was crowned the supreme champion of the 2003 Tioga County Fair Open Dairy Show. With the title comes a $500 check sponsored by five area businesses.

A 94-point daughter of Lutz-Meadows E Mandel-ET, the 6-year-old Holstein is working on a record of more than 1400 pounds of fat and 30,000 pounds of milk.

"We bought the cow at the New Holland show and sale two years ago in October," said Gordon Wood.

Besides being named the supreme champion at the Tioga County Fair, she was also the first place dry cow at the 2003 Farm Show and was the grand champion at last year's New Holland show and sale. This year she was also named the grand champion at the Northeast District Championship show.

"We think the world of her. She's quite deserving of her records and her show records."

The naming of the champion marked the conclusion of a two-day show which was judged by Lloyd Ebersole, Tunkhannock, where more than 150 head representing seven breeds were exhibited.

The reserve champion Holstein was EsBern Fred Bunny Rabbit, a 5-year-old owned by EsBern Dairy Farms, owned by the Courtneys. The Courtney Family also took both premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards in the Holstein show.

Both the junior champion and reserve junior champion Holstein ribbons were awarded to Mary Mosher with Norkval Encore Lyler, a fall calf, and Norkval Red Marker Linny, a fall yearling, respectively.

In the Ayrshire show, Stefanie Long exhibited both the grand and reserve grand champions. The grand champion was 5-year-old Ter-Lin Jake Callie, and the reserve grand champion was Ter-Lin Limestone Rowena, a junior 3-year-old.

Chelsea Wood showed the junior champion, Wandering Eyes Dandelion, a spring calf. The reserve junior champion was Stefanie Long's Ter-Lin Wandering Eye Raleigh, a summer yearling.

Cha-San Farms, owned by the Johnson Family, won premier breeder and premier exhibitor distinction in the Brown Swiss show. They also took grand and reserve grand champion honors. Named grand champion of the show was Cha-San Progress Daisy-Mae, a 5-year-old. The reserve grand champion was DE Cass Di, an aged cow.

The reserve senior champion was GreenSlopes Beauty Blondie, a dry cow owned by Allison Gorenflo. The reserve junior champion was Allison Gorenflo's spring calf, Allison's Grand Cayman.

In the Jersey show, Normandell Farms, Liberty, was named the premier breeder. Normandell and Ty-Ly-View Jerseys were tied for the premier exhibitor award. Ty-Ly-View Jerseys also showed the grand champion Jersey, Ty-Ly-View Prem December-ET, a senior 3-year-old. The reserve grand champion in the Jersey breed was Rebecca Black's Pleasant Nook Flower Bud-ET, a senior 2-year-old.

The junior champion Jersey was Meredith Caldwell's summer yearling, Cassie of High Meadow. The reserve junior champion was Renee Norman's spring calf, Normandell Deliverance Skye.

Alisha Rucker showed the grand champion in the Lineback show with junior 3-year-old Rucker-Polar Brook Daisy. The reserve grand champion was Corey Yoder's fall calf, Janney-May Carlos Polaris, who was also the junior champion of the day. The reserve junior champion was Alisha Rucker's Rucker Polar Brook Dallas, a summer yearling.

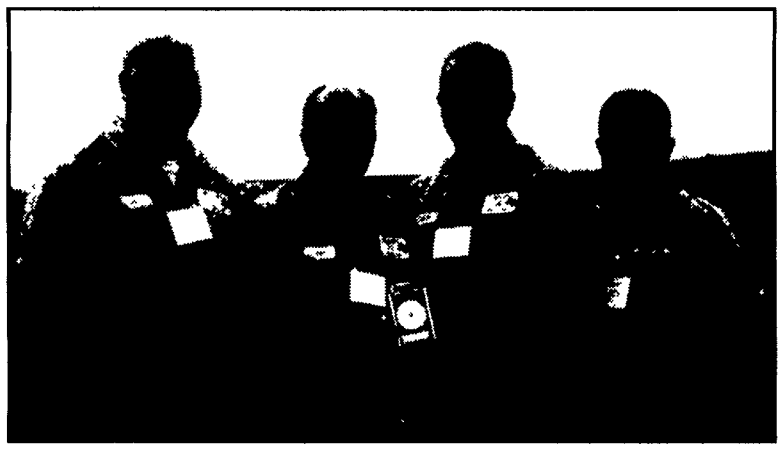
Mercer Vu Farms Is 2003 Pacesetter

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Mercer Vu Farms, Inc. has received the the 2003 Pacesetter Award sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders. The award was presented to Ron, Rick, and Rod Hissong at a recent Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania (PDMP) educational meeting conducted at Mercer Vu Farms.

The Pacesetter Award recognizes those who work to build a positive image of the Pennsylvania dairy industry and create a prosperous, marketable future for dairy producers and supporting industries. The Hissongs were presented with a commemorative brass clock for their achievement.

Mercer Vu Farms, a family owned and operated dairy, was nominated by PDMP for their proactive approach to getting regulatory and community approval for the recent expansion of their dairy operation. The farm is located within the town limits of Mercersburg, an historical and ski resort community.

The Hissongs designed a Website to explain to community members and neighbors their proposed dairy expansion. The site was a success and is now redesigned as a way to show people their new facility and to continue to educate the community and the general public about the dairy. The site address is http://www.mercervufarms.com.



Rod, Ron, and Rick Hissong receive the 2003 Pacesetter Award from Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders Director Chuck Cruickshank, right.

Mercer Vu Farms' mission is "to produce high quality milk efficiently, safely and profitably as to benefit management, employees, cows, the environment, and the community in which we live."

The Hissongs milk 820 cows three times a day.

"It is an honor for the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders to be able to recognize such outstanding producers as the Hissongs. They are evidence that the dairy industry in Pennsylvania is alive and growing," said Gary Heckman, Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders president.

Pacesetter Award nominations are accepted by the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders year-round. Nominations for this year's awards are due by Oct. 1. Contact Michelle Jaymes-Parks at (717) 948-6609 or HYPERLINK "mailto:michelle@padairystake.org" michelle@padairystake.org for nomination forms.

N.Y./Pa. Cattleman's Picnic Set For Sept. 14

ADDISON, N.Y. — The third annual New York/Pennsylvania Cattleman's Picnic is set for Sept. 14 at Hillsprings Farm, Addison, N.Y.

The picnic will take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Beef producers and their families are invited to attend.

J. Truitt, National Cattlemen's Beef Association director of legislative activities in Washington, D.C. will provide an update on legislation and animal health situations that affect the cattle industry.

H. Louis Moore, Penn State ag economist will also speak on the market outlook for agricultural products.

The event will feature chute-side demonstrations, a discussion on New York State's Beef Quality Assurance Program, and other special presentations:

This year's picnic will include a silent auction featuring a few select items of interest to producers. Proceeds of the auction will help offset the cost of the annual picnic.

Guest are requested to bring a dish. Beverages, table service, and roast beef will be provided.

Hillsprings Farm is located on County Rt. 85, five miles south of N.Y. Rt. 417 and three miles north of Pa. Rt. 49.

The event is coordinated by Penn State and Cornell cooperative extensions.

For more information, contact the N.Y. Southern Tier Beef Producers Association at (607) 523-7332 or (607) 776-9225, or Penn State Cooperative Extension in Tioga County at (570) 724-9120.

Va. Beef Cattle, Forage Conservation Field Day Oct. 10

WARRENTON, Va. — Beef cattle and forage producers are invited to attend the Northern Piedmont Beef Cattle and Forage Conservation Field Day Friday, Oct. 10, at Hill Crest Farm in Delaplane, Va. (Fauquier County).

Registration tent and exhibits will be open at 8:30 a.m., with the program running from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. A sponsored lunch will be served. The field day is a joint effort of Virginia Cooperative Extension, the John Marshall Soil and Water Conservation District, the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation, and private industry sponsors.

This field day will serve as an authorized Virginia Beef Quality Assurance producer certification meeting. Any producer wishing to be certified will have the opportunity to do so by attending the appropriate sessions. Private pesticide applicator recertification credit in Virginia category 90 will also be available to participants.

The morning program includes a diverse selection of topics relevant to the beef cattle and forage producer. Field plots demonstrating various fertility treatments and different pasture herbicides will be viewed and discussed.

Dr. John Hall from Virginia Tech will discuss replacement heifer selection, and give participants a chance to test their knowledge and visual assessment skills. A hands-on cattle working demonstration will give participants a chance to improve their knowledge skills in managing cattle health. The farm management and conservation practices at Hill Crest Farm will be presented. An industry trade show and equipment demonstration will be ongoing all day.

The field day is being offered free to all with an interest in beef cattle, forages, or conservation. However, to help ensure adequate meal and handout arrangements, preregistration is requested by contacting the Fauquier County Extension Office at (540) 341-7950 or keithd@vt.edu by Friday, Oct. 3.

Dealers, Local Farm Bureau Cooperate In Tioga County Field Day

KNOXVILLE (Tioga Co.) — A recent field day for farmers was actually a three-in-one event, according to the farmer and seed dealer who hosted the gathering on a farm near Knoxville.

Karl Kroeck has been hosting a Pioneer seed field day for years. This year, it worked out to join with two other groups, which resulted in drawing together a larger portion of the local farm community for the Aug. 27 field day.

One of the other cooperators was Kevin Houghtaling, the local Gehl equipment dealer who also hosts an annual field day.

'It just happened that last year we had our field day at the same time," Kroeck said. That led him to plan this year's event with Houghtaling.

The Tioga County Farm Bureau summer picnic was also coincidentally set for the same day this year, so organizers decided to come on board with Kroeck and Houghtaling.

Hay equipment demos were one feature of a recent joint field day in Tioga County. Photo by Tyler Hoover

Kroeck estimated that about 250 people attended the event, which ran from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and included lunch and drinks.

The focus of the day was on hay equipment and seeds. Binkley & Hurst Bros. of Lititz provided tractors to help run the machinery.

The scope of the equipment demonstrations rivaled Ag Progress Days, according to Kroeck.

"If everybody's happy, we hope to enlarge (the field day) for next year," he said. "Our basic goal is to keep the rural community together."

Md. Foundation Sets Golf Outing

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. — The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation (MAEF) will conduct their 8th annual Golf Tournament, Monday, Sept. 15, at Oakmont Green Golf Club in Hampstead, Md. Seventy-five to 100 golfers are expected to join in the fun to raise money for the Foundation's educational programs.

Players will gather at noon for a light lunch, followed by a 1 p.m. shotgun start. Format for the tournament is Best Ball and players will compete for a low numbered Maryland Ag Tag (under 100) in the Hole-In-One contest. Other contests include Longest Drive, Closest to the Pin, and team prizes. Dinner with a short awards program will follow the tournament.

Maryland agriculturalists and interested others may register to play for $100 per person and $400 per foursome. Corporate sponsorships are available for $100 or $450 with a foursome. Reservations are needed by Sept. 8 and can be made by calling the Foundation at (410) 939-9030 or by sending an e-mail to mstephens@maefonline.com.

Poultry Conference Sept. 18-19

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Poultry Sales and Service Conference will take place Sept. 18-19 at the Penn Stater Conference Center.

Coordinated by the Penn State Department of Poultry Science Extension, Thursday's program will feature presentations of general interest to all poultry operations and industry suppliers. Friday morning sessions have been separated into three divisions — broiler, egg, and turkey — to run concurrently from 8 a.m. to noon.

The conference will open Thursday morning at 9 a.m. with a welcome from Dean Robert Steele, head of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The speakers lined up for the morning sessions include: Jim Sumner, U.S. Poultry and Egg Export Council; Les Lanyon, Penn State Department of Crop and Soil Sciences, Paul Patterson, Penn State Department of Poultry Science; and John Enck, Penn State PDA's Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Dennis C. Wolff will be the featured speaker following lunch. He will address the State of the Union and Agriculture.

Other speakers Thursday afternoon will be Doug Goodlander, State Conservation Commission; Gene Gregory, United Egg Producers, and James Marion, National Chicken Council; and a poultry health product panel with Andy Long, Gene Burkett, Randy Wheeler, and Wayne Collins.

Activities scheduled for Friday afternoon are a golf outing at the Penn State Blue Course or a Clay Shoot at the Warriors Mark Wingshooting Lodge & Kennels at Ginter.

For more program information, contact Paul Patterson at (814) 865-3414 or Mike Hulet (814) 863-8934.

Guernsey Emerges As Supreme Champion

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG (Blair Co.) — A five-year-old Guernsey owned by Kendy Gable was the supreme champion at the end of a two-day open class dairy show held at the Morrison's Cove Memorial Park.

Named reserve supreme was a five-year-old owned by Cessna Brothers. Judge Jason Myers of New Windsor, Maryland said that each cow well represented its breed. "They both have outstanding frames," he said.

Cessna Brothers was also named the 2003 premier exhibitor and breeder.

Results of the colored breeds which were held on Wednesday were as follows:

Jersey Named Supreme At Northeast 4-H/FFA District Dairy Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — Eleven-year-old Rebecca Black, of Liberty, Tioga County, paraded her senior two-year-old Jersey into the supreme champion spotlight at the recent 2003 Northeast Pennsylvania District 4-H and FFA show.

More than 200 calves and cows from seven breeds were entered in the two-ring show.

"Glenn and I looked at the cows when they were full of milk and we're looking at them now, and we agreed on the cow that had it all," said David Castrogiovanni as he and fellow judge Glenn Tripp pulled Pleasant Nook Flower Bud-ET into the center of the ring.

Although this award marks the first supreme champion for Black, she is no stranger in the show ring. In her three-year dairy career, Rebecca has won showmanship and fitting competitions and has stood in competition for the junior champion prize, receiving the reserve junior champion distinction once. She has shown animals on the county, district, and state levels.

"The most exciting thing for me about showing is when you first go into the ring," she said. "You never know what's going to happen."

Grand champions from each breed were in contention for the supreme champion prize. In the Ayrshire ring, Monica Franklin's senior 2-year-old, Dazee View Spectacular Sassy, was the grand champion. The reserve grand champion Ayrshire was Amberleigh Yurkanin's aged cow, Wentworth-Farm Bonopaite Fawn. Junior champion Ayrshire was Kyle Sharer's spring calf, Heather-Brooke Pardner Pazazz, and the reserve junior champion was Kelsey Goodwin's winter calf, Locust Lane Savior Carlyn.

Abbie Kuhlman exhibited both the grand and reserve grand champion Brown Swiss. The grand champion was Victory Acres Naughty, a 4-year-old, and the reserve grand champion was Towpath Star Cara, a junior 3-year-old. Kurtis Page exhibited the junior champion Brown Swiss, fall yearling Rockyslope RL Banker Jentry. The reserve junior champion Brown Swiss was Devon Jones's Buttons Atlas Geri, a winter calf.

The grand champion Holstein was Rachel Bachman's junior 3-year-old, Wellwyn Encore Saundra. The reserve grand champion Holstein was Calkins Farm Pete Berachah, a 4-year-old owned by Randy Calkins. The junior champion Holstein was Mary Mosher's fall calf, Norkval Encore Lyler, and the reserve junior champion was Del-Hollow Leduc Malika, a spring yearling owned by Jordan Snyder.

The reserve senior champion in the Jersey show was Hannah Bachman's junior 3-year-old, Fernlea of Wellwyn, while the junior champion Jersey award went to Maria Noble's senior yearling, Nobledale Perimeter Vernell-ET. The reserve junior champion was Philip Bachman's summer yearling.

The grand champion Milking Shorthorn was Samuel Cole's White's TC-3, a dry cow. The reserve grand champion and junior championship went to Katelynn

'Land Swap' Plan Affects Preserved Acres

ANDY FASNACHT AND JENNIFER TODD
Special To Lancaster Farming

Editor's note: This story originally appeared in a slightly different form in the Aug. 27 issue of Ephrata Review newspaper.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata Area School District was still presenting its case for an ag preserve land swap before the Lancaster Board of Commissioners as The Ephrata Review went to press.

The hearing began at 9:15 a.m. Wednesday morning in Room 502 of the Lancaster County Courthouse. By 10:15 a.m., the district was still making its presentation and building its case for why it needs to have the land swap approved for a secondary access road to the proposed new Lincoln Elementary School.

"We are chomping at the bit to go out today and bid this project," Roger Brubaker, business manager for the school district, said at the hearing Wednesday morning. Brubaker then went into detail on the history of the project and the reasons the district was compelled to take this direction. Brubaker explained to the commissioners why time is crucial for this project which administrators say is already one year behind schedule.

"The Ephrata Area School District has an urgency," Brubaker said, alluding to the number of housing developments going up around the Lincoln area.

Recognizing that representatives from not only the school board, but also Ephrata Borough and Ephrata Township were in attendance, school district attorney Ken Notturno commented on the partnerships of the project.

"This is evidence of a communitywide planning process," Notturno expressed to commissioners.

Lancaster County Planning Commission's Ronald Bailey took the commissioners through their process in giving approval to the land swap earlier this year.

"We are here today trying to find a solution to a very difficult situation," Bailey said.

The land swap is crucial in that it gives the school district the area it needs to run a direct secondary access from Meadow Valley Road to the proposed new $18.1 million, 850-student Lincoln Elementary School within the 78 acres adjacent to the current middle school property. Both Ephrata Township and Borough recommended Meadow Valley as a secondary access after other alternatives were nixed for a host of reasons. South Market Street was actually the district's first choice for secondary access but was knocked out because of safety and traffic concerns.

However, the district thought it had the clearance it needed for Meadow Valley way back in October of 2002 when the Agricultural Preservation Board by a vote of 3-1 agreed to the swap of receiving two parcels of preserved farm land in exchange for taking one out. Later it was revealed to them that neither the county or state preservation boards had jurisdiction over the easement on the affected land on the David Z. Lauver farm but in fact it would be the commissioners who would determine the fate of the parcel.

And while Ephrata School Board President Dr. William Funk said Monday that Wednesday's hearing did make him a little nervous, Superintendent Gerald Rosati said the key is for all the information and history to be brought out that morning.

"I'm not worried," Rosati said. "I feel that when the facts come out and when the commissioners ask their questions that get clarification on what this district has done to show that we exhausted all of the questions we've been asked by the (leaders) of the townships and boroughs. We've partnered with engineers of the township and borough and we are coming up with the safest and probably the least negative option for that road.

"We hope to get the support of the commissioners — we have the support of all other agencies up to this point, even the farm preserve. We will follow the conditions they give us." Either way, both Dr. Funk and Rosati said Monday the district is committed to the project.

The district already has a tentative agreement in place that would allow the school to obtain the Lauver land in ag preserve by acquiring another parcel from the Nelson and Miriam Nolt farm and combining it with land the district already owns to make the swap.

Once they had the land swap approval, the district was able to apply for a conditional use from Ephrata Township to construct the school, which they received.

Administrators told The Ephrata Review back in October that the direct access onto Meadow Valley would not only be more cost effective, but safer. Indirect access would have involved two roads (Hammon being one) and the relocation of several athletic fields at the middle school complex.

'It's not only money, but the time to recoup our fields for the community," Superintendent Rosati said last fall. "I truly believe that when the preserve people saw that this was a community operation (with the fields) — if we had to move all those fields up to our new property it would take even more (land).

"We think it is much safer and it is short," said President Dr. Funk, also last fall.

School officials said Monday at the regular board meeting that the project is about one year behind schedule. The district had hoped to break ground on the project this fall in hopes that the 18- to 24-month construction period would conclude before the arrival of students from several new housing developments at an already full Lincoln Elementary on Apple Street.

Resident Bob Good came forward Monday night to ask several questions regarding the land swap, including the costs that are involved in the land swap which involves purchasing an additional 2.6 acres.

Business Manager Roger Brubaker indicated that the purchase price for the land would be approximately $25,000 per acre. The total cost of the elementary school project is estimated to be approximately $23,782,708 (less anticipated interest, the total would be $20,665,000).

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

pecting a big rise in the advanced price were very disappointed. But the advanced price is simply the lower of the Class III or IV price from the previous month. Recall that the July Class IV price didn't rise very much. Thus the advanced payment is a poor predictor of future milk prices.

What really counts is the final payment on your milk check (sorry, I know this is an obvious statement). This is the sum of the component values on your milk check plus the PPD. There may be slight delays in the PPD relative to the cash market, but it will eventually catch up.

For example, the August Class III price is expected to be $13.80 per CWT, a rise of about $2 per CWT from the month before. Also, the August Class I price has already been announced — it rose $1.20 per CWT from the month before. Thus the bottom line price on the August milk check will show significant improvement. Producers will receive this check on or about September 15, 2003.

For more information on how your milk check is calculated, see the Penn State bulletin "Understanding Your Milk Check." You can find this online at http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/FreePubs/pdfs/ua341.pdf. FALL TIME IS SHOWTIME FOR DAIRY AND LIVESTOCK BREEDERS IN PENNSYLVANIA

This fall, the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg will be the site of two shows of international recognition — the All-American Dairy Show and the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Both shows allow the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to celebrate the newly expanded Farm Show facility, and provide an excellent opportunity to see some of the finest animals in the world.

All-American Dairy Show

Conducted from Sept. 20-25 this year, the All-American Dairy Show (AADS) celebrates 40 years of competition in the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex. Six exhibitors have participated in all 40 shows and will receive special recognition by the department.

The All-American Dairy Show represents the very best in dairy genetics in both Pennsylvania and the nation. At AADS, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey, Milking Shorthorn, and Red and White cattle breeds will be exhibited. In addition, five breeds will hold national and regional shows in conjunction with AADS, including the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show, the National Guernsey Show, the Eastern National Holstein Show, the Mid-Atlantic Jersey Show, and the Eastern National Red and White Show. One of this year's highlights is the All-Breed Sale on Sept. 24.

As always, AADS will provide opportunities for youth to participate in the show. The seven breeds will conduct junior shows, and youth may participate in the Youth Showmanship Contest, 4-H and FFA Judging Forum, Career and Opportunities Night, the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, and the "Meet a Cow Day" for school children.

All-American will culminate with the annual parade of breed champions and the selection of supreme champion on Sept. 25. More information on the All-American Dairy Show can be found at http://www.allamerican.state.pa.us.

Keystone International Livestock Exposition

Pennsylvania will host the finest livestock and horses in the world at the 47th Annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), Sept. 30 to Oct. 6, at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex. KILE is one of the leading international livestock shows and welcomes visitors and exhibitors from across the U.S. and Canada each year.

The swine category will host the Keystone Classic Show and Sale as well as the National Junior Swine Associations Eastern Regional Show for the third year at KILE. The sheep show will feature three regional junior shows for Dorsets, Montadales, and Tunis, with seven breeds conducting ewe sales.

This year, KILE has been designated as one of six National Hereford Shows. Red Angus, Highland, and Texas Longhorn cattle will be returning for the second year at KILE, with Simmental, Shorthorn, and Limousin being sold for the first time. The Shorthorn Cattle Show will serve as the official State Shorthorn Show.

In the horse category, the Draft Horse Show will serve as a qualifying show in the North American Six Horse Hitch Classic Series. In addition, Quarter Horse and Appaloosa Shows will be held as a combined major horse event at KILE.

Finally, the collegiate and junior livestock judging contests, as well as the Keystone Stockman's Contest, will both be conducted during the exposition. For more information about KILE, please visit http://www.keystoneinternational.state.pa.us.

I hope you will come and see these fine agricultural expositions at the new Farm Show Complex. I look forward to seeing you this fall!

Annual Farm Tour Sept. 20

MARION CENTER (Indiana Co.) — The Indiana County Farm Bureau is hosting its third annual public farm tour on Sept. 20 from 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

The tour is free at the Pleasant View Farm (Tom and Tim Wallace) just south of Marion Center. Local agri-businesses and youth groups are invited to participate by setting up displays, bringing a variety of animals, or just by volunteering to help wherever needed.

The Wallace's milk more than 190 cows in a newly renovated parlor. They have recently built new calf and heifer raising facilities. Their feed is stored in upright and bunker silos. Milking and harvesting equipment demonstrations will be ongoing throughout the day. Tom and Tim are the eighth generation at Pleasant View Farm, which has been in operation since 1797.

Directions to the tour can be obtained by calling (724) 397-9117 or (724) 397-8115.

Retail Farm Market Bus Tour To Visit 5 Markets, 3 States

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The 6th Annual "Are You Crazy?" Retail Farm Market Bus Tour has been planned for Wednesday, Oct. 1, to visit five markets in Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

To provide examples of successful techniques and the opportunity to network with others in the business, Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Pennsylvania Retail Farm Market Association (PaFarm), the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association and the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture are conducting the full day bus tour.

Buses will be picking up participants in Dauphin, Lancaster, Allentown, and West Chester, and in Elkton, Md.

This year's schedule includes Milburn Orchards and Farm Market Elkton, Md.; Ramsey's Pumpkin Patch, Wilmington, Del.; Wolff's Apple House, Elwyn; Linvilla Orchards, Media; and Pete's Produce Farm, Westtown.

For more information, contact John Berry at (610) 391-9840 or e-mail market@PaFarm.com.

New Holland Farmers' Fair

New Holland extends to you a cordial invitation to participate in its 72nd anniversary of the Farmers' Fair.

Farm home and livestock exhibiters are encouraged to enter in our many categories and contests. Expecially needed are beekeepers to enter their products in the apiary division. Honey, comb honey, and beeswax categories will be judged and awarded premiums. Beekeepers can bring their exhibits to the New Holland Ambulance building, located on the corner of Roberts Avenue and Franklin Street. Also exhibited will be canned goods, eggs, fruit, nuts, jellies, vegetables, crafts, and wine.

Farmers are encouraged to enter in the hay, grains, and tobacco categories, which include grain and seed crops and six types of corn. Hay exhibitors can earn premiums of $12 for first, $10 for second, and $8 for third place. Tobacco exhibits consist of one lath, in three categories Maryland-type, Pennsylvania-type, and T-type, with premiums of $10 for first, $7 for second, and $5 for third. Hay, grain, and tobacco exhibits are located at the livestock tents at A&C Diffenbach auction lot across from New Holland Sales Stables.

On display at the tents will be show hogs, market lambs, breeding sheep, and group displays. Events for the week at the tents will be the swine show, Tuesday, Sept. 30 at 5:30 p.m. Sheep show is Thursday, Oct. 2 at 4 p.m. Also on Thursday, Grassland FFA will conduct its safe tractor driving contest at 1 p.m.

If tractors are what interest you, please take time to see our display and show of antique tractors. Owners of tractors 1960 and older can enter, with prizes sponsored by ABC Groff Inc. Many of the tractors exhibited can also be seen in the New Holland Farmers' Fair Spectacle of Bands Parade on Wednesday, Oct. 1 at 7 p.m.

Events at the tents will wind up on Friday, Oct. 3 at 6 p.m., when champion market lambs and swine will be sold along with other top quality 4-H and FFA livestock.

SOY-BASED BIODIESEL.

You grow soybeans. Your soybean checkoff helped develop soy-based biodiesel. Government and industry studies show it's good for your engines, the environment, and U.S. farmers.

Farmers are the second-largest consumers of diesel fuel in the U.S. So when you request biodiesel, fuel suppliers will listen. Ask your fuel supplier to carry B2 - a two-percent blend of pure, ASTM D-6751 quality soy-based biodiesel. It's available throughout the United States, so why not ask for it and use it?

Using B2 on your farm supports the industry's growth, by increasing the number of suppliers for high-quality biodiesel fuel. And, a B2 blend provides increased lubricity for your engines, a boost in cetane, and reduced dependence on foreign oil

Studies show that if every farmer used B2, we could utilize more than 50 million bushels of soybeans per year - the combined 2001 annual soybean harvests of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. Imagine the potential.

ASK FOR IT. PUMP IT. PROFIT.

DFA Meetings Sept. 11-12

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — In an effort to provide insight into market conditions, industry trends, and what cooperatives are doing to help producers, the Northeast Council of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) is hosting two informational meetings Thursday, Sept. 11 in Pennsylvania, and two meetings Sept. 12 in New York state.

Gary Hanman, DFA president and CEO, will be the featured speaker. The meetings are open to all dairy producers.

The first meeting is 10:30 a.m. in Greencastle at the Kauffman Ruritan Building off of Rt. 11.

The second meeting is 7:30 p.m. at Yoder's Restaurant, along Rt. 23 in New Holland.

"Because the dairy industry continues to experience a great deal of change and DFA has been actively dealing with this change on many fronts, Gary wanted to take the opportunity to talk with all interested dairy producers," said Lewis Gardner, chairman of DFA's Northeast Council.

The first Sept. 12 meeting in New York state will begin at 9 a.m. in Mayville, N.Y., at Webb's Restaurant on Rt. 394.

The final meeting will take place at 12:30 p.m. in Chaffee, N.Y., at the Hearth Banquet Facility on Rt. 16.

Corn Silage Drydown, Quality Clinics Set

Farmers: Bring Samples For Testing

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.) and PAXTONVILLE (Snyder Co.) — This year may be a confusing one for determining appropriate time for harvesting corn silage. Inventories are running short and the decision to chop early is tempting. Due to strange weather, crop was planted late and maturity rate is slower this year compared to recent history.

To assist in answering your corn and sorghum silage maturity and nutritional questions, Penn State Cooperative Extension and dairy nutritionists and crop consultants in the Central Susquehanna Valley have set aside several dates, locations, and times to assist in answering corn and sorghum silage maturity questions. Whole corn silage samples will be tested for moisture level at each of these sites. Chopped samples will be tested for moisture level, particle length, and quality of processing (if using kernel processor). Bring your corn silage (or sorghum silage) samples (drop off or wait for results) to the following locations between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

- Sept. 10 at Ritter's Feed Mill, Paxtonville (Snyder County). 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Sept. 12 at Union County Extension Office in Mifflinburg (Former Bank Building) 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Sept. 17 at Ritter's Feed Mill, Paxtonville (Snyder County). 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Sept. 24 at Union County Extension Office in Mifflinburg (former bank building) 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Information to bring with you and recommendations for sampling: Bring bagged or tied whole corn silage plant samples (cut from ground at normal chop level) from several locations in a field. Include both the corn grain and forage portions. We will run them through a bedding mulcher to reduce to a suitable size for Koster tester or microwave.

Bring a separate sample for each hybrid variety (note different hybrids mature at different rates) and for different maturity groups and planting dates.

As you start chopping, collect samples from chopped silage. We will check particle length (effective fiber), quality of processing (if using kernel processor), as well as moisture level.

Bring as much information with you about the following: planting date, hybrid type, maturity days, soil type, growing conditions, and topography (south slope, north slope, valley, etc.). We will summarize data with moistures and appearance and recommend estimated best harvest time range.

Please note there is no registration fee or producer cost associated with this program.

Pa. Agricultural Land Preservation Board Votes To Preserve 50 Additional Farms

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Dennis C Wolff, who chairs the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board, last week announced that the Board approved the purchase of easements on 50 additional Pennsylvania farms.

This brings to 2,245 the total number of farms preserved under the Commonwealth's farmland preservation program.

"This program provides an incentive to farmers who want their land to remain free from development and active in the production of crops," said Wolff.

Earlier today, Wolff, joined by officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, announced that Pennsylvania is receiving $3.9 million in federal dollars for farmland preservation efforts at the state and county level, the largest disbursement of federal farmland protection funds in the nation for 2003.

Statewide, there are approximately 1,700 farms seeking to have their properties included in the farmland protection program. The 50 farms for easements today are located in the following counties: Adams County (1), Bedford (1), Berks (10), Bucks (2), Carbon (1), Centre (1), Chester (2), Clinton (1), Dauphin (3), Erie (2), Franklin (3), Lancaster (5), Lehigh (2), Lycoming (1), Mercer (1), Monroe (1), Montgomery (3), Northampton (3), Schuylkill (1), Snyder (1), Westmoreland (1) and York (4).

Lancaster County Weekly Cattle

New Holland, Pa.
Report Supplied By USDA
Friday, Sept. 5, 2003

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2115	1719
LAST WEEK	2114	2119
LAST YEAR	2509	1557

This week in Lancaster County, opening prices for slaughter steers were mostly steady. Late in the week prices were another 2.00-3.00 higher as high Choice and Prime steers were as high as 93.00. The early week runs were light, however, the late week run included 575 head of nice hard-fed stock. Not only were records shattered in Lancaster County with prices up to 93.00, but several producers should have gotten a lock box to carry their checks home after the active Thursday New Holland Market; as farmer/feeders were averaging from 88.00-90.00 on their loads The western direct feedyards got the ball rolling on late Wednesday morning by moving their fats 3.00-4.00 higher in Kansas and Texas at 85.00, and from 86.00-87.00 in Nebraska. Dressed sales were 3.00-5.00 higher from 135.00-137.00. Meat markets had no choice but to increase as the price of finished cattle continues to rise. Choice cuts were at mostly 148.00 on Thursday, with the Select cutout value from 131.00-132.00. Live cattle contracts at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange were also higher as they try to keep on an even keel with the western live cattle market. Spot September closed at 86.30 on Thursday, with October at 84.90, and December at 82.77. The Holstein steer supply was mixed this week, with prices trending mostly 1.00-2.00 higher. Lean slaughter cows sold steady to 1.00 lower on Tuesday, with all losses regained on Thursday as bids were steady to 1.00 higher. Fleshier cows sold 2 00-3.00 lower on Tuesday, with prices a full 3.00-5.00 higher late in the week The Thursday supply included a nice run of Breaking and Premium White cows which drew good buyer activity Slaughter bulls sold steady to firm. The reported supply this week in Lancaster County included 852 head of slaughter steers, 126 head of slaughter heifers, 942 head of slaughter cows, 69 head of slaughter bulls, and 126 head of feeder cattle. Note: Weekly receipts due not include Monday's supplies, auctions were not covered due to the Labor Day holiday.

Slaughter Bulls: Yield Grade 1 1215-1835 lbs 53.25-60.75, low dressing 1120-1635 lbs 46.50-49.50. Yield Grade 2 1110-2110 lbs 49.25-54.75, low dressing 42.00-45.75.

Calf Summary: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter calves sold sharply higher. This is mostly due to an increase in the number of slaughter buyers, with the average kill price jumping nearly 30.00 in the last two weeks. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply lower on weights over 80 lbs, as the majority of the Graded Number One's and Two's sold as much as 40.00 lower. Holstein heifer calf prices held steady around 500.00. Northeast special-fed veal traded firm for the week, with good demand on light offerings. Sales ranged from 255.00-340.00, with a weighted average of 288.87, up 4.11. The PA Department of Agriculture graded 1316 head of heifer and bull calves at the two graded sales in Lancaster County this week, compared to 1410 last week.

Slaughter Calves: Standard and Utility 75-135 lbs 40.00-70.00, few from 72.00-75.00, weaker 12.00-35.00.

Ag Officials Endorse Expo

LAFAYETTE TWP., N.J. — On Thursday, leaders of the state agriculture departments from New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania endorsed the third annual Northeast Small Farm and Rural Living Expo as a way to help preserve farming in the Tri-State area.

The Small Farm Expo, a project involving agricultural, cultural, and tourism entities from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York, is moving to Warren County, N.J., this year after its first two outings in Pennsylvania's Pocono region. The two-day event will be Sept. 20-21 at the Warren County Farmers' Fairgrounds in Harmony Township, N.J.

New Jersey Agriculture Secretary Charles M. Kuperus, Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff, and Deputy Commissioner Rick Zimmerman of the New York Department of Agriculture and Markets, who represented Commissioner Nathan Rudgers, met at Ken and Julie Bechtold's Stoney Croft Farm with Small Farm Expo organizers to offer their support for the event.

"Most of New Jersey's farms are family-owned operations," said Kuperus. "While our average farm size — at 86 acres — is much smaller than the national average, our proximity to major markets offers unique opportunities for our farmers to be successful. The Small Farm Expo is designed to provide farmers with the information they need to establish and expand their small farm operations, and keep agriculture strong here in the Garden State."

"I am pleased to be here to support the third annual Northeast Small Farm and Rural Living Expo today," said Wolff. "As the foundation of society, agriculture is a very important industry in the United States. This Expo is a great partnership between agriculture, government, and business and is a great benefit for the industry."

"Small farms are a valuable component of New York's agricultural industry," Rudgers said in a statement. "Through the efforts of dedicated farm families, small scale agriculture will continue to be an important part of New York State's rural economy."

The site of the news conference, Stoney Croft Farm, has been operating since 1986. Owners Ken and Julie Bechtold keep 15 to 20 Jersey cows that supply milk for the farm's cheese-making operation. They own 21 of the 140 acres that they farm.

The Bechtolds, who will be presenting a seminar on cheese-making at the Small Farm Expo, produce varieties of Cheddar and Colby cheeses on their farm.

Gamagrass Tour Set

HURLOCK, Md. — Thursday, Sept. 11, the Maryland Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative will conduct a tour of the largest Maryland planting of eastern gamagrass at the Bill Edwards Bison Farm in Hurlock, Maryland.

Edwards depends on this little known native plant to supply high quality forage in large quantities during the hottest part of the summer.

Eastern gamagrass is a relative of corn, but has several advantages in Maryland's variable weather. It is a very deep-rooted grass that will seek out moisture deep in the soil.

The tour and talk will begin at 9:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the William Edwards Bison Farm at 7010 Hynson Road, Hurlock, Md.

Please contact Elmer Dengler at (443) 482-2922 if you plan to attend.

Kappler To Defend Jumper Title at Devon

DEVON (Chester Co.) — Chris Kappler, who dominated last year's Lincoln American Gold Cup, winning both the Friday evening grand prix and the Gold Cup Sunday, will be back to defend both titles Sept. 11-14 at the show grounds.

Fresh from winning a team gold medal and an individual silver medal at the Pan American Games in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, Kappler will be trying to win the lion's share of the prize money for grand prix jumpers at the Gold Cup, which is increased to $100,000, divided between two classes, the $25,000 Welcome Stake Friday evening and the $75,000 Gold Cup Sunday afternoon.

The all-jumper show also includes open speed, intermediate, junior, amateur, adult amateur, and pony jumpers competing for over $150,000 total prize money.

"The Gold Cup is one of the biggest shows we have all year," said Kappler. "It's a show we get up for, with a big class Friday evening and then the Gold Cup, one of the most prestigious classes of the year, on Sunday."

Saturday evening features the $5,000 Speed Challenge, a unique class in which the highest placed open, amateur and junior jumpers from each of their previous speed competitions face each other for top honors.

Although basically an all-jumper show, much like the shows in Europe, the Gold Cup does also offer four ladies side saddle classes, including the Zone 2 Championship.

Saturday is Children's Day, with pony rides and face painting. Children who take a drawing of one of their pets receive free admission on Saturday, and this art show is later judged and prizes awarded.

The family-oriented weekend includes exclusive boutique shopping for antiques, sporting clothes, fine jewelry, prints, paintings, and souvenirs available from over 40 vendors in the fairgrounds adjacent to the Dixon Oval.

Chris Kappler and Royal Kaliber will defend their title at the Lincoln American Gold Cup at the Devon Horse Show grounds Sunday, Sept. 14.

Boxes and reserved seats are still available. Reserved seats range in cost from $4 to $20, depending on the day. General admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children ages 5 to 12. Children under 5 are admitted free. For tickets and information call (610) 964-9316 or (610) 964-0550.

Organic dairy production will be a highlight of the Sept. 20 Lancaster Farming Dairy Plus booklet.

Scheduled: features on organic dairy farms and strategies for success in organic milk production from university. In addition, news and information from the breed associations and cooperatives.

Attention Alfalfa

STAND FAST™

Attention Stands Above the Rest!

Outstanding Yields & Unsurpassed Standability

Attention is a high yielding, persistent variety that carries StandFast™ Alfalfa Technology traits for improved standability and fast recovery after harvest. Attention is ready to cut 3 to 5 days earlier than other Fall Dormancy 4 & 5 varieties. Under aggressive management, Attention will likely give an extra cutting for the year and still exhibit superior persistence.

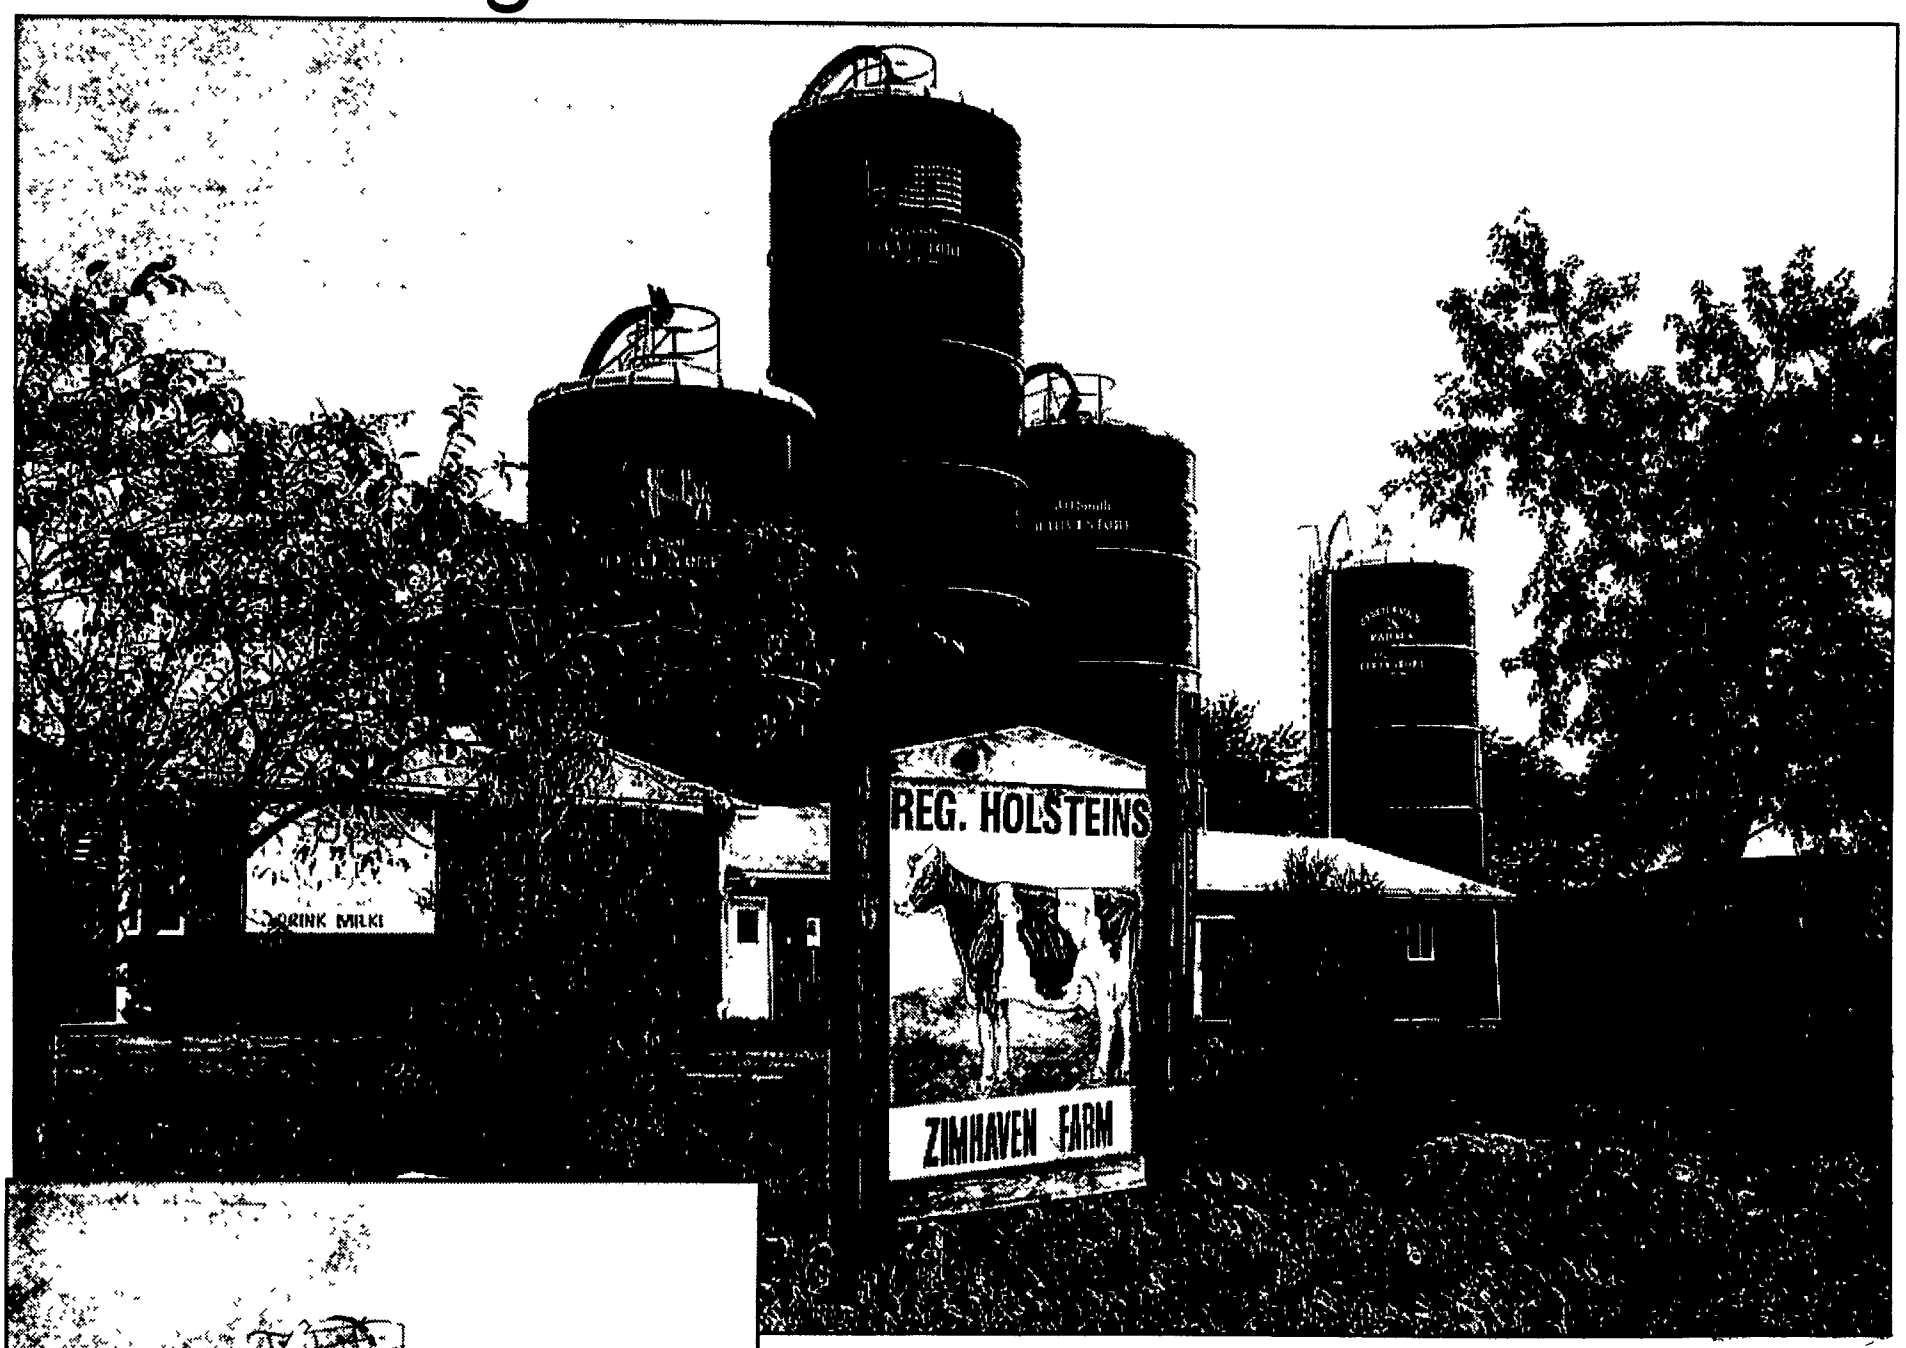
Mix One of Our Late Heading Grasses with Attention

Zimhaven Farms

Farming with Harvestore® since 1967



Harvestore pioneer D. Martin Zimmerman of Lancaster Co., PA put up two of the first Harvestore structures in the county, a 20x50 for haylage and a 20x30 for high moisture corn because he wanted the best possible feed for the dairy herd. In their continuing quest for the best, the Zimmermans recently had Penn Jersey erect a 20x60 Harvestore to replace one built by an unauthorized dealer that did not live up to their expectations. The picture at left shows Martin with son Dale, Dale's wife Barb and their sons Jeremy, left, and Jordan.

Dairy Farm Family Designs, Grows Corn Maze To Promote Milk

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — Loretta Duncan doesn't rely on professionals and satellites when it comes to designing a corn maze. Instead she resorts to graph paper and pencil to produce a maze that covers eight acres and has more than two miles of twists and turns.

Loretta has a few secrets — which she won't divulge — and lots of experience drawing mazes.

"I grew up doodling, drawing mazes, and challenging people to find their way through them," Loretta said.

In those days, she had no idea that maze drawing would eventually lead into an income-producing livelihood.

She and her husband DJ (short for Donald Junior) operate a 137-acre dairy farm in Robesonia. They have a son Luke, 5, and their daughter Jessica, 7, is the Berks County Dairy Li'l Miss, so it seemed natural to use the corn maze to promote dairy products. Thus, the message viewed from the sky reads " '3-A-Day Real Seal."

Maze visitors not only get to solve the challenge of the maze but also enjoy a 30-minute hay ride of the dairy farm and surrounding rural area. The ride stops at the calf pens for people who want to pet a calf. If guests are lucky, they may get to see a calf birth.

The 3-A-Day design refers to the recent national dairy promotional blitz that reminds everyone that three servings of dairy products are necessary every day in order to maintain healthy bones and teeth and to avoid osteoporosis.

Many visitors in the past years have tackled the maze, which opens Labor Day weekend through October and the first weekend in November.

"The maze is a family operation and we want to keep it that way. We want to keep everything low-key," DJ said. " 'Whoever shows up, shows up."

School groups, Scouts, families, and more show up to solve the challenge of the maze. Their choices aren't merely hit-and-miss decisions when faced with choices to turn right, left, or continue straight ahead. Instead, visitors on arrival choose one of three worksheets with multi-choice questions and answers. On paper, a question is designed for each turn. Answers designate left, right, or straight ahead, depending on the choices selected.

A person may wander around the maze for hours, but for the person who chooses the right path, the maze can be conquered in about 30 minutes. Of course, if someone gets desperate, he can cheat and follow a hand rope to exit the maze.

"But they are only cheating themselves," DJ said, "if they exit the maze early."

That's because the maze has some amazing features: a rain room where guests are misted with water blown by a fan — a refreshing cool-off on a hot day.

DJ said that he dreams up new ideas to add to the maze when sitting on his tractor.

The maze isn't the only thing groups get for the price of admission. Included is a 30-minute hayride tour of the farm and rural roads surrounding the farm, which includes a drive through the calf barn and time out to pet the calves.

Ice Cream Day is scheduled for Sept. 14, when the Berks County Dairy Princess and her court — which includes the Duncan's daughter — serve ice cream to maze visitors.

In the month of October, activities include pick-your-own pumpkin from the Duncan's one-acre pumpkin patch, pumpkin painting, and a pumpkin slingshot game. Seven-year-old Jessica operates her own tent where she offers face painting and oversees the pumpkin painting.

A bonfire is available for visitors, but small campfires will also be built by special request for groups. Soccer clubs and church groups often choose to have a private campfire.

"We don't serve food, but guests are welcome to bring their own, and even roast hot dogs over the fire," DJ said.

The maze is open to 10 p.m. on what the Duncans call flashlight nights, which means weather that is conducive to being outside. Special events are planned throughout the season, which include Trick or Treat night, Grandparents Day, and other events.

Although the corn maze adds more work to the Duncans' already busy schedule, it also offers them a chance to relate to the non-farming community.

Loretta said, " 'Dairying is a nonstop job. Milking doesn't stop for anything — not holidays, birthdays, anniversaries, illnesses — nothing. Often while I'm mowing on the farm, I catch a sight of pickups pulling boats or jet skis toward nearby Blue marsh Lake. It isn't really envy I feel because I chose farming as my way of life, but it makes me more aware that our lifestyle doesn't lend itself to having the time for many leisure activities. Seeing those boats is a reminder of that. Our life is dairying except from Labor Day to the beginning of November."

Running both businesses is a real challenge for the Duncans, which is incorporated with DJ's dad Donald Duncan Sr., who is semi-retired. He and his wife, Carol, live in the farmhouse. The younger generation have a smaller home on the property.

The younger generation do most of the hands-on work connected with the dairy, beef, and crop operation.

Donald Sr. helps with the spraying and fieldwork on the 350 acres they farm. He has long been associated with milk promotion. He serves on the board of Select Sire Power, Select Sires, Mid-Atlantic Dairy Promotion, and Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program Services.

On September 14, guests can enjoy Ice Cream Day with the Berks County Dairy Princess Pam Werley, Li'l Dairy Miss Jessica Duncan, and other court members. Ice cream day is one of the special events planned at Duncan's Corn Maze, Robesonia.

Although Donald moved to the farm with his parents when he was 12 years old, it wasn't a working farm. His dad was a salesman from New York who wanted to semi-retire on the farm. After Donald studied animal husbandry and agronomy at Penn State and served several years in the Army, he returned to the family farm to turn it into a working operation.

"We bought cows from Wisconsin because they had the best ones," Donald Sr. said. We started with 25 animals. In 1954, he made many improvements such as adding a freestall barn, a milking parlor, and increased the herd size.

"We were the first in Berks County to get a system that took the milk from cow to milk tank to milk truck," Donald Sr. said.

Additional barns and an updated milking parlor were added later. The herd size was increased to 100 head in 1978-1980. When DJ and his dad incorporated, they added calf and heifer pens.

The Duncan's named their farm Ardounie Farms, which is derived from the Scottish family name for "Dunkie."

"Our goal is to milk 150," DJ said.

Milking of the 120-cow herd is done by a Mexican family, who the Duncans have employed nine years.

"The Mexicans are really conscientious, and are good at detecting mastitis and other herd health problems. It works out really well," DJ said. " 'They have two kids about the same ages as ours, so they often play together and we help each other with babysitting."

Carol is bilingual, which is an asset in communicating with the hired help.

DJ feeds the cows and oversees the breeding. Loretta does the recordkeeping and calf management.

"We keep waiting for brighter days to come, but they didn't come yet," the elder Duncan said.

"Last year's drought and the drop in milk prices is devastating financially," DJ said.

The younger Duncans thought up the idea of the corn maze to supplement the dairy farm income. They also raise one acre of pumpkins.

The amount of maze visitors is dependent on the weather. If it rains during the day, people often stay away, but the maze dries out fast, according to DJ.

Every year, the Duncans update the maze operation. The first year, they pumped water from the creek and used a generator for electricity. Today they have a water line and electricity running to the corn maze located about half-a-mile from their house and barns. A refrigerator and camper is on-site for family members. Numerous white tents hold activities. The rain room is used as long as the weather permits, but when it turns cold, the rain room becomes a strobe light room.

The maze is well-lit at night. Another tent is filled with shelled corn about six inches deep, for kids to play in just like a sandbox. In fact, sandbox toys are included. "Kids love it," DJ said.

Bands play occasionally in the music tent.

"Our maze may not be as intricate as some that are professionally designed, but I think it's more family friendly," DJ said. "It isn't as commercial, and has lots of activities for the family in addition to the maze."

The corn maze is located on the Robesonia-Bernville Road, one mile from Rt. 422, or six miles from Rt. 183.

The maze is open every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in September through October, and Nov.1-2, from 1 p.m.-8 p.m. Admission is $6 for 6 years old and older, and $2 for 5 years and younger.

Special group rates are also available.

Pennsylvania's First Mobile Ag Lab Launched At Ag Progress

DAVE LEFEVER

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Gov. Ed Rendell and Pennsylvania ag leaders turned out to "christen" Pennsylvania's new mobile ag education lab Aug. 20 at Progress Days.

The lab-on-wheels is designed to bring exciting and important ag lessons to elementary and middle school students across the state as part of a statewide effort to better educate kids about food and farming.

Those on hand for the kick-off included Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Dennis Wolff and Carl Shaffer, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) vice president.

Ag Secretary Dennis Wolff gives his blessing to the state's new mobile ag lab. Looking on are Carl Shaffer, PFB vice-president, left, and Gov. Rendell, right.

The Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture Foundation, associated with PFB, initiated this pilot lab, which will travel to schools in Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, and Fulton counties beginning this fall.

The long-term goal is to add more labs across the state within the next several years.

Shaffer delivered a message on the ag lab's significance, speaking in place of Guy Donaldson, PFB president, who was unable to attend the event.

"With fewer and fewer children having a tie to agriculture, we saw a need to help teachers educate more students about the importance of agriculture," Shaffer said.

Tonya Myers, a certified elementary school teacher from Chambersburg, has been hired as a full-time teacher in the ag lab.

In preparation for her new job, Myers has completed Penn State's Ag in the Classroom course. She is responsible for developing the lab's curriculum and 50-minute lesson plans for kids in grades 3 through 7.

Students will participate in numerous science activities designed to help them get a handle on how food is produced, as well as some issues surrounding farming.

Hands-on lessons will have kids making butter, testing the water-holding capacity of soils, germinating seeds, acting as egg inspectors, and learning the basics of genetics and biotechnology, to name a few.

Thousands of Ag Progress Days visitors toured the lab, including Gov. Rendell.

"It's great," said the governor on completing the lab tour.

In his speech prior to the ribbon-cutting ceremony, Rendell noted that agriculture, with 800,000 workers in the state, is Pennsylvania's largest employer. Education is key to keeping the ag industry thriving — for those in agriculture, as well as the public in general, he said.

"This lab is a great step in the right direction," Rendell said.

The goal, he said, is to eventually have eight labs across the state.

According to Myers, the lab will travel from school to school, setting up for a week or more in each place. One district has scheduled the lab for four weeks this fall.

Gov. Ed Rendell, right, cuts ribbon marking the official launch of Pennsylvania's first mobile ag lab at Ag Progress Days. Joining him are Carl Shaffer, Pennsylvania Fam Bureau vice president, and Tonya Myers, ag lab teacher.

The lab has the potential to educate up to 900 students per week on how agriculture affects our everyday lives.

As of Aug. 20, the lab has been scheduled for about eight weeks in the coming school year, Myers said, with the goal of booking about 18 weeks total.

"We have openings throughout the year," Myers said.

To learn more about developing ag education science labs, supporting the ag lab, or bringing the ag lab to your local school district, call PFB's Member Relations Division at (717) 761-2740.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

It's that delightful time of year.

Breezes pick up and evenings cool down for comfortable sleeping under a light cover. Chrysanthemums burst into colorful, long-lasting blossoms. And the new lineup of fall television shows debut, including the latest in "reality" show programming.

Frankly, we could hardly care less about reality television.

Our remote is heavily worn toward The Weather Channel and informational/public/education-oriented programming. No doubt we are in a small minority, whose "reality" watching focuses on the evening news. Still, given the amazing popularity of reality television, perhaps these producers are missing the boat.

How about a farming "reality" series? The possibilities are endless, incorporating drama, education, human interest, geography, science, education, not to mention popular animal humor.

We could open the season with a segment labeled "Double Trouble," detailing the drama, cuteness and frustration of three sets — count 'em — of twin calves born here in the last month. Several of them weighed in at about half the size of a normal Holstein calf. "Double Trouble" is that each set was one male and one female.

In cattle, a heifer (girl calf) born twin to a bull (boy calf) lacks reproductive organs about 95 percent of the time, making her naturally neutered. And, cows that deliver twins almost always have health complications of some sort, especially during the extreme heat of recent weeks. That's reality.

Then we could follow with our own sort of NASCAR excitement segment, featuring The Farmer as he recently raced with the clock and a rain deluge to get from one vendor to another for a much-needed haybine part. To his relief — and the dealer's sales staff irritation no doubt — he dashed through their door just as they were locking up and turning off the lights. Hero of that segment is the parts specialist who cheerfully hung around long enough to pull from stock the repair piece he needed.

Our "X-Ag" segment will showcase farm-team extreme sports. Included are competitions of find-and-chase-heifers cross-country relays (run in early-morning fog), the fencing finals in which contestants race with the clock in digging post holes and stretching wire, and the hay-baling/hauling/stacking in a 98-degree barn iron-man playoffs.

Every reality series needs a bit of "love" angle, plus some affection and cuteness. "Reality Farming" will periodically touch on the love-life triangle of our turkey trio and the adorably-cute litter of roly-poly kittens endangering walking at the calf barn.

We also plan to include a hilarious piece based on farm banking, with our characters running around in typical sitcom silliness trying to pay their bills based on 25-year-low recent milk prices and income from a rain-sodden and badly-damaged summer wheat crop.

Our "reality" series will even have a cooking piece Current plan is to include directions for simple and delicious basics. We'll start with a recent dessert speciality which appeared on our kitchen country recently, Fresh Peach Crisp.

This tasty speciality originated in the kitchen of our daughter...who shipped it home with The Farmer...who parked it on the front seat of his farm pickup...which had recently been vacated by the crew of grandchildren...who had released the front passenger-side seat to get out, but who had not completely pushed the seat back into lock position...and the seat flipped front...and the peach dessert flipped upside down onto the floor mat. The Farmer simply picked up the floor mat and flipped the whole thing back over, then parked it in the kitchen.

This was, by the way, all unkonwn to me when I happily cut a wedge for breakfast the next morning. And it was delicious. however, it needed to be renamed. Something like Peach Flip. Or, Peach Crunch.

On second thought, this "reality" series will probably fall flat on its face.

Just too much reality.

How To Rear Boys

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. James Dobson, a recognized authority on Christian family issues, can be seen live via satellite on Tuesday, Sept. 9, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 301 St. Thomas Road, Lancaster.

The cost is $5 per person or $7.50 per couple. Child care will be available. Dr. Dobson will be discussing the important issues involved in "Bringing Up Boys," the title of his latest book.

For tickets or more information, call the church office, (717) 569-3241.

AgrAbility Announces $100 Winners From Ag Progress Days

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Three industrious visitors to Penn State's Ag Progress Days (APD) recently received a $100 check in the mail.

The prize winners participated in a contest sponsored by AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians, which provides support to farmers and farm family members struggling with a long term illness or injury. The prize winners include Warren Hudson of Wenonah, N.J.; Dale Leighow of Catawissa; and Omar Lapp, Myerstown.

The contest required entrants to visit with 10 of 14 identified "AgrAbility Partners" who also exhibited at APD. Participating partners included Agromedicine, American Trauma Society, Best Line Leasing, Bergman Manufacturing, Blazing Technologies, DeLaval, Genex Cooperative, PA Grange, Hoober's Equipment, Jiffy Hitch Systems, Land O'Lakes, Ryder Supply Co., Valley Equipment Supply, and Walters Enterprises. Entry forms were available in the APD editions of Lancaster Farming or could be picked up during the event at the APD Information Booth and from any of the participating partner locations.

AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians assists farmers and farm family members who are coping with a disability or health condition. The project is funded through a grant of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and is conducted in Pennsylvania through a partnership between Easter Seals Central Pennsylvania and Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions.

Preserving Unusual Vegetables

Have you grown any of these vegetables in your garden? Here are some suggestions for preserving some of the less commonly grown vegetables.

Eggplant can be frozen or dried. It should be harvested before the seeds become mature and when the color is uniformly dark. To prevent oxidation, wash, peel and slice ⅓-inch thick only enough eggplant for one blanching at a time. For freezing, water blanch 4 minutes in one gallon of boiling water to which cup lemon juice has been added. Cool, drain and package, leaving -inch headspace. Seal and freeze. Pack the drained slices with freezer wrap between the slices if you plan to use it for frying.

Red beets to be canned are commonly pickled because the added vinegar allows them to be processed in a boiling water bath. Plain beets must be processed in a pressure canner at 11 pounds pressure for 30 minutes for pints and 35 minutes for quarts. Younger red beets that are 1 to 2 inches are preferred for preserving because they are tender. Beets larger than 3 inches in diameter are often fibrous. To prepare beets, cut off tops, leaving an inch or two of stem and the root to reduce color loss. Scrub well and cover with boiling water. Boil about 15 to 25 minutes or until skins slip off easily. Cool, remove skins and trim off root and stem. Do not use the cooking liquid for canning or in the pickling solution—that water is dirty. Use clean water to fill jars or in the pickling brine. For canning or pickling, small beets can be left whole. Larger beets can be cut into slices or -inch cubes. Halve or quarter very large slices.

Cooked beets may be frozen but most people prefer them canned. Make a test batch to see if you like the texture before freezing a large quantity. To freeze them, cook the beets as you normally would, skin, slice or dice and freeze.

The thickened base of the kohlrabi stem is the edible portion that is used. Select stems when fully grown but tender—about 2 to 3 inches in diameter. Cut off tops and roots. Wash and peel off the tough bark. Leave whole or dice in inch cubes. Water blanch whole kohlrabi 3 minutes and cubes 1 minute. Cool, drain, and package, leaving ½-inch headspace. Seal and freeze.

The smooth varieties of okra freeze as well or better than the ridged varieties because they do not split as easily. Wash and remove the stems at the end of the seed cells, being careful not to expose the seed cell. Water blanch small pods 3 minutes and large pods 4 minutes. Cool promptly and drain. Leave whole or slice crosswise. Package, leaving -inch headspace. Seal and freeze. To freeze okra for frying—after blanching, slice crosswise and dredge with cornmeal or flour.

Spread in a single layer on shallow trays, freeze just long enough to become firm, and package quickly, leaving -inch headspace. Seal and freeze. Turnips can be pressure canned by hot packing sliced or diced turnips that have been boiled 5 minutes. Allow 1-inch headspace. Process pints 30 minutes at 11 pounds pressure and quarts 35 minutes. Turnips can be frozen by water blanching -inch cubes for 2 minutes. Don't forget the turnip greens. They can be frozen by water blanching the young tender greens for 2 minutes.

All the above vegetables can be dried with fair results. Select young tender produce the same as for canning or freezing. Pretreat the vegetables by steam or water blanching (except the beets, which are already cooked.) Slice eggplant ½-inch thick and steam blanch 2 to 3 minutes or water blanch minute. Dipping the eggplant in an ascorbic acid or lemon juice mixture will help to maintain its color. Cooked beets can be sliced into ⅛-inch strips. Kohlrabi that is cubed or sliced ½-inch thick should be water blanched 3 to 5 minutes or steam blanched 5 to 8 minutes. Okra that has been blanched for 3 to 4 minutes can be sliced ⅛ to ½-inch thick. Most of these vegetables will take 8 to 12 hours to dry in a dehydrator set at 135F. They are dry when they are leathery or brittle. Store these dried vegetables in an air tight container because they will draw moisture from the air very quickly.

If you have food preservation questions, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd. Rm.1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Summer Fruits To Savor

PEAR BUTTER

Cut and core pears. You may leave on skins, but remove the stem into the core. Cook until soft. Cook with pineapple juice instead of water for more flavor. Press through strainer like applesauce is made.

Measure pear sauce. Add the same amount of sugar or less if you don't want it so sweet. Cook and stir until it thickens, about one hour. Pear butter can also be done in the oven (but no temperature or time was stated. Imagine it could be 350 degrees until soft). Stir until thickened.

FRUIT COBBLER

½ cup butter, melted, put in bottom of pan
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups fresh fruit

Mix together flour, milk, sugar, and baking powder and pour over butter. Don't stir. Add fruit on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes in 9x9-inch baking dish. May sprinkle with cinnamon.

GRAPE JUICE BAVARIAN

3-ounce box orange or lemon-flavored Jell-O
¼ cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
1 cup grape juice
1 envelope Dream Whip topping
½ cup cold milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve one package lemon or orange Jell-O in boiling water. Add grape juice and sugar. chill until slightly thickened. Prepare Dream Whip topping. Fold into thickened gelatin. Chill until firm. Spoon into sherbet dishes. Serve with additional prepared Dream Whip. Serves 6.

HOOSIER APPLE SURPRISE SAMMIES

4 tablespoons butter, softened
8 slices cinnamon raisin bread
½ cup crunchy peanut butter
4 slices mozzarella cheese
1 golden delicious apple, thinly sliced
8 slices cheddar cheese

Spread butter evenly on one side of each slice of bread. On the unbuttered sides of four slices of bread, spread equal amounts of peanut butter and top with one slice of mozzarella cheese. Place apple slices over the cheese, and top each sandwich with two slices of cheddar cheese. Top with remaining slices of bread, buttered side out.

Preheat a large skillet or griddle over medium heat. Cook sandwiches in batches, if necessary, for 2 to 3 minutes per side, or until golden and the cheeses are melted. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

MR. FOOD'S PACIFICA PEAR GRILLED CHEESE

2 tablespoons butter, softened
8 slices (½-inch thick) crusty French bread, cut from round loaf
4 slices Muenster cheese
1 Bartlett pear, cored and cut into thin slices
4 teaspoons raspberry preserves
8 ounces Brie cheese, cut into 12 thin slices, rind removed

Spread butter evenly on one side of each slice of bread. On the unbuttered sides of four slices of bread, layer one slice of Muenster cheese folded in half, and four pear slices; spread with equal amounts of raspberry preserves.

Top each with three slices of Brie cheese, and another slice of bread, buttered side out.

Preheat a large skillet or griddle over low heat. Cover and cook the sandwiches, in batches, if necessary, for 2 to 3 minutes per side, or until golden and the cheeses are melted. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

More Than One Way To Eat Cantaloupe

The fruits Americans call cantaloupes should more correctly be called muskmelons. True cantaloupes originated in Europe and have a rough, warty surface while muskmelons have a netted rind. Muskmelons originated in the Near East and were enjoyed by the ancient Egyptians and Romans. The Romans introduced them to Europe and the Spanish brought them to America. Watermelons are thought to have orginated in Africa.

Although some consumers have their own standards for choosing cantaloupes, there's no disputing some basic ripeness indicators. A good cantaloupe will have no trace of a stem and a pronounced cavity where the melon was pulled from the vine. These two characteristics indicate that the cantaloupe was harvested when it was fully mature, which is important because melons do not increase their sugar content after they have been harvested.

When buying cantaloupes, select melons that have a thick netting and a rich golden color underneath. They should also have a delicate aroma. A cantaloupe that is still firm can be stored uncut at room temperature to let the flesh become softer and juicer but, as mentioned above, it will not become sweeter.

Watermelons should have neither a very shiny or very dull rind but rather a waxy "bloom". They should be yellowish on the underside not greenish-white. If they have stem, it should be brown and dry, not green. The traditional "thump" test, besides almost being an art, is not particularly accurate.

Melons can be enjoyed in variety of ways at any time of the day. Sliced, cantaloupe makes a delicious breakfast feature. Diced or balled, either cantaloupe or watermelon make a cool and nutritious addition to lunch or dinner as an appetizer or dessert. Cantaloupe and watermelon mixed with honeydew, blueberries, peaches and other fruits makes an absolutely wonderful summer fruit salad. Generally, cantaloupe should be served at room temperature or only slightly chilled to enjoy the full flavor while watermelon should be icy cold to get the best flavor.

The United States Department of Agriculture, in its Food Pyramid, recommends two to four servings a day of fruit. Each serving of cantaloupe contains only 35 calories and is a good source of vitamins A and C plus potassium. Watermelon has only 32 calories and is also a source of vitamins A and C.

William Scepansky, corporate chef for Kegel's Produce in Lancaster, has created these tasty recipes for "Simply Delicious" Pennsylvania cantaloupes:

One of the best tasting and most nutritional of summer fruits is cantaloupe. Eat it raw or try the unique featured recipe.

CANTALOUPE COOLER

Looking for a fast, refreshing way to cool off? Try this cool combination that is as tasty as it is nutritious. This drink would be an excellent way to start the day as well!

5½ cup cantaloupe, peeled, seeded and cubed
1 cup yogurt, vanilla flavored
1 cup orange juice
1 each lime, juice of 10 each ice cubes
pinch of salt (to bring out flavors)

Blend all ingredients well till completely smooth and frothy. Serve in a chilled glass garnished with a slice of cantaloupe and lime. Enjoy. Makes about 4 servings.

CANTALOUPE WITH PROSCIUTTO AND PORT WINE

With 3 ingredients and about 2 minutes worth of work, you can prepare this truly elegant yet simple starter for your next meal. It's all about having the best ingredients to start with. Look for melons that exude great fragrance and have lots of scarring, They are the sweet ones.

4 each cantaloupe, pieces, cut 1×1×6-inch
12 each prosciutto, slices, paper thin
2 ounce Port Wine, Tawny or Ruby, good quality
½ cup basil or mint, fresh for garnish and aroma

Lay prosciutto in 4 groups of 3, side by side, slightly overlapping, to form four 6×6-inch sheets. Place one piece of melon across the center of each of the sheets and draw up top and then bottom to wrap the cantaloupe completely in prosciutto. Slice each serving into 6 slices each and arrange decoratively on serving plates. Fill 4 shot glasses half fall with port wine and place next to cantaloupe on each plate. Garnish plates with basil and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Hugs for Grandparents

September 7 is the 25th anniversary of National Grandparents Day.

Today there are more than 40 million grandparents in the United States. The image of grandparents has changed over the years.

We no longer have the perception of frail, aged grandparents sitting in rocking chairs. Those persons are very likely to be our great-grandparents. Most grandparents are living longer. They enjoy good health and are active well into their retirement years.

Grandparents Day started in the state of West Virginia. It was founded by a housewife by the name of Marian McQuade. Marian's original cause was to spark visitation with lonely elderly people in nursing homes. She recognized the value of passing down the heritage and wisdom of grandparents to their grandchildren.

In 1978, President Jimmy Carter proclaimed National Grandparent's Day to be celebrated annually in September on the first Sunday after Labor Day. The purpose of the day is to honor grandparents, for grandparents to show love for their grandchildren, and for grandchildren to become aware of the strength, wisdom and guidance older people can offer. I decided to interview some young persons to find out how they celebrate National Grandparents Day, to ask them to describe their relationships with their grandparents, and to learn what that relationship means to them.

The first two persons I interviewed were women in their mid-twenties. Both were working moms with children. The grandparents are the caregivers for the children while the mothers work. Both women say they can't put into words the appreciation they feel for what their parents are doing for them. The parents feel secure and comfortable having the grandparents caring for the grandchildren.

One woman said, "I just can't imagine what our lives would be without them. They do so much to help us."

The second woman talked lengthily about the strong, loving relationship that exists between the grandparents and her child. Neither of the women had been previously aware of National Grandparents Day, which is one of our less commercialized national holidays. However, both of them wrote down the date and say they are going to start celebrating it this year.

Another person I interviewed was a young man in his thirties. He described the close bond between his grandparents and him and his siblings. When the grandchildren were growing up, the grandparents had lived in a neighboring community. There were frequent family dinners, games, and walks on Sundays. The grandparents took the grandchildren on day trips and participated in some family vacations. The young man fondly described the guidance he received from his grandfather with his blue ribbon 4-H projects. He identified his grandparents as the persons the grandchildren could talk with when they had a problem.

Then he shared this story. 'My siblings and I recently received cards in the mail from my grandmother. We all have birthdays in the same month, and had already received our birthday cards just a couple months ago. When we opened our cards, there was a check for $100 and a note that read, "Old people don't need money, young people do."

Our grandmother still is interested in what is happening in our lives. My grandfather was, too, until he died last year. As for me, my grandmother knows I'm starting back to school this month and she is excited for me."

These testimonies demonstrate the powerful bonds that can develop between grandchildren and grandparents. All that is needed is for each generation to spend time nurturing that relationship.

At the Website for National Grandparents Day, www.grandparents-day.com, you can find information about contests and links to other sites for activity suggestions.

For more information, visit the Penn State Cooperative Extension Intergenerational Website www.intergenerational.cas.psu.edu. Some examples of intergenerational games and activities that can be found at this site include the Stump Your Relative Game, The M&M Game, and The Age Line.

Finally, while doing the research for this article I learned that Marion McQuade, the founder of National Grandparents Day, is currently in hospice care at 128 Oak Hill Avenue, Oak Hill, WV 25901. How about starting your Grandparents Day celebration by sending a card or letter to Marian expressing your appreciation for the work she did toward recognizing the value of grandparent/grandchild relationships?

Senior Expo Is Sept. 12

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Rep. Dave Hickernell (R-98) will host his first Senior Expo on Friday, Sept. 12 from 8 a.m. to noon in the Freemason Cultural Center at Masonic Homes in Elizabethtown.

The Expo is designed to be a one-stop information center for senior citizens and their families and caregivers. Exhibitors will be on hand to provide advice and information on a variety of topics that are important to older Pennsylvanians. Admission is free and breakfast will be served.

Government agencies that will be represented at the Expo include the Pennsylvania Department of Aging, the Lancaster County Office of Aging, the Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Protection, the Pennsylvania Healthcare Containment Council, PENNDOT, and the state Treasury Department.

Also on hand will be representatives from Community Hospital of Lancaster, Hospice of Lancaster County, the American Cancer Society, ManorCare Health Services, Nurses Direct, and other health care and assisted living organizations.

For more information call either of Hickernell's district offices, located in Elizabethtown (717-367-5525) and in Columbia (717-684-5525).

Quick Snack Facts

The case is closed and the question — cheese or chips? — has been answered: America says Cheddar is better when it comes to snacking. A new consumer survey conducted by Phil Lempert, Today Show food trends editor and host of SupermarketGuru.com, reveals the latest stats on America's favorite snacks.

America's Favorite Snack: Cheese

• Forty-five percent of Americans say cheese tops their list of favorite snacks, beating out chips (12 percent), cookies (11 percent) and even chocolate (3 percent).

• Approximately three out of four people (74 percent) say they always or often snack on items that contain cheese.

• Snackers selected "taste" as their number one reason for snacking on cheese, followed by "satisfies my hunger" and "ease of preparation/convenience."

• Seven out of 10 people prefer savory snacks to sweet ones.

Sliced, Cubed or Straight Up: How We Eat It

• Nearly half of Americans (47 percent) snack on cheese cut straight from the block.

• Crackers lead the list of favorite cheese pairings (65 percent), followed by fruit (14 percent) and bread (10 percent).

• When it comes to cheese and cracker combos, Cheddar and wheat win (46 percent), with Swiss and rye and Monterey Jack and onion tied for second with 10 percent each.

A Snacking Society

• Nearly half of Americans (49 percent) describe their typical eating pattern as a combination of mini meals and snacks or grazing throughout the day.

• Thirty-two percent of people snack most often at work.

• Nearly one-third of Americans say they're snacking more now than they did one year ago.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy, wants a recipe for corn fries that taste like those served at Oregon Dairy Restaurant. She writes that the corn fries look like French fries.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes and ideas for quick summertime cooking.

ANSWER — Debbie Mullinix, Woodbine, Md., wanted a recipe for peach pound cake using fresh peaches. Thanks to Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., for sending a recipe. Elaine Moreland, Denton, Md., also sent the same recipe, but added to dust the cake with powdered sugar. "It is moist and delicious," Elaine writes.

Fresh Peach Pound Cake

1 cup butter
3 cups sugar
6 eggs, room temperature
3 cups flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup sour cream
2 cups finely chopped fresh peaches
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Lightly beat eggs, one at a time, and add to butter/sugar mixture. Mix sour cream and peaches together in small bowl. Add dry ingredients alternately with peach mixture. Add extracts. Bake at 350 degrees in greased and floured bundt pan for about one hour.

ANSWER — A reader requested recipes for dishes that work well to take to potluck dinners or covered dish events. Thanks to Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., for sending two recipes that are a hit at her antique car club group.

Tuna Pate

6¾ can solid white tuna, drained
8-ounces cream cheese (room temperature)
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons minced fresh parsley
Dash tabasco sauce

Mix in mixer day or morning ahead. Serve with thin slices French bread or crackers.

Baked Chicken Casserole

2 cups boneless chicken breasts, cooked, cubed
1 cup diced celery
1¼ cup cooked rice
¾ cups light mayonnaise
1 can mushroom soup
2 tablespoons chopped fine onion
½ cup water chestnuts, sliced
½ cup sliced mushrooms
¼ cup butter, melted
1 cup crushed cornflakes

Mix together all ingredients except butter and cornflakes. Pour into buttered casserole dish. Mix melted butter and cornflakes and spread over chicken mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Recipe can easily be doubled, reheats well also.

Thanks to a Chambersburg reader from Shepherds' Ridge Farm, Chambersburg, for sending recipes for covered dish dinners that people enjoy at her church. More will appear in next week's issue.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes, Apples

2 cups cooked sweet potatoes, sliced ½-inch thick (use unsweetened, canned sweet potatoes)
1½ cups peeled, tart apples, thinly sliced
½ cup orange juice (optional)
Combine the following into crumbs:
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Layer half the sweet potatoes, apples, and crumbs into a buttered 1½-quart casserole dish. Repeat, ending with crumbs. Cover and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover and bake until apples are tender and top is browned.

Broccoli Casserole

Combine the following:
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 eggs
4-ounces good quality Cheddar cheese
¾ cup mayonnaise
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 pounds frozen broccoli flowerettes

Cook broccoli in a small amount of water until tender-crisp. Drain. Pour sauce over broccoli and mix gently. Pour into a buttered 9x13-inch casserole dish. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

ANSWER — Luci Essig, Bernville, wanted a brownie cupcake recipe. Thanks to Elaine Moreland, Denton, Md., for sending the recipe. She writes: These are great lunchbox treats and disappear quickly. The recipe uses chocolate candy Hershey Kisses.

Brownie Cupcakes

1 package Duncan Hines chocolate lovers double fudge brownie mix
2 eggs
⅓ cup water
¼ cup cooking oil
25 miniature Reese's peanut butter cup candies (unwrapped)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place 25 foil liners on cookie sheet.

Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Push one candy in center of each cupcake until even with surface of brownie. Bake 5-7 minutes longer.

Completely cool.

Stuffed Cabbage Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion
1 can tomato soup or spaghetti sauce
1 can water
3 tablespoons rice
3-4 cups chopped or shredded cabbage

Brown ground beef. Add onion, soup, water, and rice. Put cabbage in bottom of crockpot. Pour mixture over cabbage. Do not stir. Cook on low 5-6 hours.

Mixture may also be placed in a casserole and baked at 350-degrees for one hour or until done.

ANSWER — Margaret Grieff, Sidman, wanted a recipe to make Kosher dills similar to those sold in refrigerated supermarket cases and marketed under the label Claussen Dill Pickles.

Kosher Dill Pickles

Put into each jar:
2 large heads flowering dill
6 peppercorns
1 tablespoon mustard seeds
2 cloves garlic, halved

Make brine by bringing the following to a boil:
3 quarts water
1½ quarts white vinegar
½ cup pickling salt

Pack clean pickling cucumbers into jars. Fill with hot brine. Put lids on tightly. Process five minutes in a boiling water bath. Remove from canner and cool.

If canning these pickles for competition, remove the stems from the dill heads and make sure each head is "flower side out' in the jar. Select cucumbers that are straight and of equal length. Lay the jar on its side to begin packing with cucumbers. Put cucumbers in lengthwise in one layer in the bottom of jar; follow with another layer of upright cucumbers on top. Add several sprigs of dill leaves to the jar.

I found this recipe 35 years ago and have been making these pickles ever since. I had been hoping to find a recipe for Kosher dills that were similar to the ones I bought in Philadelphia when in nursing school. Honestly, I believe these are better, and definitely had a better flavor than any store variety.

This is not a good time of the year to be making pickles until one has a late planting of dill. If my dill comes before I have cucumbers, I freeze it by putting the flowering heads into tins or jars to keep until ready to make pickles. I tried freezing the dill flowers in plastic bags one year, and my freezer smelled of dill for a long time.

One-fourth cup dill seeds can be substituted for the two heads of flowering dill in each quart, but this would be more expensive.

ANSWER — Here's a different answer than the one printed last week for Margaret Grieff, Sidman. She wanted to know what type of molasses should be used to make cookies and shoofly pie.

A reader from Shepherds' Ridge Farm, Chambersburg, quotes from the bottle of Grandma's molasses: "Made from the pure juice of sun ripened sugar cane. Be sure the ingredients you want to use is molasses and not corn syrup. Any brand that is unsulfured should be good. I use Br'er Rabbit (either the green or gold label), Grandma's or Golden Barrel. All are delicious in molasses cookies, gingerbread, and shoo fly pie."

Susquehanna County 4-H'ers To Compete In National Dairy Judging Contests

MONTROSE, (Susquehanna Co.) — Beth Giangrieco and Abby Onyon, both of New Milford, will represent Pennsylvania in two national dairy judging competitions.

First they will compete in the All American invitational youth dairy cattle judging contest, Harrisburg, and then they will travel to Madison, Wis., to compete in the National 4-H dairy cattle judging contest.

Representing the Susquehanna County 4-H dairy judging team at the state competition, Beth and Abby competed with more than 30 other individuals.

In eight classes of four dairy cows each, they had to correctly place the animals and then justify their placings with oral reasons. With the help of the third member of their team, Katie Onyon, New Milford, they were the first place team for both placings and oral reasons.

In the individual competition, Beth was first for both placings and oral reasons. Abby was the second place individual and fourth for oral reasons, while Katie was the tenth place individual.

The money needed to cover entry fees, travel, lodging and food are partially covered by 4-H, but a majority of the funds, $500 for each, must be raised. Those wanting to help fund their trip should send donations and make checks payable to Susquehanna County 4-H, C/O Joseph Fuller, 4-H coordinator, 31 Public Avenue, Montrose, PA, 18801-1219 or call (570) 278-1158 for more information.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

School has started and the routine in many households will change. Maybe they will get up earlier and maybe the house is quieter than in the summer months. Maybe there will be little jobs to do and no one to send to do them.

We invited our grandchildren for a noon meal the week before school started. They are all good eaters and they emptied the dishes. This year we had to buy sweetcorn to freeze as we did not plant any. It was something that they enjoyed along with French fries which they don't seem to get enough of when they are here.

One thing that I have plenty of is big tomatoes. Sometimes I can them whole while other times I make juice and can it. There is a relish recipe that I have not made for several years but I think that I shall have to try it now.

Sometimes we go to doctor's offices for appointments and wait an hour or more, while other times they actually are on time. Then it seems that the five minutes with the doctor was hardly worth the trip. But as long as we can go to them instead of their having to visit us, I guess we should not complain.

Recently, I arranged two bouquets as birthday gifts. One was an arrangement of nasturtiums in a teacup with a matching saucer. The other was a variety of flowers in a rustic basket. This year my gladiolus are very pretty.

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible a map that shows every stream and lake He painstakingly plotted by hand the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well--until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Computers made it possible to reprint the map Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day"

Professor Higbee's maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind.

Professor Higbee's RAVE REVIEWS

It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can t even be found on topographic maps
—John Pitarres, OBSERVER-DISPATCH Utica

'If you re looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream pond and lake then Professor Higbee's Stream Maps are without question the finest
—Howard Brant, THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman
—Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT Johnstown

Plenty To Do For Kids At Grange Fair

Trent Beck, 9, of Clarence, loves his goats Buckwheat and Frisky.

These kids aren't afraid to get dirty. Jennifer Osterman, 10, of Woodward, Candance Rearick, 7, of Millheim, Stephie Clouser, 4, of Madisonburg, Kaitlynn Rearick, 9, and Jacob Rearick, 6, of Millheim, surround Sierra the heifer.

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — More than 2,000 families set up tents and campers at the 129th Grange Fair last week at Centre Hall Fairgrounds.

The event is great fun for kids of all ages. In addition to camping activities, there are livestock competitions, and much more.

"Farming and fairs," said Harold Harpster who has attended the Grange Fair for more than 50 years, "is all about being passed down from generation to generation."

Madelyn Hershey is the fifth generation to visit the Grange Fair and she keeps dry with her pap, Richard Grahan, Stormstown.

Don and Sue Probst of Lock Haven brought their 3-year-old grandson Richard Knoll of Pleasant Gap to the fair.

Cody Hartle, 9, and Katie Hartle, 3, of Centre Hall, rest after a long day with Peaches and some snow cones.

Fredericksburg Hinkelfest Sept. 12-14

FREDERICKSBURG (Lebanon Co.) — The annual Hinkelfest kicks off the fall season on Friday, Sept. 12 through Sunday, Sept. 14, at the Farmer's Pride airport, Fredericksburg.

Enjoy 'Eggs N Wings and Chicken Things' at the Fredericksburg Hinkelfest! On Saturday morning, get your day started at the "Early Bird" breakfast buffet from 8 a.m.-10:30 a.m. Or, stop under the Big-Top starting at 1 p.m. for juicy, roasted chicken bar-B-Q. Take-outs are available! On Sunday, Sept. 14, try a delicious-filled chicken breast dinner beginning at 11 a.m. The famous foods at the Fest include a mouth-watering variety of chicken specialities, including pot-pie, noodle soup, burgers, franks, wings, cheese steaks, BBQ, and more. Other great non-chicken items are also available, such as baked potatoes, french fries, funnel cakes, lemonade, and sodas.

A hot air balloon launch on Friday, Sept. 12 will begin the Hinkelfest festivities at 6 p.m. including a performance of the National Anthem by Maggie Progin. On Saturday, put on your choice of walking or running shoes and take part in the craft show at 9 a.m. or the 10th Annual 5K Run at 10 a.m. Enter into the Third Annual Hinkelfest Cruise Day on Sunday, Sept. 14 from noon to 4:30 p.m.

You ask you answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it. However, if your question requires someone to mail items to you, you must include your address or phone number for publishing.

QUESTION — Nancy Kring, a steady reader, wants an old quilt pattern called Double Wedding Ring. She has a newer pattern that has smaller patches but would like to obtain the older version if possible.

QUESTION — Sarah Stoltzfus, 1319 Tanning Yard Rd., Peach Bottom, PA 17563, wants to purchase a treadle sewing machine cabinet in any condition. Please write to her stating the price and condition.

QUESTION — Jim Bowersox, Lititz, has a stock cane with the name Bower&Bower stamped on it. Can anyone identify the orgin of this cane? Perhaps it was a promotional item for an auctioneer or cattle company. Anyone with information, should mail it in as many of our readers are interested in livestock-related companies.

QUESTION — Jenna Gilpatric is looking for a source for sugarless chewing tobacco. She got it from Fred Stoker and Sons. Jenna writes the company has automated and discontinued their handpacked line of which the sugarless chew was part.

QUESTION — Mary wants to know where to purchase brown sugar substitute called Brown Sugar Twin. She has used it in restaurants but can't find it in stores. Mary lives in West Virginia, so perhaps, she should have a mailorder company address.

QUESTION — S. Beiler wants to know where to buy either a new or used alarm clock by Westclox Model 47544 called the Power Napper.

QUESTION — Ella Rissler, Port Trevorton, wants to know if anyone knows anything about a flower shop with the name "Lucy Wanner." Ella has a miniature basket of flowers, which she things might be an antique. Stamped on the bottom are the words: Lucy Wanner, "flourel specialist in slicks." Home and bridal, 949 Pleasant View Rd., Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Tim Cherrington, Kutztown, has a ferris wheel gondola seat for about 10 years. The auction company where he purchased it, told him the gondola is from Rocky Springs Amusement Park. The seat is melon-colored with side decorations, and in good condition. Cherrington would like to find more information on the history of the gondola, and also sell it.

QUESTION — Roy Routzahn, Clear Spring, Md., is looking for someone who knows where to buy processed tobacco stems, leaves, or any tobacco scraps for farm use. Call (301) 745-3557.

QUESTION — Ben Kinsinger, Meyersdale, wants to know where to get an old Farmall M Kids pedal tractor, any condition. He also wants a John Deere 60 or other old kids' pedal tractors. Also, wanted is a 1HP 1HC Mogul Gas engine for parts.

QUESTION — Wilson Gorrell, Forest Hill, Md., is trying to find information on a single wheel, manual push-type seeder and where to buy the metal seed plates (especially for lima beans). No identification plate can be seed and the planter is estimated to be 40-50 years old. The seed box is round and appears to be cast iron.

QUESTION — In Williamsville, New York, outside of Buffalo, there is a former gas station/minimart of which Polly E. Mathys, Spring City, Pa. is part owner. She writes: "We are selling the ground, and the building will in all likelihood be torn down. In this building are store-type items such as display shelves, a walk-in cooler with five glass door fronts, and five 6-foot-long chest coolers (you know the kind you reach into in the store to get your Popsicle or whatnot). The buyer of the ground doesn't want them and neither do we. But rather than get a certified refrigerant remover to come in and then trash all this equipment, we're looking for a food bank, a farm, a produce stand, or whoever to come to Williamsville and claim these items. None of this stuff is new, but to our knowledge, it all worked the last time the electricity was on." Call Polly at (610) 495-6185 for more information.

QUESTION — L. T. Burke, Southampton, wants to know where to buy outdoor iron furniture from the 1960s-1970s that is in new or very good condition. He wants straight and rocking chairs.

QUESTION — Naomi King, Lititz, wants to know where to purchase replacement thermos lids with attached spouts to drink from. They are the 2-quart Rubbermaid jugs with screw-on lids.

QUESTION — Amy Marple, Mullica Hill, N.J., wants to know where to purchase Pride of Wisconsin cantaloupe seed. Her father grew them in the 1950s. The cantaloupe were of great size and excellent flavor, she writes.

QUESTION — Bruce Nattiess, Fleetwood, wants to know if anyone knows of a source to buy replacement tips for the cone on a Woodbuster PTO driven log splitter. Or, perhaps a reader has an extra one to sell. Call (610) 944-9162.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Littlestown, wants to know where to purchase a gasoline-powered rotary lawn mower that cuts 18 inches or less to use for trimming.

QUESTION — Diane Gray, 70 Damascus Rd., Blandon, PA 19510, wants information and bottles from the former Lebanon or Lebanon Valley Dairy.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerner, Wysox, writes that some time ago she had clipped an answer in this column from Joyce Raubenstine who told how to make creams from aloe vera. The instructions were unclear, and she asks if someone can tell her the exact amount of aloe vera to use. The directions she has are as follows: To prepare a herb ointment or salve, crush the leaves of the aloe vera and mix with four parts melted fat (lard or shortening) and one part dry white wine. Heat gently for 20 minutes. Cool slightly and strain.

Shirley writes that her husband's chronic back problem was aggravated during haymaking. She rubbed aloe vera leaves on his back, and it helped instantly. He was amazed. It was a sloppy procedure, so they'd like to make the salve if possible.

Shirley adds a bit of humor by writing that she can't boil water without a 3x5 card, "so you can see my problem with the aloe vera (instructions)."

QUESTION — Marie Hixson, Crystal Spring, wants to know how to grow wild rice. They live on a farm with some wet areas that she believes would be suitable for growing rice. Anyone know where she can find information?

QUESTION — Warren Glidewell, Bloomsburg, wants to know where to find Flemish giant rabbits in a fawn color.

ANSWER — H.S., Hopewell, N.J., is having a problem with the toilet sweating and dripping water on the bathroom floor during humid weather. Anyone have a solution for this problem? Thanks to Dick Herring, Kennett Square, who writes that a jacket or covering to cover the toliet can be purchased at a building supply store. Sweating is a common problem with commodes as well as the cold water pipes in humid weather.

Bradford County Dairy Farmers Raise A Maze

WYALUSING (Bradford Co.) – The Howard Family Farm is a fifth generation farm. Two generations keep the farm running today. But with the economy today and with milk prices set, as they are it gets harder and harder to make a living. The Howard Family realized this and decided to try a unique path to make ends meet. They've gone and raised a maze!

"The Maze was first introduced in Utah in 1996 as the largest human-size cornfield maze in the western U.S. In 1997 there were three mazes in Utah and Idaho, in 1998 15 mazes in the U.S. and Canada and today over 140 mazes in the U.S., Canada, Europe, and Mexico."

"The Maze has grown into a unique brand of good farmin' fun that has appeal most obvious to families." The maze is a new form of 'agritainment' for parents, kids, grandparents and school groups, work groups, church groups." People young and old can find this source of recreation that is fun for all ages, clean and educational and most of all unique.

The Howard Family corn maze is cut in a 13-acre cornfield on their farm that extends four miles long for the maze goers. The maze will have a tower in the center overlooking the maze staffed with a corn cop. For those who get lost and can't get out, the corn cop will assist them. Maze goers will find their way through the maze by searching for puzzle pieces that format into a map, which leads them to the end of the maze. Throughout the maze will be signs with information on corn and other interesting agriculture facts. For the weary there will be a snack shop and seats as well as restroom to accommodate them.

The Homestead on the "maze" farm was originally built and owned by Edward Homet, one of the eight brothers. Just up the road one half mile stands the large house in which Charles Homet Jr. raised his family of eight sons and one daughter, Theresa. Jonathan Homet, one of the sons, who built the house on the upper farm, is the ancestor of the present family.

Howards presently own three of the original farms and rent land on another. To welcome maze goers the Howards have created a welcome barn from one of their barn structures that will give the feeling of down-home country warmth filled with farm vegetables and fruits, gifts and crafts and local history for the tourists that decide to venture through the maze.

The Howard maze is the first for Bradford County and not only is this venture for the public to enjoy but an investment in their farm, a work of art and form of education on agriculture.

The Howard's designed their maze themselves but hired a professional corn maze cutter from Lee's Summit, Missouri to come and cut the design using a GPS (Global Position System). Their design represents the farm's Holsteins raised there as well as the milk industry.

The Howard's have named their maze "How-A-Mazing" representing the maze and the Howard name. How-A-Mazing will be open to the public during the months of Sept. 6 through October. Groups are welcome by reservation during the week by calling (570) 746-1883 or email at: cornmaze101@yahoo.com.

How-A-Mazing is located in Homet Ferry, Wyalusing in Bradford County. Watch for signs along Rt. 6.

Dairy Princess Spotlights Fallons' Farm

LENOX (Susquehanna Co.) — Dairy Princess Shana Mack writes, "I've chosen to spotlight a farm that has made great comeback — the Fallon farm."

To keep cows healthy, dairy farmers build and maintain animal housing and milking facilities that provide for the safety, comfort and hygiene for their herd.

In March 2002 this farmer had to face any farmer's worst fear. The barn was on fire. The family was all heading in different directions that day and had it been a few minutes later no one would have been home.

Luckily they hadn't left yet! They lost their barn but were able to save their herd of dairy cattle.

This farm owned and operated by Paul and Pauline Fallon is located in Lenox, Susquehanna County. They have owned the farm since 1984 and prior to this it was owned by Paul's parents. Both Paul and Pauline were raised on farms.

After the fire they decided to rebuild and expand their herd. They now have a double 12 parallel milking parlor with automatic take-off milkers and a large freestall barn with the milking cows housed in three groups. The high group producing more than 65 pounds; a second group under 65 pounds; and a third group of unbred cows. The Fallons have tip tank waterers and floor scrapers and feed TMR.

Dairy farmers use modern tools such as computers to keep records on each individual animal and to monitor cows for health problems, nutrition and general well being. Fallon's new operation is computerized. Each cow has a computerized ID leg bracelet which is read as they exit the parlor. This ID bracelet then operates a sort gate to sort the cows into their proper group.

Fallons are now milking 206 cows. They also have a calf barn with individual calf pens housing 100 calves, a heifer barn with 70 bred heifers and a dry cow barn. The herd is mainly Holsteins but they do have a few mixed breed calves. The Fallon's have 500 acres of land and raise corn and alfalfa.

Working on the farm with Paul and Pauline are their five daughters, Larissa, Sondra, Kristina, Victoria, Sabrina and hired help, Ron Jennings, Wayne Halstead Jr. and Jake Tompkins. They are looking for full- and part-time milkers.

The unique thing abut this farm is how it is computerized. Fallons believe this helps them keep better herd records. They said their new operation results in the cows being more relaxed and less manual labor. The Fallon's are planning an open house this fall.

Texas Congressman Hosts International Lamb Summit

CENTENNIAL, Colo. — Congressman Charles Stenholm (D-TX) recently hosted an international meeting of lamb producers at Angelo State University in San Angelo, Tex.

In attendance were Ambassador Michael Thawley of Australia and Right Honorable Mike Moore representing the embassy of New Zealand as well as industry representatives from the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

In preparation for this meeting, Stenholm asked the American Sheep Industry Association (ASI) to work with Meat & Livestock Australia and Meat New Zealand to develop an agenda identify the participants and explore possible areas of agreement for the gathering Identifying marketing and trade issues between the three countries were key to the agenda.

Congressman Stenholm, ranking member of the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture, stated that the United States is an open market for lamb without barriers; therefore, each supplying country has great responsibility to this marketplace.

In his opening remarks, Chico Denis, vice president of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, commended all participants for their willingness to meet to address joint issues crucial to the future of the sheep industry. U.S. delegates representing the National Lamb Feeders Association, American Lamb Board and ASI also presented questions and issues pertaining to variability of supply, price differences of lamb products from the three countries and the impact of currency exchange rates as witnessed in recent years.

The exchange rate between the United States and the currencies of the two lamb exporting countries has improved over the last year from the 40 percent declines witnessed from 1997 through 2001, which made it very difficult for U.S. producers to compete with foreign suppliers. With the short supply of lamb in all three countries due to serious drought conditions in America and Australia, lamb prices have strengthened in recent months. Also discussed was the desire to increase demand for lamb, thus ensuring a strong and healthy U.S. sheep industry with strong lamb returns. The industries compared lamb production statistics, marketing programs and funding as well as possible opportunities for exports of particular lamb cuts.

The U.S. industry delegates will be visiting with their boards this summer to prioritize the goals and expectations for a meeting later in the year with all suppliers.

Ambassador Thawley stated that from the Australian perspective, they supported additional meetings of lamb producers and are prepared to put serious effort and resources into cooperative efforts to improve the situation for lamb in the United States and other world markets. New Zealand representatives also indicated support for future meetings.

Guy Flora, ASI president, was pleased that so many U.S. sheep organizations took advantage of the opportunity to meet with the leadership of these countries to seriously discuss issues in the U.S. lamb market.

'We appreciate the work of Congressman Stenholm in facilitating the meeting and inviting the government and industry officials to address lamb issues. The public recognition that the U.S. is and has historically been an open market for lamb and that there are responsibilities that must be shared by all suppliers cannot be emphasized enough," Flora said. "It is up to the industry to communicate with suppliers and seek healthy solutions for a strong U.S. industry and lamb market."

Wool Prices Bounce Back

According to Australian Broadcasting Corporation, "Wool prices have bounced back from their doldrums," and have finally firmed.

The eastern market indicator rose 69 cents to end the week at 916 cents a kilo clean and the western indicator rebounded 83 cents, closing at 901. The reasons appear to be mixed, sighting lower volume, a slight weakening of the A$ and exporters needing to cover orders.

A surge in wool futures gave the first sign of recovery and they continue to move upward. Nineteen micron contracts have gained 100 cents in the past few days for a total of 1060 cents for a July delivery.

Despite positive movement in the wool markets last week, Woolmark reported that it still believes indicators point to a "period of volatility in 2003 while the current glob ' uncertainties prevail.

ASI Joins Coalition

The American Sheep Industry Association (ASI) joined more than 50 other agricultural organizations last week as part of a "Coalition to Promote U.S. Agricultural Exports."

In a letter sent to Chairman Henry Bonilla and Ranking Minority Member Marcy Kaptur of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration and Related Agencies, the coalition urged the committee's "strong support for maintaining and strengthening funding for USDA's export programs, including the Market Access Program (MAP) and Foreign Market Development (FMD) program" as they consider the FY 04 agriculture appropriations bill.

Both farm income and the economic well-being of agriculture are heavily dependent on exports, which accounts for as much as one-third or more of domestic production. In an effort to reverse the decline in funding that occurred over the last decade for these export programs, Congress saw the need to approve an increase for MAP to $125 million and for FMD to $34.5 million during the development of the 2002 Farm Bill.

Statistics compiled by USDA show that the European Union (EU) alone spends between $2 and $5 billion annually on agricultural export subsidies compared to less than $100 million spent by the United States. In fact, a further breakdown shows that the EU countries are spending more than $100 million annually to promote their products in just the United States, which is almost as much as the United States spends ($110 million) to promote its products worldwide.

In closing, the coalition stated, "Such programs have been tremendously successful and extremely cost-effective in helping maintain and expand U.S.agricultural exports, protect American jobs and strengthen farm income.

Reducing or eliminating funding for these programs in the face of continued subsidized foreign competition and while we are in the midst of World Trade Organization (WTO) negotiations would be nothing less than unilateral disarmament."

Merger Creates Australian Meat Industry Council

The merger of the Australian Meat Council(AMC) and the National Meat Association of Australia(NMAA) has resulted in a new organization called the Australian Meat Industry Council(AMIC).

AMIC will become the peak body for Australia's red meat processors, wholesalers, retailers, exporters and small goods operators, commented Meat News Daily. It will ensure that Australia's red meat industry tackles issues of concern with one voice and has a united vision for the future.

All Dairy Antiques And Collectibles Show To Feature Holstein Items

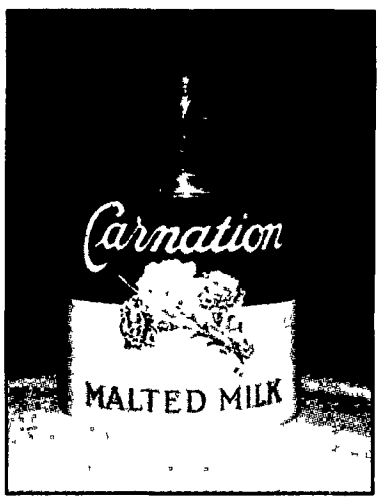
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The sixth annual All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show, exclusive to the All-American Dairy Show, will be conducted Saturday, Sept. 20 through Thursday, Sept. 25 in the Dairy Activities Center of the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. This year's feature will be Holstein breed items.

Seventy-two exhibitors from 12 states exhibited unique and very rare antiques and collectibles, such as milk bottles, and many other items at last year's show. This year, the All-American Dairy Show is hosting an unparalleled schedule of events, shows, and exhibits to celebrate its 40th Anniversary. Collectors and admirers of dairy memorabilia are invited to attend this show, which is restricted to dairy-related items, and which is the only one of its kind in the U.S.

Enthusiasts will find this show a great place to see and buy, as well as learn, since much effort is devoted to making the displays educational. The show offers the opportunity to see very rare dairy tools used in the late 1800s and the early 1900s, while observing some of the nation's modern tools and finest dairy cattle in the barns and in the show ring.

One unique feature, via special permission and courtesy of the Penn State University Department of Dairy and Animal Sciences, will be the one quarter-life size models of the True-Type Holstein Cow and Bull. These models were developed and distributed by the Holstein-Friesian Association as educational tools to help improve breed type in 1922. This showing of the models is only the second time Penn State has allowed them to leave the campus. Previously, they were on display when the 1995 National Holstein Convention was hosted by Pennsylvania in Pittsburgh.

A special exhibit will be items for sale and display owned by a Western Pennsylvania enthusiast who has attended all five previous shows. He will be exhibiting items from an exclusive collection which he has been acquiring for more than 50 years. One of his favorites will be a seldom seen Meloney automatic registering milk scale, which was manufactured in and marketed from Landsdown, Pennsylvania.



Antique Carnation Malted Milk is a porcelin container in mint condition and will be on display at the All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show.

This scale contains all original parts including the spring-based scale, measuring buckets, and the original paper pads to record the milk weights.

The exhibitor also has an original advertisement from the Country Gentleman newspaper for the milk scale dated August 10, 1912, which he purchased in St. Louis, Missouri.

A very similar scale was sold at the 2003 International Society of Antique Scale Collectors Convention in Texas for more than $1,000. This scale will be on display for all to appreciate.

Other items from his extensive collection will be a Borden's Toy Horsedrawn Milkwagon with driver, milk bottles, and carrying tray, a Carnation Malted Milk Porcelin Container in mint condition with Seattle, Washington printed on the front, and a glass ice cream freezer with original wooden hand crank with the patent date of April 29, 1890.

His most recent purchase from this summer will also be exhibited. It is a canvas advertising banner made in 1930 for DeLaval Cream Separators and Milkers is extremely rare and hardly ever seen and will be a very special feature for all to enjoy. The banner still has the original fold marks and is in mint condition.

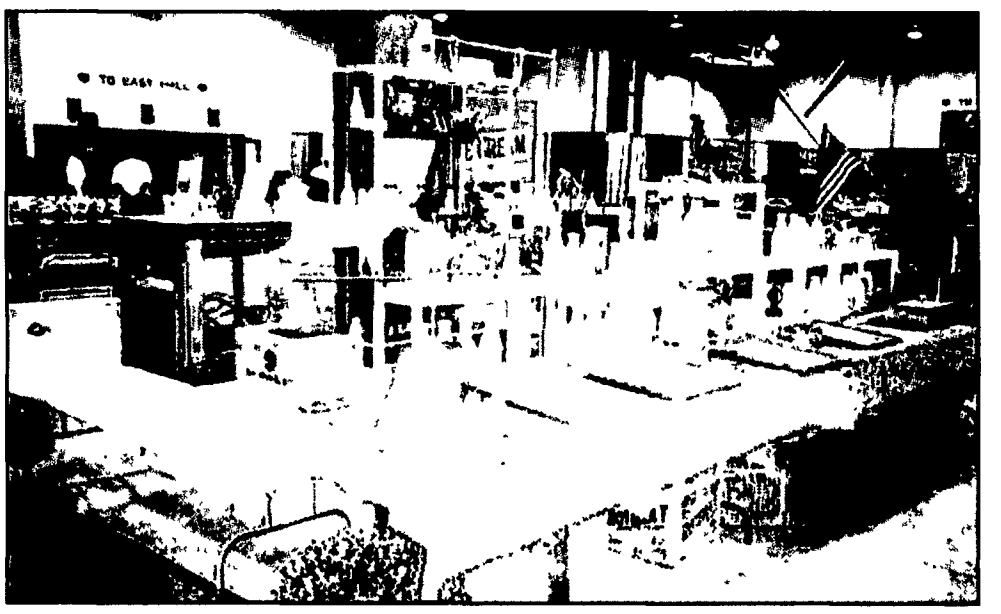
The All-American Dairy Show is scheduled for Sept. 21-25 in the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. For information about the All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show or the All-American Dairy Show, contact the All-American office at (717) 787-2905, or e-mail aads@state.pa.us.

1922 True-type Holstein Bull and Cow ¼ life-size compared with 1/16 life-size cow will be on display from Penn State University Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Butter churns and dairy advertising highlighted Les and Elaine Firth's exhibit last year.

Taken from the seat of the Reist Price's Dairy milk wagon this view shows the size and diversity of the annual show.

Milk bottles were ubiquitous in last year's show and added beauty, interest, and history.



Dairy memorabilia exhibited at the All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show can be bought and sold, but is also educational.

Questions & Answers

This 14-inch high porcelain vase has been in my family 50 years or more. It could have been purchased abroad by my grandfather who was a seaman. Can you tell its' origins and value? No marks on the bottom.

Your photo appears to be either a Japanese or Chinese Imari vase. Since we are talking "big bucks" a hands on appraisal is necessary. While Japanese Imari was first made 1640-46 , because of its' popularity, the Chinese began copying it. Mid-18th century pieces still surface at auctions for usually over $10,000. Send a photo to: Japanese Ceramics Expert, Christie's, 502 Park Avenue, New York, NY, 10022.

I have a black and white drawing (engraving) that appears to be of two women perhaps entering an arena, and three men in Roman attire looking over the edge of a wall. It is marked "copyright 1899 by C. Klackner, NY." In the lower right hand corner is the artists name W. Magrath. 1888. It is 30x19¼ inches. What can you tell me?

J.H. - La Cross, WI (for Vinton)

The size and dimensions suggest it was a page out of a book.

Probably illustrating maidens about to be devoured by lions in the Roman Colleseum. Many such prints and books on the subject were popular in the late 19th century.

Unfortunately it appears to be faded and the subject isn't that interesting these days to collectors. It could sell at a garage sale for $5/10.

A.L. - Morton Grove, IL

The Jim Beam distillery began issuing collectors special edition bottles, in 1953 and continues to do so. Each bottle is individually priced, according to popularity of the design. There are many collectors clubs, one close to you is International Assoc. of Jim Beam Bottle & Specialty Collectors Clubs, 5013 Chase Ave., Downers Grove, IL, 60515.

This oval table (29½x21½ inches) with marble top was given to my late mother-in-law back in the 1930s. Any information appreciated.

T.K. - Morton Grove, IL

Your mahogany, Renaissance revival style table was made in the 1870s, possibly by Berkey and Gay, a leading Grand rapids Michigan cabinetry manufacturer. Such tables can sell in shops for $600/800.

Tapesty is of Lindbergh's non-stop flight.

I found this small tapestry (20x54 inches) while cleaning my mother's house.

It has pictures of various Flyers including Charles Lindbergh, the Eiffel tower, etc. it is stamped Paris on the back. What is it all about?

B.D.- S. Plainfield, NJ

Your tapestry was mass produced and made to commemorate Lindbergh's non-stop flight to Paris, late 1920s. It could sell for $400 in a shop.

This teapot was a wedding gift to my mother 52 years ago, and passed down from her great aunt. On the bottom it says "Etruscan." It has raised designs that look like seaweed. Can you tell me the age and value?

A.J. H. -Ford City, PA

Free Museum Day Offered By Historic Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM (Northampton Co.) — Free admission to museums of Historic Bethlehem Partnership (HBP) will be offered on Saturday, September 13, from noon to 4 p.m.

HBP museums open that day include Burnside Plantation, 1461 Schoenersville Road; the 1810 Goundie House, 501 Main Street; the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts, 427 N. New Street; and the Moravian Museum (Gemeinhaus, a National Historic Landmark), 66 W. Church Street.

In addition to the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts' permanent collections, visitors can view two special exhibits, "Arts, Botanicals and Calligraphy: Going to School in Early Bethlehem and Nazareth" and "The Paper Garden: Botanical Drawing, 1485-1865."

A gallery talk by the curator of "Arts, Botanicals and Calligraphy" at 1:00 p.m. complements the exhibit.

At two of the museums, the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts and the Moravian Museum, children and families can enjoy interactive tours with hands-on activities.

For more information, call (610) 882-0450.

German Textile Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Heritage Center Museum of Lancaster County is hosting a fall symposium, Falling for Fabric: Textile Traditions of the Pennsylvania Germans, slated for Saturday, Oct. 11 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Jasper Yeates House, 24 South Queen Street, Lancaster.

Nationally-recognized antiques experts and scholars will discuss their latest findings.

Cost is $30 per person, for non-members, and $25 per person, for members. A catered luncheon will be served.

For reservations, contact Sheila Rohrer at (717) 299-6440.

made in the late 19th century by Smith and Hill who named their wares "Etruscan." Their pottery was located in Phoenixville, PA.

Similar examples have sold for over $700.

I have a Danish bible made in 1873 with a leather cover embossed in gold.

M.O. - Minneapolis, MN

While there are bible collectors, it is only the rarities.

Your bible was mass produced in English as well. It could sell in a shop for $50 or more.

What could my violin/fiddle be worth? It is stamped inside "Andreas Amati Fecit Cremonae anno 1680." Is this the year it was made?

B.P. - Ottawa, KS

Your violin was made in the late 19th, early 20th century.

It, and others marked "Antonio Stradivari" were sold by the hundreds at that time, with the faked markings of famous violin makers. It could sell in a shop for $200 or more.

This sofa with the wood veneered frame is one hundred years old. I would like to know the value.

VOICES OF EXPERIENCE

Peeking Into the Past

I have some old pocket mirrors that my uncle saved and left to me. How can find out more about them and their value, and where can I possibly find more?

Vic Mathews
Indianapolis, IN

A selection of such mirrors (you can bid on and buy) which advertised everything ranging from whiskey to flour to shoes to chocolates and much more, can be found listed with their full descriptions, and estimated values in Ted Hake's Americana & Collectibles Sept. 9, 10 and 11 Mail/Phone/ Internet Bidding Auction Catalogue # 175, offering 3265 incredible hard to find items you can see, study and bid on by visiting Website www.hakes.com. Or to request a free catalogue send your name and address stating you're a reader of this column, to Ted Hake c/ o Hake's Americana, P.O. Box 1444, Dept. L, York, PA 17405-1444. Or send $30 for a one year (5 issues) catalog subscription, or $20 for the next 3 issues.

Hake's catalogues (which are truly amazing and hard to put down) pictures, and fully describes such items with their estimated values, that are often found in drawers, toy boxes, closets, attics, or anywhere else in homes where they're often tucked away and forgotten. Or phone Hake at (717) 848-1333 who buys, and auctions such items. Who knows? There may be a fortune hiding in your house.

My friend has four Danbury Mint - Issue 2669 - United Edition of 7500, 24K Gold on Solid Sterling Silver plates - The Boston Tea Party - 1773, The First Continental Congress - 1774, Paul Revere's Ride - 1775, and Declaration of Independence - 1776, all of which are in excellent condition. She also has "The Indian Tribal Series" consisting of about 40 bars from different tribes, each bar is 99.5 sterling silver, also in excellent condition. I checked with the Danbury Mint and they referred me to Plate Finders in Canada, who told me there wasn't any interest in Danbury silver Plates. Can you help my friend by letting her know if there's any market for her plates?

Joan Lazarski
Green Valley, AZ

Your friend can write Rich Hartzog (who buys such silver plates and ANY Danbury Mint, Franklin Mint and other modern mint items for which he'll pay $15 to $25 each depending on completeness and condition, at AAA Historical Americana - World Exonumia, P.O. Box 4143, Rockford, IL 61110-0643. Enclose a long self-addressed stamped envelope for a four page letter listing a large selection of items he's seeking to buy for which he pays more than most dealers, and does not melt sets. Or phone Rich at 815-226-0771.

Where can I find information on Nancy Ann Story Book dolls and their value?

Patricia Andrews
Decater, IL

You'll find more than 1,500 color photos of such dolls listed according to series, with their mold and trademark chronology, history of the company, and their boxes, tables, furniture, and much more, in the "Encyclopedia of Bisque Nancy Ann Storybook Dolls - 1936-1947, Identification & Values" by Elaine M. Pardee & Jackie Robertson, available in a large 368-page edition for $32.95 postpaid, from Gigi's Dolls & Sherry's Teddy Bears, 6029 N. Northwest Highway, Chicago, IL 60631. Or phone (773) 594-1540 to order. Or visit Website: www.gigisdolls.com

Write Anita Gold, P.O. Box 597401, Chicago, IL 60659. Enclose a self- addressed stamped envelope with a copy of this column and the name of the paper in which it appears for a reply.

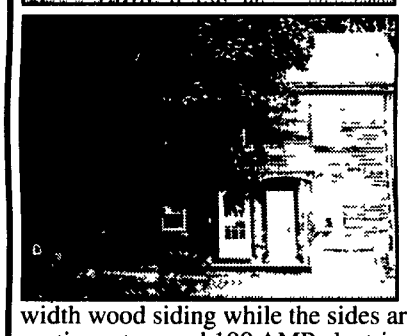
CYRIL E. GREIM ESTATE
PUBLIC AUCTION OF
1767 LOG HOME & ANTIQUES
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 2003
9:00 A.M. Personal Property
12:00 P.M. Real Estate
645 New Schaefferstown Road, Bernville, PA 19506
Jefferson Twp., Berks Co. PA



Situated on a shaded lot on the corner of New Schaefferstown and Derr Road in Jefferson Twp., Bernville, Berks County, PA, this Circa 1767 two and one-half story log home once served as a trading post/store which is evidenced by a 2nd front entrance door. Retaining creditable architectural features, the dwelling is prime for accurate restoration on an ideal rural location.

The dwelling measures 29' x 28.5' and rests on a laid stone foundation. A living room with exposed logs, a kitchen and dining area with exposed evidence of early beaded board partitions and a powder room make up the first floor living area. A newly added stairway provides access to a full bath and three bedrooms, some with original wide random width floors and a full attic. The roof is of 20th Century tile. A center chimney remains, the original walk-in fireplace having been removed.

The exterior front reveals early random width wood siding while the sides are aluminum sided. A drilled well, on site septic system and 100 AMP electric service are provided. A large .83 acre lot can accommodate additions. Baseboard oil hot water heat and a water treatment system are housed in a full ground floor basement.

AEM Releases Ag Industry Forecast

CHICAGO, Ill. — The mid-year agricultural equipment sales forecast just released by the Association of Equipment Manufacturers (AEM) predicts modest gains in total sales of farm tractors in the U.S. and Canada for 2003 followed by stronger growth in 2004.

Combine sales for both countries are expected to be slow in 2003 but rebound in 2004. The U.S. and Canadian markets for most other types of farm field machinery are anticipated to decline in 2003 followed by an upturn in 2004 business.

AEM's semiannual "State of the Ag Industry Outlook" polls agricultural equipment manufacturers for their predictions of overall business growth for a variety of machines. These companies account for a majority of agricultural equipment sold in the U.S. and Canada.

Data contained in the latest report, released in late July 2003, has been expanded to include Canadian sales in addition to U.S. sales.

Total U.S. sales of farm wheel tractors are expected to improve by yearend 2003 and into 2004 — a 2.7 percent increase in 2003 and a 3.1 percent gain in 2004. Canadian sales in 2003 are expected to be flat with a 0.4 percent gain but then rebound in 2004 with a 4.4 percent increase.

U.S. sales growth in 2003 is predicted to be strongest for two-wheel-drive tractors under 40 PTO Hp and essentially flat for four-wheel-drive tractors and all other sizes of two-wheel-drive tractors. U.S. sales in 2004 are forecast to show gains of 10 percent for four-wheel-drive tractors, with more modest increases in the 2 percent-4 percent range for two-wheel-drive tractors.

For Canada, manufacturers are most optimistic about four-wheel-drive tractor unit growth in 2003 with a 9.7 percent gain predicted; however, sales in 2004 are expected to level off with a 1.4 percent decline.

Canadian sales of two-wheel-drive tractors in 2003 are expected to lag in the 40-100 PTO Hp range with a 4 percent decline expected, but this category also anticipates to rebound in 2004 with gains of 7.1 percent. Canadian sales of two-wheel-drive tractors under 40 PTO Hp are anticipated to increase by 1.8 percent in 2003 and 3.6 percent in 2004. Gains are also expected for two-wheel-drive tractors 100 PTO Hp and over, with growth of 5.3 percent in 2003 and 1.7 percent in 2004.

Manufacturers of self-propelled comdines predict a flat market in the U.S. for 2003, followed by a 8.1 percent gain in 2004. Canadian sales are expected to be stronger — a 1.9 percent gain in 2003 followed by a 9.9 percent sales increase in 2004.

The AEM ag industry outlook asks agricultural equipment manufacturers to rate 20 factors that have emerged as key influences on the sale of new equipment.

Interest rate levels and credit availability continue to be major financial factors which agricultural equipment manufacturers consider as positive influences on their level of business, followed by government payments.

Negative influences for the remainder of 2003 include net farm income, farm cash receipts and farm debt, although manufacturers believe farm income and cash receipts will become more positive in 2004 and 2005.

Looking at crops, there is consensus that planted acreage is high, and it's anticipated that grain exports will improve in 2004 and 2005. Crop prices are expected to remain at roughly the same levels for the next few years, although a modest improvement in cotton prices is expected. For livestock, beef prices are in the positive range, compared to somewhat neutral for hogs. Dairy livestock prices are a negative influence in 2003 but expected to rebound substantially through 2005.

Replacement demand for equipment is expected to improve in 2004 and 2005, as well as farmers' attitudes toward buying equipment. However, negative factors are the quantity of used equipment for sale as well as equipment prices.

In 1943, when farmer Abe Greiner, Elizabethtown, was hospitalized, his neighbors got together to do the plowing. Nine tractors and a three-mule team plow planted Greiner's 20-acre corn field in 3½ hours. Neigbors shown in the plowing include Amos Whisler, John Shank, Roy Kaylor, Victor Longenecker, Frank Foreman, Miller Hernley, Jacob Ebersole, Henry Breamer, and Robert Greiner. According to Amos Whisler only three of the participating neighbors are still living.

Powerful, High-Capacity Chopping You Demand It

New Holland builds it - new Fx self-propelled forage harvesters put you in control of Greater Productivity.

As a custom harvester or large dairy operator, you'll appreciate the productivity-boosting performance of the new FX self-propelled forage harvesters from New Holland. The new FX30, FX40 and FX60 forage harvesters are built to help you work faster – in all crop conditions – with added convenience, comfort and control.

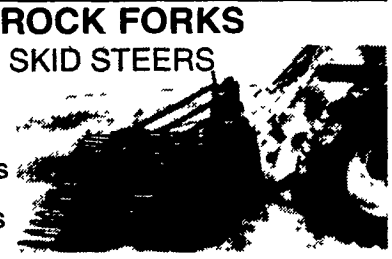
ROCK FORKS SKID STEERS



FEATURES & BENEFITS

- Designed to cradle the collected rocks and debris while additional material is being collected
- Tine spacing determines the size of rocks and debris that will be retained while allowing the soil to sift back to the ground
- The 75" bucket width gives maximum production and covers most wheel bases of skid steer loaders and tractors
- The rake design is used to gather material away from buildings and obstructions, for faster clean up of debris, to level out clumps of dirt and to pick up pieces of sod
- Rake - Pile - Load debris from construction sites, pastures, fields and etc
- Bolt-on mounting for easy installation onto universal tractor loader mounts and universal skid steer loader mounts

100,000 Mag Can't Be Wr

In 1987, Case-IH introduced the revolutionary Magnum tractor line, and this September, the CNH manufacturing operations will produce th 100,000th Magnum tractor.

- Magnum tractors have proven their worth over time by providing thousands of owners thousands of hours of trouble-free operation
- Right now Hoober has a great selection of low-hour, locally traded USED Magnum tractors that will provide you with years of dependable service.
- Since Case-IH introduced magnum tractors, no dealer has sold more Magnums in PA, MD, DE & NJ than Hoober, Inc.
- Hoober's experienced tractor service technicians are factory-trained to help you get the most from your Magnum.

Woods Introduces New Loader And Tillers For Subcompact Tractors

OREGON, Ill. — Woods Equipment Company has introduced a loader and line of tillers, the newest additions to Woods' Estate Series attachments for subcompact tractors.

The Estate Series model 1005 loader was designed specifically for subcompact tractors up to 25 horsepower, including the Kubota BX1800 and BX2200, John Deere 2210, and Massey Ferguson GC2300.

No tools are needed to attach and detach the loader, which is available in original equipment manufacturer (OEM) colors to match the tractor. It can lift up to 470 pounds of material, with a lift height of 73 inches tall enough to dump into the back of a pick-up.

The 1005 loader operates with an undermount mower attached, a popular combination of equipment needed for general maintenance around the yard, garden, or pasture. The 48-inch, medium-duty, round back loader bucket has six cubic feet of capacity for moving landscape plants, removing snow, or handling dirt and gravel.

The Estate Series tillers are available in a 40-inch width for limited Category 1 tractors up to 20 horsepower, and in 52- and 60-inch widths for Category 1 tractors up to 30 horsepower. An adjustable rear tailgate "floats" over obstructions, protecting against flying dirt and debris, and leaving a smooth, cultivated finish. Rugged, steel tines can rip nearly seven inches into the toughest ground conditions, from previously tilled soil to hard, compacted sod. A parking stand is standard with all models.

Pfizer Introduces First Lepto Hardjo-Bovis Vaccine

NEW YORK — Pfizer Animal Health continues to lead the way with its introduction of the first vaccine that protects against Leptospira borgpetersenii serovar hardjo (Type: hardjo-bovis), the Leptospira serovar found, on average, in more than 55 percent of U.S. dairy herds.

Proven safe and highly effective, Spirovac™ is a new vaccine that helps provide protection against a strain of Leptospira not found in standard L5 vaccines.

"Hardjo-bovis has been unstoppable until now, as current standard L5 vaccines do not cover hardjo-bovis," stated Dr. Sam Barringer, senior dairy veterinarian, Pfizer Animal Health. "Hardjo-bovis has been shown to wreak havoc in herds by causing early embryonic death, lower conception rates, infertility, and other reproductive problems."

Dr. Barringer explained that, although standard L5 vaccines contain an antigen for L. hardjo, the type of serovar is hardjo-prajitno and not hardjo-bovis.

"Until now, no vaccine has contained the antigen for hardjo-bovis," Dr. Barringer added. "Spirovac is the first and only vaccine to provide protection against hardjo-bovis."

Efficacy studies conducted by Dr. Carole Bolin of Michigan State University demonstrate that Spirovac prevents leptospires from housing in protective sites such as the kidneys and reproductive tract. Additional studies by Dr. Bolin and other researchers also show that Spirovac prevents urinary shedding and does not override maternal-derived antibodies (MDAs).

To the producer, these features can lead to improved reproduction, productivity, and profitability.

Alliance To Generate Electricity From Manure In Midwest

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. — Environmental Power Corporation, through its subsidiary Microgy Cogeneration Systems, Inc., has proposed to create a strategic alliance with Dairyland Power Cooperative to deploy animal waste to energy systems on dairy and swine farms in Dairyland's service territory in the Midwest.

These proposed systems would produce up to 25 megawatts of renewable distributed generation capacity and be based on Microgy's proprietary anaerobic digestion technology that processes and controls animal waste from dairy and swine farm operations. The biogas produced from the digesters will be purchased by Dairyland for its use in generating clean, renewable energy. Dairyland serves a five state region through member cooperatives in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan.

Dan Eastman, vice president of business development for Microgy stated: "Our proposed strategic alliance with Dairyland will enable numerous farms to lessen their impact on the environment, respond to new Environmental Protection Agency pollution regulations for concentrated animal feeding operations (CAFOs) and profit from the production of renewable energy. Dairyland will enjoy many years of reasonably priced renewable electricity to serve its expanding customer base and fulfill its commitment to preserving and protecting the quality of our environment.

"Environmental Power believes that this strategic alliance with Dairyland will serve as a model for other regions in America where the environment, the farmers and electric consumers can all gain solid benefits by working together to be good stewards of the earth in a manner which makes economic sense."

Environmental Power, through Microgy, holds the North American license for anaerobic digestion technology that produces renewable energy by converting polluting waste resources from agricultural sites into clean, cost effective fuel. The company's technology has operated successfully for more than 15 years at over 25 facilities in Europe. Environmental Power has a number of projects soon to begin construction in Wisconsin, Vermont and New York.

Dairyland, one of the largest generation and transportation cooperatives in the Midwest, provides wholesale electric power to 25 distribution cooperatives and 20 municipal electric systems. The cooperative is committed to preserving and protecting the quality of the environment by expanding its renewable energy portfolio. The use of methane gas from anaerobic digestion is part of this long term plan.

New Hampshire-based Environmental Power is targeting its proposed anaerobic digestions systems to animal feeding operations in the U.S. with an estimated initial target market of approximately $6.7 billion and estimates initial and expanded market potential to exceed $14 billion. For more information visit the company's web site at www.environmentalpower.com.

V-Closing Wheel Attachment For Case Planters

COLCHESTER, Ill. — Yetter Farm Equipment recently announced its most popular planter closing wheel system is available for Case planters. Equipped with either 1-inch by 12-inch rubber tires or with spike closing wheels, this attachment ideally completes the planting process.

The 6200 Series V-closing wheels are angled towards the row at the bottom, so soil is gently firmed around the seed, while leaving loose soil directly above the seed. This results in ideal seed-to-soil contact, the foundation for fast, even emergence. Yield robbing air pockets and emergence inhibiting soil crusting are prevented.

Uniformity in emergence is a must. Tests prove erratic emergence greatly impacts yield potential. No amount of fertilizer can be applied to reverse the effects of inconsistent emergence, so closing the seed trench properly is one of the most crucial elements of planting.

Penn Researchers Make Manure More Environmentally Friendly Fertilizer

PHILADELPHIA — In keeping with the increasing overall awareness of environmental issues, dairy, hog, and poultry farmers across the country face growing governmental regulation and public demand to manage a huge quantity of animal manure in an environmentally friendly manner.

Using animal manure as a fertilizer is problematic because the large amount of soluble phosphorus in manure is prone to runoff losses in waterways, contributing to water-quality problems in many streams, rivers, and estuaries.

Scientists at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine have found an economical and effective way to stabilize manure phosphorus by lowering its solubility using fly ash — the fine, often airborne particles derived from the burning of coal.

When fly ash materials were mixed with dairy, hog, or broiler manures, water-soluble phosphorus decreased by up to 80 percent. Another additive, alum (aluminum sulfate), also reduced water-soluble phosphorus dramatically. Fly ash materials are easily obtainable at minimum cost from coal-combustion power plants.

The results of the 2001-2002 study, which was funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Chesapeake Bay Program, appeared in the July-August issue of the Journal of Environmental Quality by the American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America, and Soil Science Society of America.

In manure that has been treated with fly ash or alum, highly water-soluble phosphorus shifts to other forms that are less soluble and therefore more stable. The mechanisms responsible for these shifts are precipitation, absorption, and entrapment. Scientists believe the shifts are desirable and beneficial because the phosphorus available for crops would be similar over the long term, while its environmental losses would be substantially reduced.

"Treating manure with alum or fly ash prior to field application can be a management tactic particularly useful on farms where manure has to be spread during late fall to early spring. These are sensitive times when crops are not growing and phosphorus and other nutrients cannot be utilized while runoff potential is the highest.

With treated manure, phosphorus would have a better chance to stay in the fields until the crops can use it rather than being dissolved in runoff waters and getting into streams and rivers," states lead scientist Zhengzia Dou, Ph.D., at the Center for Animal Health and Productivity at New Bolton Center.

Dou was joined in the research by scientists J.D. Toth and James Ferguson, both from Penn; G.Y. Zhang of the Soil Science Institute, Chinese Academy of Sciences, Nanjing, China; and W.L. Stout, of the U.S.D.A.'s Agricultural Research Service in University Park.

The amounts of aluminum or heavy metals in soils that have been fertilized with alum- or fly ash-treated manure are well below the natural levels and within government-regulated limits.

"Of course, soils and crops in fields receiving treated manures should be monitored through proper testing to safeguard the health of animals and humans," adds Dou.

An integrated, whole-farm management program is most effective in helping producers improve nutrient efficiency, enhance productivity, and minimize adverse environmental consequences.

Beef Industry Making Strides In Fight Against E. Coli

Product Approvals, Research Funding Key To Continued Success

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Science and technology are paving the way for a safer beef supply according to a panel discussion March 19 at the Food Safety Summit and Expo in Washington, D.C.

Presenting an overview on current strategies to combat E.coli O157:H7, beef industry leaders described various science-based practices, and say fast-track approvals of intervention technologies are needed to help make our food even safer.

Referring to strategies identified at the recent Beef Industry E.coli Summit in January in San Antonio, Tex., session speakers gave an overview of the progress being made to combat E.coli within each of the five sectors in the beef production chain.

"With funding from the check-off program, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) hosted the E.coli summit on behalf of the Cattlemen's Beef Board and State Beef Councils, and called for hands-on participation by all sectors within the beef industry," said Michelle Rossman, NCBA associate director for beef safety, and session moderator.

"More than 200 industry leaders attended and collectively pledged to further reduce the incidence of E. coli in the beef supply, and committed to implementing a series of industry-wide actions to achieve this goal."

NCBA has maintained that feed additives, vaccines, and cattle cleaning systems are among the creative solutions currently being researched.

"Interventions such as direct-fed microbials, vaccines, chlorate, Tasco-14, and neomycin sulfate have proven effective in reducing the incidence of E.coli," said Alan Janzen. "Although some of the data from using some of these products is still preliminary, several of these interventions show promise. The next step is to expedite product approvals for proven technologies, and funding for additional research."

'Calving View' Monitors Cows With Wireless Camera

ITHACA, N.Y. — A new convenient wireless system is now available to monitor daily activities on a dairy. Calving View is specifically designed to easily monitor calvings, hospital cows, or the parlor. This system allows for viewing from the barn office or from home.

With a wireless setup, installation is quick and easy. Calving View will minimize the endless trips to the barn or freshening pen and can aid in the observation to prevent calving problems from occurring.

Studies through the University of Minnesota have shown that the percentage of dystocia is 10 percent for second or greater lactation cows and 25 percent for first calf heifers.

Calving View can help minimize the costs associated. "Customers really adapt well to the use of Calving View since it is an economical way to eliminate the usual problems of calving on a farm" noted Marcel Poirier, Dairy One project manager.

EVERLAST II EVERLAST II EVERLAST II

Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal

EVERLAST II IS BETTER:

- it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
- won't bend or buckle as easy, stronger design.
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
- nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
- still priced about the same or less.

EVERLAST II
is excellent for houses and barns.
DOUBLE DIPPED GALVANIZED is proven best for animals.
STANDING SEAM
is ideal for houses.

CAN ALSO BE PICKED UP OR DELIVERED FROM LEBANON PLANT

Galvanized or Galvalume?

For metal roofing and siding, which is better, painted Galvanized or painted Galvalume?. Galvanizing is many times better if it's mill certified G100. Why is it better? Galvanizing tends to "heal" when scratched. The more galvanizing, the better. Everlast is ten times better at "healing" than galvalume because galvalume hardly "heals" at all when scratched. Also cut edges rust quickly on galvalume.

McMahon's EZ Acres Operation Focuses On Calf Raising

HOMER, N.Y. — From the moment heifer calves are born at McMahon's EZ Acres in Homer, N.Y., there are high expectations for their future. To ensure that the calves become productive replacements in the milking herd, the management team focuses closely on their feeding and care from day one.

"Raising calves is a very important part of our dairy operation, and a key component in our success," said Pete McMahon, who with his brother Mike, owns and operates the 1,200 head Registered Holstein dairy operation. "We are mostly a closed herd. Over 90 percent of our animals are descended from the original eight cows my father started the farm with back in 1957. We've rarely bought outside replacements, which definitely helps economically. We carefully focus on our calf raising to keep it that way."

The primary caretaker of the calves is young stock manager, Jennifer Reynolds, who has spent her entire life on dairy farms, having managed calves on several large operations in Cayuga and Cortland counties. She pays close attention to their feeding and developmental needs, which reults in them growing up faster, healthier, and being ready to perform in the herd more productively.

According to Reynolds, after colostrum is fed, the calves are moved to hutches, where they are fed whole milk. Dry feed is introduced almost immediately.

"At day two or three, I put about a cup of feed in the bottom of the milk pail to get them interested, then slowly increase the amount," said Reynolds. "They really take to it, and after a few more days I offer it to them in addition to the milk. Plus, they have free-choice water."

When she came to work at McMahon's EZ Acres, Reynolds was impressed with the performance of the feed that was being given to the calves. For the past three years, the calves have been fed Pennfield Calf Starter #50209, a molasses-sweetened feed with 18 percent protein, steam flaked corn, steam flaked barley, and medicated with Deccox.

McMahon said he had used pelleted calf feeds in the past, but found that an all-pellet calf feed is okay for older calves, but not for the youngest. "At one point, we tried feeding sweet feed to the younger calves and pellets as they got older. Unfortunately, the transition was not easy. We then tried the Pennfield feed several years ago and like the resulting performance."

Reynolds concurs: "They really like the feed, which helps them gain the weight they need. We are weaning at about 6 weeks, and by then they're eating eight to ten pounds of feed a day."

The calf-raising practices at McMahon's EZ Acres put them ahead of the curve, according to the National Dairy Heifer Evaluation Project (NDHEP). The NDHEP reports that the average age for weaning is just less than 8 weeks. In addition, NDHEP reports that the age at which calves are offered grain, forage, and water will have a great impact on weaning ages, economics, and other outcomes such as calf growth rates.

"Our average weight at weaning is around 200 pounds, with some calves weighing as high as 220 pounds," said Reynolds. "Other operations where I worked used different feeds, and the average weaning weight was 175 to 180 pounds. My care of the calves isn't very different here than at other farms, but the feed is."

At weaning, the calves are moved into the calf barn where they are offered free-choice grain and plenty of fresh, clean water. At eight weeks, they begin with forage, top dressed with the grain. This practice is consistent with those advocated by many nutrition experts, who are proponents of feeding grain early, offering free-choice water and avoiding forage until after weaning, in order to promote rumen development.

"Basically, our calf operation is the major building block for our herd replacement program, which is important for the dairy to thrive. Our calf care and feeding program contributes to the animals growing up faster and healthier," said McMahon, who noted the farm's low calf mortality rate. "With the cost of replacement heifers averaging around $1,800 today, it's good economics to grow from within the herd."

The heifers freshen at 21 months, which is much earlier than the national average of about two years. Additionally, the heifers calve at an average 395-day interval. "Our heifers are ready for this role because they grow faster, with better muscular and skeletal development. How you begin feeding your calves from the start — the feed and when you introduce it — has a major impact on the animals becoming sound, profitable producers."

McMahon added: "We strive to get the heifers into the milking herd as soon as possible. It's important to have the animals producing for the operation rather than costing the operation." The 630-cow milking herd has an impressive rolling herd average of 25,600 pounds.

Turning to his computer, McMahon explained that they have been able to continually grow the herd from within their operation. The farm averages about 300 heifer calves a year and if the cull rate can be kept around 30 percent — which it usually is — the herd size will increase.

The mission statement at McMahon's EZ Acres contains the phrase: "To pursue excellence in the dairy production business." They focus on that pursuit by paying close attention to animal care, feeding, and development, beginning at day one.

Hess Wins AAMP's Highest Honor

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Lloyd Hess, Hess BBQ, and Catering, Willow Street, received the 2003 Annual Achievement Award from the American Association of Meat Processors (AAMP).

The award is the national trade organization's highest honor, which recognizes the honoree's outstanding and continuing contributions to the meat and poultry industry.

Hess received the award in Kansas City, Mo., where he was attending the 64th American Convention of Meat Processors and Suppliers' Exhibition. The meeting is an annual educational event and trade show.

Hess has been an active member of AAMP, the country's largest national meat and poultry trade organization, which represents more than 1700 small and mid-sized meat and poultry firms and served as the technical advisor for the American Cured Meat Championship since 1990.

Northumberland County
This is two farms by same owner which can be sold separately. The one farm of 132 acres is a modern dairy with 153 free stalls and a double 8 DeLaval milking parlor There is room for expansion This farm is level and very fertile They have not needed commercial fertilizer for at least 7 years
The other farm is presently quarter horses, and this land is identical to farm #1. This one has 113 acres with most of it tillable. The residence is unique, having been built in 1803, and #1 was built in 1830. Both have 5 bedrooms and modern baths. There is a 24' by 80' silo on each, as well as many other pluses. The second would make a beautiful beef farm or make a dairy here as well. Priced separately or both together as a package deal. Call today.
Central Northumberland Co. 71 acre Amish equipped dairy farm. The setting is ideal, excellent soils, beautiful 3 bedroom farm house w/modern kitchen, Parquet oak floors and lots of excellent living area. There is a large horse barn, milk stable, implement shed and much more. Let me give you a private tour. You can have settlement now to honor your tax deferred exchange with possession at a later date. I'll handle those details for you. It won't last long - it's priced right.
Bradford County, 2 New Opportunities
I have just listed a large modern dairy with lots of ground. There is multiple housing, great location and the possibility for you to buy a turnkey operation also is a plus. Could be rather quick possession or let's do an IRC 1031 Tax Deferred Exchange and keep your investment intact from the sale of your present property.
Opportunity #2: Over 100 acres of good farmland with bordering woodland and wooded patches rich in game and the elevation for building a hunting lodge or permanent residence surrounded by the farmland and neighboring tracts of woodland makes this a great place for retirement also. Big rack deer, bear and lots of turkey abound. Priced right. It should sell quickly. Call me for a private showing.
